COURSE INFORMATION

Critic-in-Chief: Dr. Randy Lake
Office: ASC 206C
Hours: TBA
Contact: ext. 03946; rlake@usc.edu
Course Website: blackboard.usc.edu

Objectives: (1) to cultivate an appreciation for the role of the critical act in culture and society; (2) to become familiar with the diversity of critical paradigms and methods; (3) to become acquainted with some of the landmark exemplars of criticism; (4) to develop your own skills as critics; and (5) to produce a publishable piece of criticism

Assignments: The major project for the course will be a finished criticism on the “text” (or critical object) of your choice, to be completed in three stages: a descriptive analysis (DUE October 2), a historical-contextual analysis (DUE November 6), and a completed, integrated critical essay (DUE December 4). The goal is to produce a publishable work by semester’s end. There also will be a final (essay) exam.

Format: As befits a doctoral seminar, I will talk, you will present/report, and we will discuss (in ascending order of importance).

Academic Integrity: The Annenberg School for Communication is committed to upholding the University’s academic integrity code as detailed in the SCampus guide. It is the policy of the School of Communication to report all violations of the code. Any serious violation or pattern of violations of the academic integrity code will result in the student’s expulsion from the Communication major or minor.

If you have any doubts about what is and is not an academic integrity violation, please check with me. The University presumes that you are familiar with its standards and policies; should you be found to have committed a violation, ignorance of these standards and policies will not be accepted as an excuse.
