Introduction and Course Objective

Interpersonal Influence and Power is an elective course designed to help you acquire the knowledge, skills, and strategies necessary to make a lasting impact in the world. Courses on power are among the most sought-after electives in top business schools due to the simple fact that power dynamics are pervasive in organizations and because those wishing to achieve personal goals or champion new ideas must be savvy about how power and influence work. The purpose of this course is to prepare you for your path to power. You will learn how to recognize and deal effectively with the dynamics you encounter throughout your career as well as think deeply about and identify the unique approach to power and influence that is the strongest fit for you.

Learning Objectives

Although a popular elective, this course is not for everyone. It requires high commitment and engagement, both inside and outside of class. It requires an open mind and a willingness to explore concepts that are new and uncomfortable. It is a good fit for those who have a passion to make a difference in the world and who are willing to explore new and challenging ideas along the way.

- Global Objective
  - Gain knowledge, skills, and strategies related to power and influence that will help you become effective and impactful in your career of choice.

- Detailed Objectives
  - Learn to see the world differently. After the course, you will be able to recognize power dynamics and assess the effectiveness of various decisions that people (including yourself) make. You will also be able to identify alternative actions and opportunities that would have been more/less likely to lead to power.
  - Learn to act differently. After the course, you will have a personal strategic plan that will help you identify and develop your own personal path to power. The path that you choose will be a good fit for you based on your individual strengths, professional goals, and personal values. You will also have new skills, such as acting and speaking with power, that you tried out throughout the class and that you will continue to hone throughout your career.
  - Develop a healthy respect for power and how it changes people over time. You will learn the benefits as well as the costs and pitfalls associated with the pursuit of power, and incorporate this knowledge into your personal plan.
Required Materials

- Power: Why Some People Have It – And Others Don’t, Jeffrey Pfeffer, HarperCollins 2010 (may be purchased online or from the USC bookstore)
- Course Reader (purchase from the USC bookstore)

Course Notes: Additional class information is available through your Blackboard account.

ASSIGNMENTS AND GRADING DETAIL

Self-Reflective Assignments (20%). Individual, self-reflective writing assignments will be assigned 4 times throughout the semester. These assignments are an integral part of the course and designed to help you explore the content of the course in the context of your own plans, objectives, values, and experiences. Previous experience suggests that, if taken seriously, these self-reflective assignments are among the most useful aspects of the course. The assignments are due (hard copies, not emailed) at the start of the class for which they are assigned. As long as you complete the assignment on time and have put in adequate effort and reflection, you will receive full credit. Late papers (including those turned in after the start of class) will not be accepted. If you must miss class, submit your assignment to me via email before it is due. The schedule (and descriptions) of the assignments is listed in this syllabus. Each assignment is worth 5% of your total grade.

Group Project (20%). The group project is described in an addendum at the end of the syllabus. The goal of the project is to have you explore the ideas of the course in a real-world setting. Learning by doing and through intensive involvement results in greater mastery and retention of the material than more passive forms of learning. I encourage you to take the group project seriously and have some fun with it to explore the ideas of the course. You may wish to use the group project to study people in other countries—to test whether or not the principles learned in the class are generalizable. You may wish to use the group project to build relationships in sectors or industries where you want to work, as well as to learn more about interesting people. Group projects are due at the beginning of class on December 1. Late projects will not be graded and will earn zero credit. Note: you may also wish to use your group as a study team throughout the semester, meeting to discuss case readings, compare notes, study for the final, etc. Up to you.

Influence Exercises (22.5%). To fully benefit from the content in this course, you must be willing to apply it. Toward this end, you will be required to complete three influence exercises throughout the semester. In each case, you will be asked to a) apply a concept or tool from the class (more detail will be provided in class) and b) write a brief (1-2 pages, single-spaced) account of your experience and what you learned from it. Deadlines for the assignments are indicated on the class calendar. Assignments will include 1) a relational meeting with a peer; 2) the giving exercise; and 3) an interview with a high-status person. Each exercise is worth 7.5% of your grade.

Class Participation (12.5%). You will only get out of this course as much as you put into it. Your class participation grade will reflect both class attendance and the quality of your involvement in the class’s activities and discussions. Near-perfect, on-time attendance is expected. If you must miss a class session during the semester, please inform me ahead of time and explain why you must miss. Otherwise, you are expected to come to each class prepared for discussion, having completed that day’s required reading and prepared insightful comments you plan to make in class. Since I frequently cold call, please avoid embarrassment by telling me before class if you are not prepared.

