COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is designed to develop the intellectual ability of the students through the understanding of the principles and practices of brand management and their application in connection with the fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle marketing sectors in a global marketplace and to impart the skills and knowledge required to effectively conduct comprehensive and insightful marketing analyses. An integrated approach to the study of fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle brands and organizations within a global context is used to identify issues and problems within a variety of business settings. Each situation is evaluated using marketing concepts, models and frameworks to arrive at innovative, effective strategies that address or resolve commonly-encountered challenges for various industries in fashion, luxury and lifestyle. A Team Fashion, Luxury or Lifestyle Marketing Plan (MP) Framework introduced in this course will serve as a guide in case analysis preparation and the team project – a Team MP on a selected brand or organization.

COURSE LEARNING OBJECTIVES

Course learning objectives support all six of the AACSB USC Marshall Graduate Programs Learning Goals to varying degrees. Details may be found in the Appendix of this syllabus on pages 13 – 16. At the end of this course, students will have acquired the skills and knowledge to effectively:

1. Apply marketing principles and concepts in a global marketplace that are most relevant to fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle business problems;
2. Evaluate market dynamics in a variety of industries, organizations and business settings through situation analysis of the industry/market, competition, and customers and firms competing in a particular marketplace;
3. Analyze primary and secondary research data to make sound marketing and business decisions;
4. Identify and define viable market segments and develop and introduce products and services that meet the needs of these segments to increase customer and company value among a variety of industries, firms and types of fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle customers in the global marketplace;
5. Recognize the importance of a market-driven business orientation, customer satisfaction, and marketing performance metrics, and the impact of effective marketing on profitability;
6. Practice global leadership, team-building, problem-solving, critical thinking and analytical skills to facilitate the assessment and resolution of key fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle marketing issues in a global marketplace;
7. Correctly define fashion, luxury goods and lifestyle marketing and business problems to identify information that is relevant to the comprehensive analyses of given business situations and to the development of marketing strategies that provide positive resolutions; and
8. Develop an effective Team Luxury, Fashion or Lifestyle Marketing Plan (MP) based on customer expectations of identified market segments utilizing all relevant components of an integrated strategic marketing program.

COURSE METHODOLOGY

Learning will be accomplished by employing a combination of assigned readings, current events, exercises and case analyses. In-class discussions are designed to illustrate real world applications of key marketing principles through the use of critical-thinking, analytical, problem-solving and team-building skills. The Team Fashion, Luxury or Lifestyle Marketing Plan (MP) challenges each team to effectively apply course concepts to the analysis of a brand or organization and the development of a comprehensive set of recommendations. Additionally, the course will introduce and employ a variety of analytical tools to facilitate the evaluation of alternatives to given applications and to create solidly-grounded fashion, luxury or lifestyle marketing recommendations underpinned by analysis-driven findings.

GRADING

The following 1,000 point grading system will be utilized for the MKT 599 – Fashion, Luxury and Lifestyle Marketing course:

TOPIC	PERCENTAGE OF GRADE	POINTS	DUE DATE (SEE CLASS SCHEDULE ON PAGE 7)
REFLECTION PAPERS – 3 @ 5% OF THE GRADE EACH	15%	150	THURS., 1/21 – TUES., 4/26
INDIVIDUAL CASE ASSIGNMENT	20%	200	TUES., 1/19 – THURS., 4/28
MID-TERM EXAM	30%	300	THURS., 3/10
TEAM FASHION, LUXURY OR LIFESTYLE MARKETING PLAN	35%	350	THURS., 5/5
TOTAL	100%	1,000

A detailed course schedule is shown on page 7. Final grades represent how you perform in the class relative to other students. Your grade will not be based on a mandated target, but on your performance. Historically, the average grade for a marketing elective class is about a B+/A-. Three items are considered when assigning final grades:

1. Your average weighted score as a percentage of the available points for all assignments (the points you receive divided by the number of points possible).
2. The overall average percentage score within the class.
3. Your ranking among all students in the class.

