COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course focuses on the specific skills needed for strategic and organizational communication consulting.

Communication consulting is different from strategic or management consulting although communication consultants often work to support the implementation of the strategies of management consultants. Communication consulting often involves the actual writing of communication media, but it also includes such diverse elements as meeting design and facilitation, organizational communication, executive coaching, strategic communication analysis and messaging, large-scale communication event planning and execution, and training.

This class is designed to facilitate learning-by-doing. It is as much a workshop as it is a graduate class. While the professor will present material throughout the semester, much of your learning in this class will come from your consulting engagement. You will find at times that the work you are doing for your client will require you to read ahead in the text, do outside research, or meet with the professor. You will learn as much or more from your individual and group work as you do from your instructor.

Note: This class requires the final project binder be turned in – in hard copy – on December 7 by 6:30 PM. You will turn it in to the ASC Facilities Office on the first floor of ASC.

GOALS:

- To understand the consulting processes and skills for successful communication consulting.
- To understand and be able to use the basic communication consulting methodologies.
- To be able to use both academic and original research to create recommendations for a consulting engagement.
- To be able to design and conduct a strategic facilitation intervention.
- To understand how to assess the communication requirements for a specific engagement.
COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

- There are six required texts. Other literature will be available on Blackboard as needed. Some of these will be optional, others required.
- Required readings are to be prepared prior to class and will be the subject of short written assignments. While there will be opportunity for both question and discussion of the texts, the assigned reading material will not be the subject of lecture. Reading the optional readings is highly recommended as they round off the required readings and aid in the understanding of the broader context.
- Active participation in class is expected and, along with attendance, will be included in the final grade. Students absent more than once must make an appointment with and provide an explanation to the course instructor in case of any further absence. Attendance will be taken every class session. If you are not going to be in class you are expected to email the instructor in advance.

GRADING:

There are five components of the final grade:

- Final team consulting project 325 points
- Final project peer review evaluations 75 points
- Four 500-word reading reaction papers 100 points (25 points each including one rewrite)
- Applied research mid-term paper 150 points
- Short facilitation or training project 50 points
- Class participation 75 points

Total 800 points

Note: Class participation involves attendance, participation in discussions and contributions to in-class projects

GROUP PROJECTS:

The Group Project will be a complete consulting project providing consulting services to an organization. You will pick your own teams. Teams will be made up of no fewer than five and no more than six people. The client can be a for-profit or a non-profit entity. The professor will invite potential clients to pitch to the class on the second night of the semester. The consulting engagement will encompass all of the steps of a consulting engagement: problem identification, proposal, statement of work, budgeting (although no fees will be collected), assessment and engagement, research (including original research as well as academic literature), implementation plan, and final report binder. Groups will turn in the proposal, statement of work and budget the 5th week of class, September 22. A 15 minute status presentation will be due November 3. The final report is due at the end of the semester. There will be both an oral presentation and a binder. All members of the project team must participate in every element of the consulting project. Between the status report and the final oral presentation, every member of the group must have participated in presenting. Each of these segments will be included in the grading of the final project deliverable.

Group Project presentations will be due during the last two weeks of the semester.

Each group will produce a project binder and a 20-minute presentation. The binder will include the following sections:

1. A 10-page engagement summary that describes the engagement from beginning to end. How did it evolve? What did you learn? What was difficult? How did you engage with the clients? What were your insights? What do you think of your ability to assist the client?
2. The initial proposal and any subsequent amendments
3. Statement of work including all changes over time
4. Estimated and actual final budget (this part is not given to the client)
5. An assessment/research plan
6. Time sheets
7. Meeting notes (including teleconferences)
8. Research materials and results (this will include summaries of the academic literature results from the individual mid-terms as well as the original research conducted by the team). You do not need to include the mid-term papers.
9. All client communications, including emails
10. Collateral materials produced for the client
11. Any other material you deem necessary

Presentation dates will be assigned randomly the night of the status reports. All students are expected to be in class for both presentation nights. Absence will be reflected in the participation grade.

Group Projects will be graded upon the proposal, problem analysis, engagement management, research, consulting skill application, final oral presentation, and presentation materials. Creativity is always a plus. Each member is expected to participate fully in all aspects of the project, including the final presentation.

Note: If a group is having difficulty with a member who is not participating fully, you are expected first to attempt to work the problem yourselves. If this is not successful, you are expected to bring the issue to professor immediately. Waiting to bring this to the instructor’s attention until the end of the semester will impact the grades of the entire team.

