Course Description
This course provides instruction in writing and communication for lay and professional audiences on topics related to stem cell biology and regenerative medicine. The goal is to strengthen and broaden your writing and communication skills for your graduate course work and future career.

The course is intended for master’s students in the Department of Stem Cell Biology and Regenerative Medicine, but is open to all USC graduate students interested in improving their abilities to write and communicate scientific and medical research.

Learning Objectives
This course will:
1. equip students with the skills required to write about stem cell biology and regenerative medicine for lay and scientific audiences, in preparation for graduate course work and a future professional career;
2. expose students to examples of good writing and effective communication;
3. train students to meet deadlines; and
4. develop students’ critical thinking skills.

Prerequisite(s): None
Co-Requisite(s): None
Concurrent Enrollment: None
Recommended Preparation: None

Expectations
From students. Students are expected to actively participate in class. This means students should ask questions and participate in class discussions. In group workshops, students should read their peers’ proposals prior to class and come prepared with constructive comments, critiques, suggestions, and input to help fellow students on their assignments. In writing assignments, students are expected to both present original ideas and content and appropriately cite works from which they have utilized for ideas or facts.

From instructors. The instructors are expected to promote a classroom culture that facilitates communication and improvement. The instructors will make the expectations of each assignment clear and will grade fairly. Students should expect that the instructors will be committed to helping every student in the class improve their writing and communication skills. Students should expect that the instructors will provide helpful and constructive feedback and advice, will be responsive to questions in class and by email, and will treat all students fairly and respectfully.

Required Readings and Supplementary Materials
There is no textbook. Papers and reading materials will be available on blackboard.usc.edu, USC’s e-learning platform.

Description and Assessment of Assignments
There is no grading curve. Final grades will be determined as follows:

- A 93–100
- A- 90–92
- B+ 87–89
- B 83–86
- B- 80–82
- C+ 77–79
- C 70–76
- D 60–69
- F 0–59

Assignments will be evaluated on the merits of: organization, content and style.

Assignments must be your own original work. Use quotation marks for verbatim wording and citations for both quoted and paraphrased material. Do not submit work done for a previous research project or for another class.

Additional Policies

Attendance: Attendance is required. Each unexcused absence will lower your final grade by 3 percentage points. Each incidence of unexcused lateness will lower your final grade by 1 percentage point. If you do miss a class, contact your instructors to make up the material. If you have a commitment that conflicts with a class, notify the instructors before the class. In some cases, absences will be excused, but this is far more likely if students provide prior notice.

The USC Writing Center: The USC Writing Center is a student-centered, non-grading facility that employs graduate students to work one-on-one with writers at any stage of the writing process and conducts small-group workshops on a wide variety of writing skills.

The center is located in Taper Hall of the Humanities (THH) 216 and is open Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. It also holds evening hours in the basement of Leavey Library from 7 to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

You can schedule an appointment for an individual 30-minute conference with a consultant by phone at 213-740-3691 or at the front desk in THH 216. Walk-in appointments are also accepted. A schedule of current workshops can be found at dornsife.usc.edu/writing-center.

Statement for Students with Disabilities

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Website and contact information for DSP:
http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html, (213) 740-0776 (Phone), (213) 740-6948 (TDD only), (213) 740-8216 (FAX) ability@usc.edu.

Statement on Academic Integrity

USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one’s own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another’s work as one’s own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. SCampus, the Student Guidebook, (www.usc.edu/scampus or http://scampus.usc.edu) contains the University Student Conduct Code (see University Governance, Section 11.00), while the recommended sanctions are located in Appendix A.
Emergency Preparedness/Course Continuity in a Crisis
In case of a declared emergency if travel to campus is not feasible, USC executive leadership will announce an electronic way for instructors to teach students in their residence halls or homes using a combination of Blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technologies.