ATTENDANCE

Students are expected to attend all class sessions. Discussions are an integral part of the course’s learning experience. The frequency and quality of your participation in and contribution to these discussions will have a direct and meaningful relationship to the short- and the long-term benefits of the course. Please notify me in advance if you are unable to attend any class whenever possible

LAPTOP OR OTHER COMMUNICATION DEVICES POLICY

To maximize the richness of the learning experience, eliminate distractions and to demonstrate the utmost respect for all, you are expected to refrain from using laptops, smart phones, iPhones, iPads or any other electronic devices during class.

CLASS PREPARATION

Class participation is an extremely important part of the learning experience in this course as the richness of the learning experience will be largely dependent upon the degree of preparation by all students prior to each class session.

Additionally, a course that incorporates the frequent use of case analyses to illustrate the practical application of concepts and practices requires the student to diligently and thoroughly prepare cases and actively offer the results of the analyses and conclusions derived as well as recommendations during each class session. It follows that my expectation and that of your classmates will be that you are prepared for all classes and actively participate in and meaningfully contribute to class discussions.

In-class participation is also a critical part of this course's learning experience. Cold calling will take place to encourage active participation and to gain multiple perspectives and points of view, thus lending itself to the richness of the learning experience. While some students are far more comfortable than others with class participation, all students should make an effort to contribute meaningfully in every class.

Regarding case analyses, students should diligently prepare and share the outcome of their analyses with the class. Students will offer their opinions in group settings many times in their careers; thus, class participation serves to prepare students for this business experience.

REFLECTION PAPERS

A critical component in meeting the learning objectives of the course is the application of marketing strategy principles and frameworks to real world examples that you have or might encounter as a marketing manager. To that end, a variety of marketing executives have been asked to be guest speakers and share their experiences regarding their subject matter expertise in fashion, luxury or lifestyle marketing within their organizations. As an assignment, you are asked to write reflection papers for 3 of the speakers on what you learned from them. A one-page single-spaced paper for each reflection paper should include the following:

- Summary of key learnings that can be applied as a marketer in fashion, luxury or lifestyle marketing;
- Key learnings that reflect applications of the class session topic and course readings; and
- Demonstration of how this topic relates to other topics covered in the course.

Each paper to be turned within one week after the speaker attended the class and will be assigned a 1 – 3 score based on the degree to which the above criteria were met or not met with a score of 1 being low and 3 being high. Each reflection paper is worth 5 percent of the grade for a total of 15 percent or 150 points out of 1,000.

CASE STUDIES

Cases are not only vehicles for developing analytical skills and applying concepts and frameworks introduced in readings and lectures, but they also serve as examples of challenges common to real-world settings. Some cases demonstrate successful achievement of strategic objectives while others illustrate failure. We learn as much from failure as we do success.

While case studies that reflect the current business environment frequently provide the best illustration, cases on most topics presented in this course have not been published within the past year or so. As a result, the best and most recent cases available have been selected to maximize the learning outcomes of each case-focused session. Copyright laws often prohibit the sharing of exhibits utilized during case discussions. When this is not the case, I will make the material available by request.

In preparing for cases prior to class, I recommend reading a case more than once. The first reading should give you a sense of the case topic and the type of data contained therein. In subsequent readings, I recommend that you underline or otherwise mark up each case to identify key points relating to the business and situation. You should devote equal attention to case exhibits, which contain information useful for the development of a well-supported analysis.

Facts and research results must be analyzed, noted and subsequently followed by the application of sound logic and reasoning to fully evaluate how the information provided affects the case and influences your conclusions. You are encouraged to reach beyond the data in the case to formulate recommendations that, with the benefit of your additional analysis, will more effectively address or resolve the case issues and provide a more enriched learning experience. As a word of advice, incorporate information you gather regarding actual firm strategies in the cases with caution. Firms make many strategic mistakes and strategies they actually pursue are often inferior to alternative strategies they could have chosen.

