Course Description
The course explores the cultures and characteristics of people of Asian descent both historically and in contemporary times via dramatic and cinematic arts. Idiosyncrasies, foods, customs, gender, generation, and acculturation all come under the microscope as students delve into Asian consciousnesses from the Far East to the Middle East and U.S. nationwide.

Learning Objectives
The course, via plays and films, will encourage a deeper understanding of the diversity within the Asian diaspora; and how that diversity is reflected powerfully in stage and film. Plays, film, and television can be important documents of history, particularly cultural history in the United States, which often focuses on Euro-centric cultures and diminishes or sidesteps cultures of color in the human narrative.

Prerequisite(s): None
Co-Requisite(s): None
Concurrent Enrollment: None

(1) The course is intended to provide connectivity. The student will better appreciate the connection between plays and films, and their representations of culture, linking this artistry with sociopolitical histories and actualities. In exploring representations of multiple dimensions of Asian and Asian American culture, the course will allow students to understand how the plays and films build bridges of understanding between the Asian Diaspora and non-Asian people in the United States and globally. (2) The course will provide context. By confronting the artistry of plays and films, students will be able to see the powerful roles that drama can play in connecting with various historical, theoretical, and aesthetic dimensions of humankind both past and present within the multiethnic nexus of the Asian Diaspora. (3) The course will provide engagement via the reading and viewing of dramas that explore Asian and Asian American identity. Students will be able to engage in some materials that will expose them directly to the contemporary within the area of focus, thereby encouraging understanding that can have a direct impact on their interest in the art of theatre. (4) The course will provide analysis. The student will be able to analyze the representations of various aspects of culture and identity within the plays and films, using shared vocabulary and focusing on the formal execution of character within the worlds of the plays and films, both supported by traditional and non-traditional research. The course will include three analytical essays, as well as a mid-term examination and a final examination. The course also will include a “making art” aspect.

Course Notes
Each semester the course will focus on one or more Asian cultures.

Learning objectives shall be met via reading of plays, lectures, guest artists, and a field trip on October 29, 2017, 3-7 pm (1500-1900) for which students will have to purchase a theatre ticket at a student discount.

Announcements and related materials will be posted to Blackboard as well as given in class and noted in this syllabus. Students must check email and Blackboard regularly, which means at least once every 24 hours for email and at least once a week for Blackboard or when directed by the instructor. If you are unfamiliar with Blackboard:
http://itservices.usc.edu/blackboard/ and https://blackboard.usc.edu/webapps/login/.

Technological Proficiency and Hardware/Software Required
None. The course will take place in a regular classroom setting.

Required Readings and Supplementary Materials
Required readings and supplementary materials. Field trip to view a play.

What is “Weekly Discussion Input”?
For each class except for the first two, you are required to ask two questions or make two statements about the reading or screening. If you do not do so, you will receive a grade of “0” for that session or those sessions. The questions or statements may be as simple as, “Why does X character do X?” or “I like when character X does X because of X.”

What is an “Analytical Essay”?
For this course, you will complete three Analytical Essays. These are essays that examine certain aspects in a play that you read or film that is screened. These aspects are part of the Shared Vocabulary that will be covered in the first session of the course. For each essay, you will examine the following (the syllabus indicates which play/film is to be analyzed and also the due dates). For each essay:
What is the “Mid-term Examination”?
This will be an essay exam that includes questions about the Corbett book, shared vocabulary, the film Anak, the play Looking Toward Lourdes, the play Criers for Hire, the play Writing Fragments Home, and the film Departures.

What is the “Final Examination”?
The final examination will be an essay exam that you will complete at home and submit electronically on December 12 between 11 am and 1 pm PST (1100-1300 hours). It will not be comprehensive. It will focus on all plays and films read or seen after the mid-term examination.

What is the “Making Art” project?
The course must include a “making art” aspect. This means each student is required to create art that is appropriate to the course. In the case of this course, each student will prepare a short (ten minutes or less) play or film on the subject matter as noted here: “Making Art” – writing a short scene about (1) an Asian immigrant arriving in the U.S. and his or her first encounter with a US citizen outside of the airport, (2) an Asian American individual in a situation of conflict with a non-Asian American individual. These will be presented orally in class. They may be a short play or a short film. They should be no longer than ten (10) minutes in length. Grading will be on representation of culture in the writing, quality of effort, and length.

Extra Credit Opportunities
You may complete one (1) Extra Credit Opportunity.

When the average falls between two grades, the final grade will be weighted toward the positive end of the scale for students whose participation in class has been good, but will be weighted toward the negative end of the scale for those with poor participation.

Assignment Submission Policy
- Weekly Discussion input is based on in-class engagement. There is nothing to submit; your grade will be based on your two questions or comments.
- Analytical Essays are due in hard copy in class on the designated dates below.
- The mid-term examination occurs in class on the date designated below.
- The “making art” projects are orally presented in class on the dates designated below.
- The final examination is a take-home exam that students will submit electronically as noted below. Please note that final examinations are required by USC, and you, as a USC student, are required to participate on the day and at the times that USC mandates.

Additional Policies
- Late assignments will not be accepted.
- You are expected to attend all classes except in the case of doctor-documented illness or family crisis.
- Please do not be late.
- Please do not use computers or mobile/cell telephones in class. Your weekly grade will be “0” if you do.
- The final exam is required. Its date and time are determined by the University and cannot be changed. Please reserve that time on your calendars now. Our class will meet electronically via your submissions of the take-home exam on December 12.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct
Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards: https://scampus.usc.edu/1100-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions/. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/.

Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity http://equity.usc.edu/ or to the Department of Public Safety http://capsnet.usc.edu/department/department-public-safety/online-forms/contact-us. This is important for the safety whole USC community. Another member of the university community – such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member – can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/ provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage sarc@usc.edu describes reporting options and other resources.

Support Systems
A number of USC’s schools provide support for students who need help with scholarly writing. Check with your advisor or program staff to find out more. Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute http://dornsife.usc.edu/ali, which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students. The Office of Disability Services and Programs http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations. If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information http://emergency.usc.edu/ will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technology.
