Course description: The entertainment industry, the media, the cultural industries—whatever we call them, these are endeavors that inherently exist in a state of dynamic tension. With other commercial enterprises, they share the imperative of building a customer base, generating revenues and making profits. But they accomplish these goals—or fail to do so—based on the collaborative efforts of creative individuals whose contributions are paramount to the success of the undertaking. These are uniquely people-based businesses, and the people who are drawn to them are attracted by the opportunity to participate in this world of creativity. To the outsider, these employees may seem to be engaged in the production of a commodity, the “content” that everyone who looks at this world as a business now agrees is “king.” But to the individuals on the inside, these industries are more than a little about playing in an arena of story-telling, dreams and magic, and the thrill of having a hand in producing something wonderful that reaches out and touches an audience.

This course explores the strategies of media management within traditional Hollywood media corporations, and it does that with a focus on the notion that most of the people managing in this realm are themselves unique. Very often they have come up from the ranks of those involved in the creative aspects of the entertainment business—because these are businesses that rise and fall based on the results of their creative endeavors.

The class will be focused in the world of television, broadly defined. Issues that will be examined include the growing primacy of cable networks versus broadcast networks, the importance of ownership of programming as opposed to distribution, the upheaval in audience measurement as platforms proliferate, and the remarkable growth in influence of subscription video on demand.

The class will have many opportunities to hear directly from industry leaders about these issues, and about the passion for communicating with audiences that is at the heart of their commitment. Students will follow developments in television and related fields as they occur, relating new approaches to established ways of doing things. And there will be an emphasis on career paths in the many areas of the entertainment industry that offer the chance for participation in the excitement of businesses steeped in creativity.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Guest appearances by high-level professionals in the entertainment industry are an integral part of the course. Among those committed to the class are:

- JoAnn Alfano Executive Vice President, Scripted Programming, NBCUniversal International Television Production
- Kate Juergens Former Executive Vice President, Programming and Development, Chief Creative Officer, ABC Family
- Eric Cardinal Executive Vice President, Research, at the CW Network
- Erin Gough Wehrenberg Senior Vice President, Comedy Development, Warner Brothers Television
- Jonathan Groff Comedy Writer, Showrunner, “Black-ish,” “Happy Endings,” “How I Met Your Mother”
- Beth Roberts Executive Vice President, Business Operations, Cable Entertainment Group, NBC Universal

ABOUT THE PROFESSOR:

Ted Frank is a veteran television executive with more than 30 years served at NBC. During his tenure with the network, he was head of program research, scheduling and current scripted programs. In 2004 he was named Executive Vice President, Current Series, and the next year he became EVP Entertainment Strategy and Programs. He played a central role in the development of the NBC Entertainment Associates Program and the Writers on the Verge program.

Frank is a graduate of Princeton University and holds a Master’s Degree in Communications from the University of Pennsylvania’s Annenberg School of Communications.

ASSIGNMENTS:

Weekly Participation: Students will be expected to keep up-to-date with current developments in the television industry. Appropriate websites for scanning are listed below, but there are others that could serve as well.

  --Deadline Hollywood
  --Los Angeles Times “Company Town”
  --TV by the Numbers
  --Showbuzz Daily

Students will be required to write brief commentaries on some of the articles they have read, with links to the articles. These should only be a paragraph or two, relating the articles to themes from class discussions, assigned readings, or guest speakers. Students should also be prepared to comment on their articles in class if asked to do so.

Note: The instructor will sometimes distribute current articles to the class. Students should write their commentaries on articles they have unearthed themselves, not on these distributed articles.

Group Presentation: Students will be separated into small groups, and each group will be assigned a presentation topic. Groups will research and analyze their subjects and deliver a 15-20 minute presentation in class. They will also prepare a written version of their presentation.

Individual Paper: After the group presentations, students will write individual essays following up with their personal take on the group presentations. These papers should be about 2 pages long. They should not just restate the findings of their groups; they should comment and elaborate on aspects of the group report. They should emphasize different perspectives or even contradict points made in the group report.

Assigned Papers: During the term, students will be assigned two papers in which they will respond to questions posed by the instructor on subjects inspired by guest speaker presentations. Students will submit answers of about one or two pages in length.

Final Essay Exam: Students will have one week to complete a take home exam consisting of essay questions. This exam will draw on class discussions, assignments, lectures, readings, and guest speaker presentations. On this last note, it is recommended that students take notes on speakers.

COURSE GRADING:

15% Weekly Participation
15% Assigned Paper #1
15% Assigned Paper #2
20% Group Presentation
15% Individual Paper
20% Final Essay Exam

CLASS SCHEDULE

Classes will consist of lectures, discussions and appearances by guest speakers. Because of the need for flexibility in scheduling of guest speakers, there will be some fluidity in the class schedule. The schedule below will provide you with an approximation of the layout of the class. Names of specific guest speakers are not slotted into the schedule at this time.

LATE ASSIGNMENTS/EMERGENCIES: No late assignments will be accepted. If you have a legitimate and verifiable emergency that makes it impossible to turn in your assignment on time, you must: (1) email me before the beginning of the class the day the assignment is due to notify me of your emergency, (2) provide official proof (doctor’s note or other evidence) and (3) arrange to email the assignment at a time to be determined.

Statement for Students with Disabilities: Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number for DSP is (213) 740-0776.

Statement on Academic Integrity: USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one’s own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another’s work as one’s own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. Scampus, the Student Guidebook, contains the Student Conduct Code in Section 11.00, while the recommended sanctions are located in Appendix A: http://www.usc.edu/dept/publications/SCAMPUS/gov/. Students will be referred to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs and Community Standards for further review, should there be any suspicion of academic dishonesty. The Review process can be found at: http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/SJACS/.

All work you submit must be your own and you may not inappropriately assist other students in their work beyond the confines of a particular assignment. There is a no-tolerance policy for academic misconduct in this course! The minimum penalty for academic misconduct will be a failing grade (F) for the course – further academic and disciplinary penalties may be assessed.