Learning from a case is typically achieved in two steps. The first involves pre-class preparation encompassing the efforts to identify the issues presented in the case, to select and apply the appropriate forms of analysis (e.g., quantitative, logic, experience, conceptual) and, finally, to develop effective, comprehensive solutions and recommendations, all of which you will be expected to complete before coming to class. During class discussions, you will be expected to substantiate your conclusions based on your analyses of the assigned case. Marketing strategies should be specific and support overall objectives and recommendations, while incorporating relevant material from class assignments and/or case exhibits.

The second step occurs during in-class discussion when a variety of methodologies applicable to a successful diagnosis, analysis, and solution to business issues--which at times may differ from yours--are examined. I will typically ask students to explain the issues and offer their analysis and recommendations. This method of learning does not typically provide "the only" answer. By design, several viable solutions may be developed and supported equally well. Understanding others' positions, learning from them, and countering and/or enhancing them with your own perspective play a critical role in the learning experience. Only when you have defended your position can you fully understand its strengths and weaknesses. There is rarely a single right answer for a case, just as there is rarely a single right marketing decision in actual practice.

While it is important to identify a case's purpose in general terms, the most critical outcome is to acquire the ability to develop solid analytical skills, gain an understanding of the applicable marketing principles, evaluate the effectiveness of various alternatives and present solidly-grounded recommendations underpinned by strong supporting evidence.

As a starting point, I encourage you to employ the Case Analysis Outline shown on page 8. It incorporates the primary elements of the Team Fashion, Luxury or Lifestyle Marketing Plan (MP) Framework (see pages 10 – 11), which offers guidance in thoroughly and comprehensively analyzing real world marketing issues to arrive at a complete understanding of and solution to the issues at hand.

GUIDELINES FOR EFFECTIVE CASE ANALYSES

Some general guidelines for preparing an effective case analysis follow:

- Identify all of the major issues in the case that need to be raised to conduct a thorough analysis.
- Address the questions as shown in the Course Reader on the cover page preceding each case.
- Provide a logical, coherent, well-organized analysis. Do not simply piece together sections written by different authors. Make certain the analysis is consistent across the marketing mix (4 P's) elements.
- Focus your specific recommendations on the important issues in the case.
- Recommendations should be practical, cost-effective, and time-sensitive (short-term or long-term). The supporting analysis should be thorough, carried out correctly, and drawn, whenever relevant, from material presented in class, assigned readings and outside resources if desired.

CASE ASSIGNMENTS

A case will be assigned to each student between Tuesday, January 19th and Thursday, April 28th. The individual case is worth 20 percent of the grade for a total of 200 out of 1,000 points will be completed during Sessions 3 – 30. (Please see page 9 for details.) You will be asked to address the case questions in your write-up and be evaluated on the grading criteria listed on page 9 and posted in Blackboard.

MIDTERM EXAM

The midterm exam will be on Thursday, March 10th, will cover key topics from sessions 1 – 17 and represents 30 percent of the final grade or 300 out of 1,000 points. The case that will be utilized for the exam is Elie Saab: Growth of a Global Luxury Brand. Details on the content and format of the midterm exam will be discussed in class.

TEAM FASHION, LUXURY OR LIFESTYLE MARKETING PLAN (MP) ASSIGNMENT

To further apply marketing concepts and enhance problem-solving skills, each of you will be asked to form a team of three to four students and develop and present a Fashion, Luxury or Lifestyle Marketing Plan (MP) on the organization and/or brand of your choice. Please submit the following by the beginning of class on Tuesday, January 26th.

1. Your names
2. Selected organization or brand
3. New or existing brand or organization in its entirety
 - a. If existing brand, what is the objective (i.e., enhancement to exiting product, new markets, etc.)?
 - b. If a new brand, what is the concept?