LITERATURE APPLICATION PAPER—MIDTERM:

Due October 26 at 6:30 PM via Blackboard Turnitin
This is an individual assignment based on your consulting team project. You will write a 5-page paper drawing from two or three (no more) peer-reviewed academic articles to address one of the research questions that need to be answered for your client engagement. The research questions for the entire team must be approved at the same time by the professor. Basically, you are looking for theory, research, and evidence to inform your client recommendations.

Late submissions will be penalized 10% per day of delay.

The paper will utilize research from peer reviewed academic journals only. The paper will be written in APA format and failure to follow APA style guidelines will result in a lowered grade.

REACTION PAPERS:

Each reaction paper should be 500 words, Arial 12 point type, and 1-inch margins, double-spaced. The paper must be submitted via Blackboard Turnitin by 6:30PM the night it is due. You do not need to use full APA formatting (i.e., no title page required, no references necessary) but you must use APA style for in-text citations. If you need a quick reference guide for APA style citations, please use this website:

http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/560/01/

It is important that you do your in-text citations correctly as this may affect your reaction paper grade.

Do remember to put your name on the first page.

One reaction paper will be required to be re-written after you have received graded feedback from the professor. You will submit to Turnitin both the original paper and the revised paper as one file.

Reaction paper 1 (DUE: Week 4, Sept. 14): Using chapters 5 & 6 from DeWine, how would you explain to a client the importance and the value of research for identifying communication issues and problems and for determining causes and potential solutions? This is not to be written for your client. It is a description of the arguments and approaches you would take.

Reaction paper 2 (DUE: Week 7, Oct. 5): Using the Block Flawless Consulting Fieldbook & Companion, compare and contrast two approaches that could be used in the work you do for your client (NOTE: there must be variety among your team members). This means taking two different approaches in two different chapters and analyzing how this might be used (not that you will necessarily use it) to address your client’s engagement issue. Submission is due 6:30PM October 5 via Blackboard Turnitin.

Reaction paper 3
First Draft Due in hard copy October 19. It will be used during the writing module. Final copy is due via Turnitin: Week 11, Nov. 2): Using the readings to date, what do you think have been the biggest challenges with your client engagement and how does this inform your perspective on consulting in general?

NOTE: First Draft of this paper is to be brought to class

Reaction paper 4 Revision
Due no later than Nov. 30 via Turnitin. NOTE: You may turn the paper in earlier.

Good writing requires the ability to revise based upon feedback. Choose one of your reaction papers and rewrite it taking into account the comments from the professor. You may choose any of your reaction papers. No papers will be accepted after November 30. You must include the original paper with the revision as one file.

Rebecca Weintraub has spent more than thirty-five years in the field of strategic communication, executive coaching, facilitation, change management, and organizational behavior. She began her career as an assistant professor at California State Polytechnic University at Pomona (Cal Poly Pomona) where she was also the Director of Forensics. She then joined the Hughes Aircraft company, which became Hughes Electronics, where over a fifteen-year period she held a number of positions in communication and total quality in the satellite manufacturing division before becoming Director of Corporate Communications for the Corporation, a position she held for five years. In that position she was responsible for communication strategy and tactics for the corporation as well as providing executive coaching for a variety of Hughes executives. She left Hughes Electronics to join the consulting firm of Towers Perrin where she focused on strategic organizational communication, health and welfare benefits communication strategy, and change management. Her clients included Northrop Grumman, MGM, Mazda, AstraZeneca Pharmaceuticals, WellPoint Health Systems, and the L.A. Times.

Dr. Weintraub is currently a Professor of Communication at USC in the Annenberg School for Communication where she is both the Director of the Communication Management Master’s Degree Program and the Director of the Center for Corporate and Community Education. She teaches strategic organizational and corporate communication classes in that program. Her Strategic Corporate Communication course is Annenberg’s only on-line course for which she was awarded the 2004 Best On-line Teaching award for higher education by the US Distance Learning Association. In addition to her teaching, she provides strategic communication planning, presentation, executive coaching, management training, and facilitation consulting services to organizations in the public, private, and non-profit sectors. Her clients have included such organizations as Toyota Motor Sales, Fox Networks, the Dental Health Foundation, Mindjet, the County of Los Angeles, the US Navy, the National Park Service, and the Redondo Beach Unified School District. She has given talks on leadership communication to senior leaders of companies such as NRG and AECOM. In addition to her consulting work, she serves on the Board of Directors of The Wellness Community South Bay, a cancer support and education organization. Formerly she served on the California Communication Council for the American Cancer Society and the Yellowstone Park Foundation Advisory Council.

Dr. Weintraub received her Bachelor’s degree from UCLA and her Master’s and Ph.D. degrees from USC. She roots for whoever is winning at halftime.
