I. Course Description
The goal of this course is to inspire you and teach you the practical skills and ethical principles that will allow you to become a responsible investigative reporter – digital, broadcast or print. The focus of the class will be on learning the fundamentals of investigative journalism:

• How to choose a subject for investigation.
• How to identify human sources and persuade them to talk with you on the record.
• How to conduct an interview.
• How to use documents.
• How to organize large amounts of material and present it in a fair and compelling way.
• How to successfully present multimedia elements to your audience.

This class is intended to give you a strong foundation of reporting and writing skills that should allow you to do more interesting stories than most other journalists do. While the focus will be on learning practical skills, you should also develop a better understanding of the principles of the First Amendment and the roles of an investigative journalist in our society. We also will be discussing the practical, ethical and legal aspects of investigative reporting in the context of our rapidly changing media landscape.

We will spend some time learning about the history and traditions of investigative reporting – from the early muckrakers through Edward R. Murrow and Woodward and Bernstein to modern day investigative journalists. There will be outside assignments designed to teach you interviewing skills, the use of court and other public records, journalism ethics, the use of financial and economic databases and other journalism techniques. Some assignments may require going to courthouses and locations in the Los Angeles area where public records are available.

You will also be required to propose, report and write one in-depth digital investigative story, with its primary component being text or video. This story should be at least 2,500 words long and it must include a significant amount of original reporting. You will be expected to write periodic memos about your progress on the project, and to discuss it in class. You should have a topic in mind by mid-February; a draft, which will be graded, is due April 12, with the final rewrite due April 26, the last day of class.

The goal of the semester-long project is to help you learn investigative techniques while pursuing a groundbreaking investigative story. A further goal is to get your project published. I will work with you to help you get your project published in a campus or professional publication.

We will also be discussing strategies for getting good jobs as investigative reporters at newspapers, magazines, online and broadcast organizations.
II. Overall Learning Objectives and Assessment

By the end of the course you should achieve the following:

- Understanding of in-depth and investigative journalism and the role of an investigative reporter.
- Ability to generate story ideas for investigative and in-depth stories.
- Ability to identify and develop human sources.
- Ability to conduct in-depth interviews.
- Ability to identify and use documents and databases - both electronic and paper.
- Understanding of, and ability to use, the federal Freedom of Information Act and state open records and meetings laws.
- Ability to organize large amounts of material.
- Ability to write and present in-depth material in a compelling way.
- Ability to plan for photos and graphics to illustrate in-depth stories.
- Ability to work in collaboration with other journalists, as part of a team reporting effort.
- Sensitivity to diversity issues in reporting and writing in-depth and investigative stories.
- Commitment to accuracy and fair play. Understanding of ethical issues involved in investigative reporting.

III. Description of Assignments

There will be a variety of assignments:

- In-class assignments: Research and writing assignments to be completed during class.
- Weekly assignments: Research and writing assignments to be completed by the specified deadline, usually prior to the following class period.
- Final project: An in-depth investigative story presented in digital, broadcast or text format.

You should begin thinking immediately about the topic of your final project, which must be submitted for approval as indicated. After that week, you are expected to file weekly updates on your reporting progress and plans for your project. Part of your final project grade is based on the quality of these updates and the critical thinking you demonstrate in investigating your subject.

You will submit your Final Project at three times: as a rough draft for in-class review; as a completed Final Project for presentation in class (this version is worth 40 percent of your course grade); and a rewrite (this version is worth 10 percent of your course grade).