TEAM FASHION, LUXURY OR LIFESTYLE MARKETING PLAN (MP) ASSIGNMENT (CONTINUED)

I will be happy to discuss any questions you might have before and during the development of the Team MP to provide guidance or address any issues you might have regarding your topic and the material required to complete the project.

The Team MP should cover at least a 12 month period and address all marketing activities for the year 2017 if the company or brand is currently on the market. If the Plan is developed for a new company or brand, the period should be extended through the year until break-even is achieved.

All students are encouraged to take advantage of the wealth of electronic resources we have available through the Crocker Business Library. If you have any questions or difficulty in gaining access to these resources, please contact Helga Haraldsson, our head librarian, at haraldss@marshall.usc.edu or (213) 740-0050.

This assignment is expected to include recommended sections as shown in the Team Fashion, Luxury or Lifestyle MP Framework on pages 10 – 11. The length of this final Team MP assignment is not to exceed 25 annotated PowerPoint slides. There is no limit on the number of appendices. Be sure to cite referenced information sources in footnotes at the bottom of each page. American Psychological Association (APA) format is preferred.

The following criteria will be utilized to grade the final Team MP:

1. Executive summary
2. Proper footnoting
3. Situation analysis
4. Expanded SWOT analysis
5. Recommended target markets
6. Recommended value chain
7. Objectives
8. Strategies
9. Profit and loss statement
10. Implementation plans
11. Contingency plans
12. In-class presentation

The Team MP is to be submitted by the start of the class period on Thursday, May 5th. Each team will be asked to give a short presentation during class that summarizes the essence of the Team MP. The assignment represents 35 percent of the final grade or 350 out of 1,000 points. A penalty of 10 percent per day will be assessed for late submissions.

The grade for this assignment may be influenced by each team member's contributions. If you believe participation was disproportionate among team members, please complete the peer evaluation form on page 12 and submit it at the time the assignment is due. All other team members will also be asked to complete the form.

STATEMENT ON ACADEMIC CONDUCT AND SUPPORT SYSTEMS

Academic Conduct

Plagiarism – presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards <https://scampus.usc.edu/1100-behavior-violating-university-standards-and-appropriate-sanctions/>. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, <http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/>.

The use of unauthorized material, communication with fellow students during an examination, attempts to benefit from the work of another student, and similar behavior that defeats the intent of an examination or other class work is unacceptable to the University. If you have any questions, please contact me for clarification. Where a clear violation has occurred, I may disqualify your work as unacceptable and assign a failing mark on the paper and/or course.

Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity <http://equity.usc.edu/> or to the Department of Public Safety <http://capsnet.usc.edu/department/department-public-safety/online-forms/contact-us>. This is important for the safety whole USC community. Another member of the university community – such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member – can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men <http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/> provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage sarc@usc.edu describes reporting options and other resources.

STATEMENT ON ACADEMIC CONDUCT AND SUPPORT SYSTEMS (CONTINUED)

Support Systems

A number of USC's schools provide support for students who need help with scholarly writing. Check with your advisor or program staff to find out more. Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute <http://dornsife.usc.edu/ali>, which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students. The Office of Disability Services and Programs http://sait.usc.edu/academicssupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations. If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information <http://emergency.usc.edu/> will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of blackboard.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is expected to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP and should be delivered to me as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m. – 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number is (213) 740-0776.

RETURNING GRADED PAPERWORK

Unclaimed, returned paperwork will be discarded after four (4) weeks and, hence, will be unavailable should students pursue an appeal following the receipt of their grades.

PROFESSOR/STUDENT INTERACTION

If at any time during the course you have questions regarding the preparation of assignments or other course-related issues, please do not hesitate to contact me by email, telephone or in person to arrange a meeting if desired.

My philosophy is to create a community of learners in which I facilitate discussions guided by the goal of encouraging the construction of marketing and business knowledge together. I will always give you as much feedback as you desire to help you become better marketers and achieve your personal objectives for this course.