Final (22.5%). The final exam will contain a mix of multiple-choice and short essay questions. The best way to study is to do all the assigned readings on time and keep notes on the readings and class discussions. The goal is for you to create a valuable set of notes you can return to time and again throughout your career.

MARSHALL GUIDELINES

Add/Drop Process

In compliance with USC and Marshall’s policies, classes are open enrollment (R-clearance) through the first week of class. All classes are closed (switched to D-clearance) at the end of the first week. This policy minimizes the complexity of the registration process for students by standardizing across classes. I can drop you from my class if you don’t attend the first two sessions. Please note: If you decide to drop, or if you choose not to attend the first two sessions and are dropped, you risk being not being able to add to another section this semester, since they might reach capacity. You can only add a class after the first week of classes if you receive approval from the instructor.

Technology Policy

Laptop, smartphone, and Internet usage is not permitted during class, as such activities serve as a distraction from the course content. Use of personal communication devices, such as cell phones, is considered unprofessional and is not permitted during class. ALL e-devices (cell phones, PDAs, I-Phones, Blackberries, other texting devices, laptops, I-pods) must be completely turned off during class time. Please let me know ahead of time if this will be a problem for you.

Retention of Graded Coursework

Coursework will be returned or available for pickup by students (in the case of Final Projects) upon request. Returned paperwork, unclaimed by a student, will be discarded after 4 weeks and will therefore not be available should a grade appeal be pursued following receipt of his/her grade. It is students’ responsibility to file and retain returned coursework.

Statement for Students with Disabilities

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number for DSP is (213) 740-0776.
Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards https://scampus.usc.edu/1100-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity http://equity.usc.edu or to the Department of Public Safety http://capsnet.usc.edu/department/department-public-safety/online-forms/contact-us. This is important for the safety of the whole USC community. Another member of the university community – such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member – can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/ provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage http://sarc.usc.edu describes reporting options and other resources.

Support Systems

Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute http://dornsife.usc.edu/ali, which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students. The Office of Disability Services and Programs www.usc.edu/disability provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations. If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information http://emergency.usc.edu will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technology.

Emergency Preparedness/Course Continuity

In case of emergency, and travel to campus is difficult, USC executive leadership will announce an electronic way for instructors to teach students in their residence halls or homes using a combination of Blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technologies. Instructors should be prepared to assign students a "Plan B" project that can be completed at a distance. For additional information about maintaining your classes in an emergency please access: http://cst.usc.edu/services/emergencyprep.html

Incomplete Grades

In incomplete (IN) grade may be assigned due to an “emergency” that occurs after the 12th week of classes. An “emergency” is defined as a serious documented illness, or an unforeseen situation that is beyond the student’s control, that prevents a student from completing the semester. Prior to the 12th week, the student still has the option of dropping the class. Arrangements for completing an IN course should be initiated by the student, and negotiated with the instructor. Class work to complete the course should be completed within one calendar year from the date the IN was assigned. The IN mark will be converted to an F grade should the course not be completed.

DETAILED SESSION INFORMATION

Reminders: Jeffrey Pfeffer’s “Power: Why Some People Have it – And Others Don’t” is a required text. Other reading assignments will be included in the course reader, which is also required, or a link will be provided in the syllabus and on Blackboard. Adequate preparation for class includes reading all assigned readings before that session’s class meeting.

FRI, AUG 25:

Introduction to the Course

Assigned readings:
- Course syllabus
- Case: Keith Ferrazzi
- Pfeffer, Introduction and Ch. 1

FRI, SEPT 1:

Find Your Purpose

Assigned readings:

Reflective Assignment 1:

- Identifying and pursuing a sense of purpose in your personal and professional life facilitates power and influence. Moreover, it guides how you gain and use power, keeping you on track to achieve the type of impact you’d like to make in the world. In contrast, lacking a clear understanding of your purpose can hinder your career as well as lead you down a path you never intended to travel. Reflect on your goals, values, and ambitions and write a 1-page reflection that describes your purpose. Avoid simply listing abstract goals, such as “find happiness” or “become successful.” Everyone wants those things. Instead, identify the unique values and achievements that would allow you to truly feel fulfilled and satisfied. Also, avoid simply identifying roles you could fill, such as “CEO” or “Consultant.” Instead, provide answers to the following: Who do you want to be? What do you want to do with the power and influence you gain throughout your career; why are these values and goals important to you?

