Policy and Macro Practice in Child, Youth and Family Services

3 Units

*Large-scale social change requires broad cross-sector coordination, yet the social sector remains focused on the isolated intervention of individual organizations.¹
...we redefine social innovation to mean: A novel solution to a social problem that is more effective, efficient, sustainable or just than existing solutions and for which the value created accrues primarily to society as a whole rather than private individuals.²*

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course prepares advanced social work practitioners for innovative policy, macro practice and leadership roles in community and organizational settings serving children, youth and families. Students will be exposed to key aspects of social change and innovation that are driving change in public and private agencies and in service systems that support children, youth, families and communities.

² Phills, J. A., Deiglmeier, K. & Miller, D. T. (2008). Rediscovering social innovation. Stanford Social Innovation Review. Fall.

The course is organized in three modules: 1) the policy and resource context of child and family services at the federal, state and local levels; 2) data-driven decision-making; and 3) social work macro practice and promising practices for social innovation and policy change. Students will be exposed to models of community change, place-based partnerships designed to enhance resident engagement in community building, cross-agency collaboration and network models of governance and service delivery. They will examine organizational models designed to integrate services for vulnerable children and families who live in poor under-resourced communities. Key drivers and social change methods that will be discussed in the course include: collective impact, pay for success models, data driven decision-making, disruptive innovation, constructive disruption, return on investment and governing by network.

IV. COURSE OBJECTIVES

Objective #	Objectives
1	Integrate information from multiple sources to assess and appraise social innovation models and system wide reforms that advance human rights and social justice for families and children in diverse communities.
2	Enhance awareness of evidence-based, evidence-informed and promising practices that guide policy and macro practice in a variety of child and family service settings.
3	Develop skills that support macro practice in complex environments, including data-driven decision-making, cross-organizational collaboration and group work to connect individual policy change to collective, system wide reform for children, youth, families and communities.

V. COURSE FORMAT / INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS

The format for the course will include didactic instruction and experiential exercises. Case vignettes, videos, and role plays will also be used to facilitate student learning. These exercises may include the use of videotapes, role-play, and/or structured small group exercises. Material from the field will be used to illustrate class content and to provide integration between class and field. Confidentiality of material shared in class will be maintained. As class discussion is an integral part of the learning process, students are expected to come to class ready to discuss required reading and its application to theory and practice.

ASSIGNMENTS

The assignments for this course include a combination of individual assignments (1 and 2) and group assignments (3 and 4), all done in collaboration with an assigned small group (content cluster) with a focus on one of the following broad content areas: Child Welfare, Juvenile Justice, Education, Health/Mental Health, and Poverty. Cluster content areas will be assigned/chosen no later than Class Session 2.

Assignment 1 will be an individual assignment focused on a policy change in support of an identified target population within the assigned content area. Assignment 2, also an individual assignment, will build off of Assignment 1 and asks students to identify available quantitative and qualitative data (obtained through informant interviews) to support implementation of their chosen policy at the organizational and/or community level. Assignments 3 (Capstone paper) and 4 (Capstone presentation), both group assignments, ask content clusters to shift their research from individual policy change to larger scale reform, identifying relevant policy changes and available data in support of an identified area of systemic reform related to their content area and target population. Groups will also be responsible for developing and presenting an innovative model for change to address the identified area of systemic reform based on one of the models/approaches discussed during class sessions 8-11.

Because group assignments 3 and 4 build off of the individual assignments 1 and 2, it is essential that content clusters consult early on in the semester with one another and throughout the semester to ensure that their individual work completed for Assignments 1 and 2 will contribute to successful completion of Assignments 3 and 4. Content Clusters should identify and determine within the first 4 weeks of the course what their large scale reform effort area will be so that the individual policy and target population selected by each student for Assignments 1 and 2 will serve as a building block to the large scale reform effort that will ultimately be investigated and reported on for Assignments 3 and 4.

Assignment 1. Policy Analysis (6-8 pages), 20%, (Individual Assignment)

Students will select a federal, state or local level policy (or proposed policy change) related to each student's content area and identified area of systemic reform (each Content Cluster will identify one area of systemic reform to focus their efforts) and submit a 6-8 page paper analyzing the policy. Identified areas of system reform for the Content Cluster as well as individual policies for Assignment 1 must be submitted to the instructor for approval no later than Class Session 4. General guidelines for the policy analysis include: description of the social context for policy change, what social problem/need/ target population the policy addresses, proponents and opponents of the policy, the policy enactment/legislative process and a summary of implementation/status thus far.