IV. Grading

a. Breakdown of Grade

Your grade will be determined by the quality of your assignments and your participation in class:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Points</th>
<th>% of Grade</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Final project</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final project draft</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Other assignments</td>
<td>100 each</td>
<td>40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Class participation</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL</td>
<td></td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
b. Grading Scale
Projects will generally be assigned a letter grade, which is then converted to a numeric grade.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Letter Grade</th>
<th>Numeric Grade</th>
<th>Letter Grade</th>
<th>Numeric Grade</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>95 to 100</td>
<td>C+</td>
<td>70 to less than 75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B+</td>
<td>85 to less than 90</td>
<td>C-</td>
<td>60 to less than 65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B</td>
<td>80 to less than 85</td>
<td>D+</td>
<td>55 to less than 60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B-</td>
<td>75 to less than 80</td>
<td>D</td>
<td>50 to less than 55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C</td>
<td>70 to less than 75</td>
<td>C+</td>
<td>70 to less than 75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C-</td>
<td>65 to less than 70</td>
<td>C-</td>

<td>50 to less than 55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>0 to less than 45</td>
<td>F</td>
<td>0 to less than 45</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The above grading scale should be used to assign a grade to each assignment. This grade may then be converted to a numeric grade by the formula: letter grade x 100 / 95.

c. Grading Standards
All assignments will be graded on a professional basis and you will be graded first on the accuracy, fairness and objectivity of your stories. You will then be evaluated for broadcast style, editing, production value, originality and the ability to meet deadlines. All assignments will be judged on completeness and professionalism. All work should conform to AP style.

“A” stories are accurate, clear, comprehensive stories that are well written and require only minor copyediting (i.e., they would be aired or published). Video work must also be shot and edited creatively, be well paced and include good sound bites and natural sound that add flavor, color or emotion to the story.

“B” stories require more than minor editing and have a few style or spelling errors or one significant error of omission. For video, there may be minor flaws in the composition of some shots or in the editing. Good use of available sound bites is required.

“C” stories need considerable editing or rewriting and/or have many spelling, style or omission errors. Camera work and editing techniques in video stories are mediocre or unimaginative, but passable. Sound bites add little or no color - only information that could be better told in the reporter’s narration.

“D” stories require excessive rewriting, have numerous errors and should not have been submitted. Camera work is unsatisfactory or fails to show important elements.

“F” stories have failed to meet the major criteria of the assignment, are late, have numerous errors or both. Your copy should not contain any errors in spelling, style, grammar and facts. Any misspelled or mispronounced proper noun will result in an automatic “F” on that assignment. Any factual error will also result in an automatic “F” on the assignment. Accuracy is the first law of journalism. The following are some other circumstances that would warrant a grade of “F” and potential USC/Annenberg disciplinary action:

- Fabricating a story or making up quotes or information.
- Plagiarizing a script/article, part of a script/article or information from any source.
- Staging video or telling interview subjects what to say.
- Using video shot by someone else and presenting it as original work.
- Shooting video in one location and presenting it as another location.
- Using the camcorder to intentionally intimidate, provoke or incite a person or a group of people to elicit more “dramatic” video.
- Promising, paying or giving someone something in exchange for doing an interview either on or off camera.
- Missing a deadline.
V. Assignment Submission Policy
A. All assignments are due on the dates specified. Lacking prior discussion and agreement with the instructor, late assignments will automatically be given a grade of F.
B. Written assignments should be sent by email, as Word attachments, to david.medzerian@usc.edu. Please make sure your name and contact information is on all attachments.
C. Multimedia assignments should be submitted as specified for each individual assignment.

VI. Required Readings and Supplementary Materials

Additional required reading: There will frequently be additional reading material, usually distributed online. Much of this material will be investigative stories/case studies. You will be expected to read this material, and bring in written questions about it.

Other resources: If you need access to broadcast equipment or Web-server space not accessible to you through another class or learning lab, please work with your instructor as soon as possible.

News consumption: It goes without saying that you should read a daily newspaper every day, review online news resources daily and be familiar with daily news broadcasts.

VII. Laptop Policy
All undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors are required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Virtual Commons for more information. To connect to USC’s Secure Wireless network, please visit USC’s Information Technology Services website.

VIII. Course Schedule: A Weekly Breakdown
Important note to students: Be advised that this syllabus is subject to change - and probably will change - based on the progress of the class, news events, and/or guest speaker availability.

