GLOBALIZATION, COMMUNICATION, AND SOCIETY
Professor Manuel Castells
Spring 2017
Annenberg School for Communication & Journalism

COMM 559
Room ASC 228
Wednesdays 3:30pm – 6:20pm

Office Hours by Appointment
Tuesdays 3:00 pm – 6:00 pm
213.821.2079

Course Description
This is a graduate course focused on analysing the relationship between multidimensional globalization, communication and social change. The analysis will highlight the economic, social, cultural, and political implications of globalization, and the specific influence of communication in the various dimensions of globalization. The approach will be comparative, and multicultural, and this will be reflected in the reading materials and in the lectures.

Class Format
This is a lecture and discussion class, meeting three hours per week in one weekly session. Each session will cover one theme, in chronological sequence, as per the syllabus of the course. Students will be encouraged to participate actively in the discussion. Students are expected to read required readings. Recommended readings will be helpful for a better understanding of each topic. Readings are organized specifically for each theme treated in the class. They are numbered in correspondence with the sequence of the lectures.

Pre-requisites
1) Graduate standing, no exceptions.
2) Enrolment is limited to 25 students. First priority for enrolment is given to the students of the USC/LSE Master Program in Global Communication, and to PhD. Students in communication. Second priority is for 2nd year students of Public Diplomacy. Third priority is for students in sociology, planning, and international relations.
3) Students should have the knowledge of history, geography, political economy, and world politics to be expected from a USC graduate student.
Requirements and Grading

1) Regular attendance.

2) Active participation in class discussions.

3) Paper: Research, elaboration and writing of a paper on a topic related to the area of study in the course. The paper must be empirical and analytical, and deal with a concrete topic. It cannot be purely theoretical and should not be normative. It should be based on library research (including reliable sources accessible in the Internet), and proper documentation. Topic of the paper has to be decided in agreement with the instructor during the first month of the class. Length is flexible. Quality matters, not quantity. Quality is measured by the originality of the thinking, and the analytical capacity demonstrated in the paper. The paper cannot be purely descriptive. It is estimated it will take about 40 hours of library/Internet research, analysis, and writing during the semester.

4) Grading: Grading will be based on the quality of the paper (65%) and on class participation (35%).

5) Readings: There will be no control of the readings, but it is assumed that the readings included in the syllabus will help the understanding of the subject, and thus the elaboration of the paper and participation in class discussions.

Themes of the Lectures (in chronological sequence, one per week)

8. The Global Civil Society and Networked Social Movements.

11. The Diversity of Globalization: The View from Asia (focus on China: National Communism, Global Capitalism).
12. The View from Latin America: From the Crisis of Neoliberalism to the Crisis of Developmentalism.
13. The View from the Middle East: From the Arab Spring to ISIS.
14. The View from the European Union: (focus on the Crisis of the Euro, the Rise of German Europe, and Brexit).
15. The View from the United States: From Financial Crisis to the Crisis of Political Legitimacy.

Readings
Required Reading: Some full books are required, as indicated in the reading list. Most of the required readings will be posted on Black Board (except for full books). Required readings accessible by Internet will not be included on Black Board.

Readings are related to specific themes, following the same sequential numbering.

5. Global Cities and Metropolitan Regions.

8. The Global Civil Society and Networked Social Movements.

11. The Diversity of Globalization: The View from Asia

12. The View from Latin America: From the Crisis of Neoliberalism to the Crisis of Developmentalism.

13. The View from the Middle East: From the Arab Spring to ISIS.
   a. Special Issue (Spring 2011) of the International Journal of Communication on the Arab Revolutions. All articles in the issue. www.ijoc.org.

14. The view from the European Union

15. The View from the United States: From Financial Crisis to the Crisis of Political Legitimacy.

Recommended Reading

The Global Civil Society and Networked Social Movements.

Academic Policies of USC Annenberg School for Communication

Plagiarism / Academic Integrity

Plagiarism is defined as taking ideas or writings from another and passing them off as one’s own. The following is the Annenberg School for Communication’s policy on academic integrity: Since its founding, the USC Annenberg School of Communication has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found guilty of plagiarism, fabrication, cheating on examinations, or purchasing papers or other assignments will receive a failing grade in the course and will be dismissed as a major from the School of Communication. There are no exceptions to the school’s policy.

Academic Accommodations

Any students requesting academic accommodations based on a disability are required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP when adequate documentation is filed. Please be sure the letter is delivered to the professor as early in the semester as possible. DSP is open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. The office is located in the Student Union, Room 301.