Due: Unit 6

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 4 & 5.

Assignment 2. Data-Driven Decision-Making (6-8 pages), 25%, (Individual assignment)

Assignment 2 ask students to expand their understanding of their identified policy by considering the quantitative and qualitative data and research available to support policy implementation at the organizational and/or community level.

Students will describe the practice issues that could be of concern to agencies and/or communities affected by this policy with respect to implementation. They will identify and describe research findings, sources of administrative data and other data available on public information websites that would be useful in informing social work practice, planning or decision-making. They will also identify an evidence based practice and/or model that could support implementation of the policy at the agency and/or community level. Finally, they will discuss the research questions they developed in preparation for their informant interviews (the process for these interviews will be discussed in detail in class), conduct at least two informant interviews with key implementation stakeholders at the agency/community level and summarize the data obtained through these informant interviews in their discussion of implementation of the policy at the organizational level and/or community level. The paper should be 6-8 pages in length.

Due: Unit 10

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 2,3,4 & 5.

Assignment 3 - Capstone Project: Systemic Reform and Model for Change Paper and Canvas of Model (8-10 pages), 25%, (Group assignment)

Assignment 3 is a group paper in which Content Clusters will identify and make use of relevant date to demonstrate how individual reform efforts (e.g. policy changes) support larger level systemic reform. Each content cluster will research and write about an area of systemic reform related to their content area and propose a model for change (based on one the social change models/approaches discussed in class sessions 8-11). Groups should use their policy and data findings from Assignments 1 and 2 to guide Assignments 3 and 4. A "Canvas" that summarizes the proposal should also be included to provide a visual representation of the proposed model for change. The paper will be divided into the following sections.

- 1) Overview of the identified area of systemic reform, the target population(s), and context/need for change.
- 2) Overview of the recent history of individual policy reform efforts and/or any current reform efforts to support the identified area of systemic reform (including but not limited to the individual policies researched from Assignments 1 and 2 by group members).
- 3) Overview of the most relevant data and evidence based research/models available to support the reform efforts (including relevant quantitative and qualitative research gathered from Assignments 1 and 2 by cluster members as well as any additional data).
- 4) A proposed Model for Social Change based on one of the models/approaches discussed in this course (Sessions 8-11) to address the identified area of systemic reform. Groups should also include a visual “Canvas” representation of the model to be included as an attachment to the paper.
- 5) Discussion on how the proposed model advances at least one of the Social Work Grand Challenges. Consider the role of research, policy and practice.

Due: Unit 14

Papers should be 8-10 pages in length not including the title and reference page and one page “Canvas” (visual representation) of the proposed model for change.

Assignment 4- Capstone Presentation: Systemic Reform and Model for Change Presentation (30-35 minute in class group presentation), 20%, (Group Presentation)

Each Content Cluster will make a 30-minute presentation to a governing body (class members) highlighting the way in which individual policy reform efforts and available data and research can advance systemic reform. The presentation will follow the format of Assignment 3 with an additional section on the process the group took to incorporate the individual work of each member into the overall paper and to develop the model for change proposal. Students will also be asked to submit a peer evaluation which will provide each student an opportunity to reflect upon their own contributions and those of each group member as well as the group process generally. Responses will not be shared with team members.

Due: Units 14 & 15

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 1, 2, 3, 4 & 5.

Class Participation (10% of Course Grade)- Participation points will be determined by the quality of in class contributions and engagement in classroom activities, the quality of teamwork in preparation for Assignments 3 and 4 (as demonstrated by peer review feedback and instructor observation) and engagement with students and the instructor throughout the semester.

Note: Additional required and recommended readings may be assigned by the instructor throughout the course. Students may also be assigned readings throughout the semester which they will then facilitate a discussion about in class.