IX. Policies and Procedures

Attendance

Attendance is expected for every class. Notify me in advance by email if you are going to be absent because of illness, a family emergency or any other reason. Unexcused absences will be reflected in your participation grade.

Tardiness is unacceptable. If you expect to be more than 15 minutes late to class, please stay home.

Class protocol

This is a professional degree program. As such, students are expected to deal with each other and with me in a collegial manner. That means you should immediately talk to your instructor if you have any concerns about the course, grading, fellow students, the length of time it takes to get back graded assignments, etc.
Laptops, tablets and cellphones
Information communication technologies are a part of the modern education landscape. Students are welcome to use laptop computers or tablet devices in the classroom for purposes relevant to the class lesson and furthering discussion. However, out of consideration for the learning environment and fellow classmates, you should refrain from extraneous activities such as instant messaging, gaming or other online services.

At times the instructor may ask that laptops and other devices be put away. Please honor such requests.

Internships
The value of professional internships as part of the overall educational experience of our students has long been recognized by the School of Journalism. Accordingly, while internships are not required for successful completion of this course, any student enrolled in this course that undertakes and completes an approved, non-paid internship during this semester shall earn academic extra credit herein of an amount equal to 1 percent of the total available semester points for this course. To receive instructor approval, a student must request an internship letter from the Annenberg Career Development Office and bring it to the instructor to sign by the end of the third week of classes. The student must submit the signed letter to the media organization, along with the evaluation form provided by the Career Development Office. The form should be filled out by the intern supervisor and returned to the instructor at the end of the semester. No credit will be given if an evaluation form is not turned into the instructor by the last day of class. Note: The internship must by unpaid and can only be applied to one journalism class.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems
a. Academic Conduct
Plagiarism
Presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words - is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards https://scampus.usc.edu/b/11-00-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions/. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity
The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.

b. Support Systems
Equity and Diversity
Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity http://equity.usc.edu/ or to the Department of Public Safety http://dps.usc.edu/contact/report/. This is important for the safety of the whole USC community. Another member of the university community - such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member - can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/ provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage https://sarc.usc.edu/ describes reporting options and other resources.

Support with Scholarly Writing
A number of USC’s schools provide support for students who need help with scholarly writing. Check with your advisor or program staff to find out more. Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute http://ali.usc.edu/ which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students.

The Office of Disability Services and Programs http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations.

Students requesting test-related accommodations will need to share and discuss their DSP recommended accommodation letter/s with their faculty and/or appropriate departmental contact person at least three weeks before the date the accommodations will be needed. Additional time may be needed for final exams. Reasonable exceptions will be considered during the first three weeks of the semester as well as for temporary injuries and for students recently diagnosed. Please note that a reasonable period of time is still required for DSP to review documentation and to make a determination whether a requested accommodation will be appropriate.

Stress Management
Students are under a lot of pressure. If you start to feel overwhelmed, it is important that you reach out for help. A good place to start is the USC Student Counseling Services office at 213-740-7711. The service is confidential, and there is no charge.

Emergency Information
If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information http://emergency.usc.edu/ will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of Blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technology.

X. About Your Instructor

David Medzerian is a veteran journalist and educator with extensive digital, print and broadcast experience. As a reporter at The Miami Herald, he led coverage of a series of scandals involving the city of Sunrise, Fla., resulting in the mayor’s trial and removal from office. At The Orange County Register, he served in roles ranging from homepage editor, web analytics specialist and webcast host to systems expert, design team leader and even Local Section columnist. He’s been an on-air correspondent for the Orange County NewsChannel, a news production assistant with CBS and part of the launch team at Knight-Ridder’s groundbreaking Viewtron project, and has spoken on news systems and online integration around the country and internationally. He is currently Managing Editor/News at USC, overseeing the USC News website and university home page. He has been teaching at Annenberg since 2003.