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.

FRI, SEPT 8:

Manage the Self

Assigned readings:
- Tony Schwartz and Catherine McCarthy, “Manage Your Energy, Not Your Time”
- Case: Nuria Chinchilla: The power to change workplaces.
- Pfeffer, Ch. 2

Reflective Assignment 2 (complete Part 1 of the assignment before you do the reading):
Part 1: Reflect on the success you’ve had so far in your life. Then, write a one page essay about the particular aspects of your personality, skills and abilities, and “character” that you believe have been central in helping you get ahead in life. In other words, describe the personal attributes, qualities, and abilities you possess that you believe have made (and will make) you effective in obtaining your goals.

Part 2: After completing the essay for Part 1, read Ch. 2 from Pfeffer’s Power. Below your essay, in the same document, make a list of the dimensions he highlighted in the chapter and rate yourself on those dimensions on a 1-5 scale (where 1 means you possess little of the attribute and 5 means you possess a lot of it). Include these ratings with Part 1 when turning in the assignment.

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.

FRI, SEPT 15:

See the Situation

Assigned readings:
- “The Melian Dialogue”, from Thucydides’ History of the Peloponnesian War.
  NOTE: READ THE MELIAN DIALOGUE TWICE IN PREPARATION FOR CLASS
- Pfeffer, Ch. 3-5

FRI, SEPT 22:

Build Your Network: Part 1

Assigned readings:
- Case: Built on Grit: h.wood and John Terzian
- Pfeffer, Ch. 6

Reflective Assignment 3:

- It is useful to think about how we spend our time, with whom, and how our contacts and networks are (or are not) consistent with where we might need to build our power base. Write a one- or two-page essay in which you consider the following questions:
  - With whom do you spend the most time? Why?
  - Given your career ambitions and what you want to accomplish in your life, who (not necessarily by name, but by position or location in the social space) are the most important individuals for you to build relationships with?
  - What is the structure of your network? Do you occupy many “brokerage” positions? If so, which ones, and how have you come to occupy them? Do you have lots of “weak ties” or connections to people who can provide you nonredundant information? Are you central in any networks?
  - What are the barriers that prevent you from building the network you need?
  - Considering your answers to the above questions, what might you do differently if you wanted to increase your influence and build a more effective network?

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.
FRI, SEPT 29:

Build Your Network: Part 2

Assigned readings:

FRI, OCT 6:

Assert Influence: Techniques and Tactics

Assigned readings:

Influence Exercise #1 (relational meeting)

- Prepare a brief (1 page, single-spaced) report of your relational meeting. The meeting can be with someone currently at USC (non-USC is equally fine), but it may not be another student in this class and may not be a person you already know or interact with frequently. In your paper, describe the meeting and then provide a detailed account of: (1) what you learned about the person, (2) what worked well for you in the meeting, (3) what you would do differently if you could do it over, and (4) what benefits and follow-up, if any, might emerge from the relationship. You will be graded on the quality of effort put into the meeting and the quality and depth of your written analysis.

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.

FRI, OCT 13:

*Meet in the ELC in JKP (JKP 301)

FRI, OCT 20:

Assert Influence: Acting With Power

Assigned readings:
- Pfeffer, Ch. 7-8

Influence Exercise #2 (5-minute favors)

- The purpose of this exercise is to call forth your inner “giver” and reflect on the experience of helping others. I will provide a description of the assignment in class and you will have a week to provide five 5-minute favors. Prepare a brief (1-2 pages, single-spaced) report of your experience. Describe each of the encounters, including (1) the help you provided, (2) what happened as a result of the help you gave, (3) how it felt to you, and (4) what lessons you learned from the experience.

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.
FRI, OCT 27:

Make it Stick: Building Power by Standing Out

Assigned readings:
- Pfeffer, Ch. 9-10

FRI, NOV 3:

*Meet in the ELC in JKP (JKP 301)

Influence Exercise #3 (interview)

- Identify a high-profile individual who has achieved a high level of success in a particular domain. This might be a younger person (e.g., from the Forbes 30-under-30 list) or a more established leader or executive. Look for someone who has unique knowledge and expertise that could help others become more successful. Reach out to the person and set up an interview (in-person is best, but skype, phone, or email is acceptable depending on the location and status of person you are interviewing). From the interview construct a brief (1-2 pages, single-spaced) report of the key lesson (or lessons, if more than one) that the person shared with you. Describe the lesson/s (much of it can be in the person’s own words, if desired) and provide examples from the person’s own experience that illustrates the lesson/s. Finish by articulating how you and others in the class might use this as a means to be more effective.