Class grades will be based on the following:

Class Grades		Final Grade
3.85 – 4	A	93 – 100	A
3.60 – 3.84	A-	90 – 92	A-
3.25 – 3.59	B+	87 – 89	B+
2.90 – 3.24	B	83 – 86	B
2.60 – 2.87	B-	80 – 82	B-
2.25 – 2.50	C+	77 – 79	C+
1.90 – 2.24	C	73 – 76	C
		70 – 72	C-

Within the School of Social Work, grades are determined in each class based on the following standards which have been established by the faculty of the School: (1) Grades of A or A- are reserved for student work which not only demonstrates very good mastery of content but which also shows that the student has undertaken a complex task, has applied critical thinking skills to the assignment, and/or has demonstrated creativity in her or his approach to the assignment. The difference between these two grades would be determined by the degree to which these skills have been demonstrated by the student. (2) A grade of B+ will be given to work which is judged to be very good. This grade denotes that a student has demonstrated a more-than-competent understanding of the material being tested in the assignment. (3) A grade of B will be given to student work which meets the basic requirements of the assignment. It denotes that the student has done adequate work on the assignment and meets basic course expectations. (4) A grade of B- will denote that a student's performance was less than adequate on an assignment, reflecting only moderate grasp of content and/or expectations. (5) A grade of C would reflect a minimal grasp of the assignments, poor organization of ideas and/or several significant areas requiring improvement. (6) Grades between C- and F will be applied to denote a failure to meet minimum standards, reflecting serious deficiencies in all aspects of a student's performance on the assignment.

STUDY DAYS / NO CLASSES

NO FINAL EXAMINATION

University Policies and Guidelines

VII. ATTENDANCE POLICY

Students are expected to attend every class and to remain in class for the duration of the unit. Failure to attend class or arriving late may impact your ability to achieve course objectives which could affect your course grade. Students are expected to notify the instructor by email (TBA) of any anticipated absence or reason for tardiness.

University of Southern California policy permits students to be excused from class for the observance of religious holy days. This policy also covers scheduled final examinations which conflict with students' observance of a holy day. Students must make arrangements in advance to complete class work which will be missed, or to reschedule an examination, due to holy days observance.

Please refer to Scampus and to the USC School of Social Work Student Handbook for additional information on attendance policies.

VIII. ACADEMIC CONDUCT

Plagiarism – presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, "Behavior Violating University Standards" <https://policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b/>. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, <http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct>.

X. STATEMENT ABOUT INCOMPLETES

The Grade of Incomplete (IN) can be assigned only if there is work not completed because of a documented illness or some other emergency occurring after the 12th week of the semester. Students must NOT assume that the instructor will agree to the grade of IN. Removal of the grade of IN must be instituted by the student and agreed to be the instructor and reported on the official “Incomplete Completion Form.”

XI. POLICY ON LATE OR MAKE-UP WORK

Papers are due on the day and time specified. Extensions will be granted only for extenuating circumstances. If the paper is late without permission, the grade will be affected.

XII. POLICY ON CHANGES TO THE SYLLABUS AND/OR COURSE REQUIREMENTS

It may be necessary to make some adjustments in the syllabus during the semester in order to respond to unforeseen or extenuating circumstances. Adjustments that are made will be communicated to students both verbally and in writing.

XIII. CODE OF ETHICS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS (OPTIONAL)

Approved by the 1996 NASW Delegate Assembly and revised by the 2008 NASW Delegate Assembly [<http://www.socialworkers.org/pubs/Code/code.asp>]

Preamble

The primary mission of the social work profession is to enhance human wellbeing and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty. A historic and defining feature of social work is the profession’s focus on individual wellbeing in a social context and the wellbeing of society. Fundamental to social work is attention to the environmental forces that create, contribute to, and address problems in living.

Social workers promote social justice and social change with and on behalf of clients. “Clients” is used inclusively to refer to individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers are sensitive to cultural and ethnic diversity and strive to end discrimination, oppression, poverty, and other forms of social injustice. These activities may be in the form of direct practice, community organizing, supervision, consultation administration, advocacy, social and political action, policy development and implementation, education, and research and evaluation. Social workers seek to enhance the capacity of people to address their own needs. Social workers also seek to promote the responsiveness of organizations, communities, and other social institutions to individuals’ needs and social problems.

The mission of the social work profession is rooted in a set of core values. These core values, embraced by social workers throughout the profession’s history, are the foundation of social work’s unique purpose and perspective:

- Service
- Social justice
- Dignity and worth of the person
- Importance of human relationships
- Integrity
- Competence

This constellation of core values reflects what is unique to the social work profession. Core values, and the principles that flow from them, must be balanced within the context and complexity of the human experience.

XIV. COMPLAINTS

If you have a complaint or concern about the course or the instructor, please discuss it first with the instructor. If you feel cannot discuss it with the instructor, contact the chair of the Department. If you do not receive a satisfactory response or solution, contact your advisor and/or Associate Dean and MSW Chair Dr. Leslie Wind for further guidance.
