HBIO 308: Origins and Evolution of Human Behavior

Details: MWF 1-1:50pm

Professor: Dr. Stephanie Bogart
Office: AHF (Hancock), Jane Goodall Center, B10-B
Email: sbogart@usc.edu
Office Hours: TBD, or by appointment

Course Content: This course explores the evolution of human behavior from a biological perspective. We will examine the issues and competing hypotheses for a range of behaviors, such as sex differences, reproductive strategies, and cooperation, based on evolutionary principles. You will come away from this course with an understanding of ecological and evolutionary processes including the role of genetic variation and natural selection, as well as the implications these have for the origins of humans. The goal of this course is for you to obtain and expand your ability to articulate a clear understanding of human behavioral evolution and think critically about scientific information. A discussion of evolutionary theory, including natural and sexual selection will start the course off. Next, we will critically assess theories on human origins. Finally, this course will examine the biological basis for specific human behaviors. A major component of this course will be class discussion and participation, as well as writing critiques for specific topics and articles.

Required Textbooks:

Grading:

15% Paper 1
30% Paper 2
- 10% Topic approval and Intro/Outline/Bibliography
- 20% Final Paper
10% Discussion Participation
20% Discussion leadership
25% Take-home final exam

Assignments: (further instructions will be handed out separately)

Paper 1: Article critique - Students will write a critique of a primary literature article related to topics covered in class on the origins and evolution of human behavior

Paper 2: Topic paper - Students will be required to choose a topic in human origins and behavioral evolution to prepare an original 5-7 page review paper addressing historical, theoretical, and/or methodological approaches as applies to a specific research question.

Discussion Leader: Students will lead one discussion session of assigned readings chosen by the instructor to complement lectures/topics.

Participation: To promote critical thinking. All students will earn points by participating in discussions. Each student should come to class prepared and able to contribute.

USC’s Statements on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards https://scampus.usc.edu/1100-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions/. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/.

Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity http://equity.usc.edu/ or to the Department of Public Safety http://capsnet.usc.edu/department/department-public-safety/online-forms/contact-us. This is important for the safety whole USC community. Another member of the university community – such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member – can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/ provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage sarc@usc.edu describes reporting options and other resources.

Support Systems

A number of USC’s schools provide support for students who need help with scholarly writing. Check with your advisor or program staff to find out more. Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute http://dornsife.usc.edu/ali, which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students. The Office of Disability Services and Programs http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations. If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information http://emergency.usc.edu/ will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technology.