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.

FRI, NOV 10:

Make it Stick: Garnering Resources and Leading Change

Assigned readings:
- Case: Dr. Laura Esserman

FRI, NOV 17:

Make it Stick: How Power is Lost (and Kept)

Assigned readings:
- Case Jeffrey Sonnenfeld: The fall from grace

Fourth Individual Assignment:

- Write an “aspirational obituary” in which you write down all the things you hope you will have achieved and done with your life once all is said and done. It can be in bullet point form if you prefer. When you finish, look over what you have written and then write answers to the following questions:
Given what I wrote, am I on the right track? Am I satisfied with the direction in which my career and life is currently headed?

Am I happy with the impact (both magnitude and quality) I’ve had in the world?

Am I creating a legacy I’m happy with?

What’s missing from my life, if anything? What might I need to do in order to achieve my aspirational obituary?

- Next, please prepare a one-page “development plan” that specifies what, specifically, you plan to do—both now and in the future—to develop skills and competencies in power and influence that you want to build. Please bring two written copies—one to turn in and one to use in a peer coaching exercise.

* Bring a hard copy of the assignment to turn in at the beginning of class.

FRI, NOV 24:

NO CLASS – THANKSGIVING BREAK

FRI, DEC 1:

Course Overview and Group Presentations

Assigned readings:

- Pfeffer, Ch. 11-13

Group projects due at beginning of class

WED, DEC 6:

Final exam, Wed., 12/6, 11:00am-1:00pm
GROUP PROJECT ASSIGNMENT AND INSTRUCTIONS

1) You will form a group consisting of 4-5 people.

2) No later than Sept. 29, please let me know who your group has chosen as its focus for the project. Do so by emailing me with the person’s name and why he/she would be a good person to study on or before Sept 29.

Your assignment is to do “field research” on how individuals obtain and exercise influence, as a way of seeing how the material from the class is, or could be, put into use. Power becomes more visible and is exercised more clearly where there is opposition, where something needs to get done and resistance must be overcome. Think carefully about that in choosing the focus for your project.

Your “subject” should be someone who is either a) relatively early in his or her career and is “similar” in some respects to who you are or who you desire to become, or b) someone who has already reached achieved a great deal of power as a means to achieve his/her mission. Ideally, the person will be someone that you can interview and, even better, perhaps gather some insights from talking to her or his colleagues and others. Past graduates from USC who are doing exceptionally well or, alternatively, who have had problems because of political issues, would be ideal as the focus of your analysis (please, no USC profs). If you have questions about whether or not a specific individual would be appropriate, please feel free to ask me after class or via email.

In thinking about how to write the analysis and do the project, you can (but don’t have to) use one or all of the organizing themes of the course as a guide. You could consider rating the person’s strengths and weaknesses in each dimension (e.g., purpose, manage the self, see the situation, etc.). You might want to articulate how this person overcame opposition and resistance. You could analyze how the individual prepared himself or herself for the path to power. You could illustrate how the person lost power, or, alternatively, what he/she did to hold onto power against significant opposition and challenges. You could analyze how some individual established a domain, by acquiring resources, attracting allies, and so forth.

Length is not the defining characteristic of a good analysis. Try to concisely cover the material (using exhibits as needed). Use analysis and insight to convey what you have learned and discovered.

3) Final written projects are due at the beginning of class on Fri., December 1.

4) You must be prepared to present your findings to the class in a 10-12 minute presentation on Fri., December 1. Feel free to be creative in how you choose to present (multimedia, short video clips, reenactments, etc.).

TO MAKE THE ASSIGNMENT MORE INTERESTING, USEFUL, AND SUCCESSFUL:

a) Use as many sources of information as possible—archives, interviews with the individual and others, public sources (if available). In other words, to the extent possible, triangulate to get the most valid information possible. In particular, the subject of your paper is likely to provide information that is at least unintentionally (and possibly intentionally) biased and self-serving.

b) Please proofread your paper to eliminate typographical errors.

c) Include sources. If you have relied on sources, particularly published sources, and particularly if there is a direct quote, please provide a footnote indicating the source.
