Social Work Practice with Transition Age Youth

3 Units

“Because of the institutional environments I was raised in, I had never learned how to manage relationships with adults or peers, to learn progressive responsibility, or to feel or take responsibility. I was unbelievably lonely, scared and depressed when I exited care. I felt like everyone else in the world was connected and I was just a free blowing leaf.” – Jessica, foster care alumna.

III. COURSE DESCRIPTION

Each year over 20,000 youth emancipate from the foster care system in the United States. These adolescents are more likely than their counterparts in the general population to experience a host of negative developmental and social outcomes, such as low educational attainment, unemployment, homelessness, substance abuse, and involvement in the criminal justice system.

In this course, we will use a biopsychosocial perspective to address work with transitional youth on macro, meso, and micro levels. The student will be introduced to policies affecting transitional youth and to the implications of early disrupted attachments and chronic trauma associated with the neglect and abuse that many children in foster care have experienced. Developmental issues and clinical treatment of social and psychological problems will be addressed. The class will look at current models of service (and gaps in service) to these youth, hearing from advocates, providers, and former foster youth.

IV. COURSE OBJECTIVES

Objective #	Objectives
1	Present major policies affecting transitional youth on a local and national level.
2	Facilitate students' ability to identify biological, psychosocial, and environmental risks and protective factors affecting youth who exit from foster care.
3	Promote awareness of the impact of diversity issues on former foster youth, including ethnicity, culture, and sexual orientation.
4	Teach the use and integration of attachment theory, resilience theory, neurobiology, and current research for understanding problematic sequelae of maltreatment and disrupted early attachments.
5	Present techniques for using current research to discuss and critically evaluate models of service to transitional youth, nationally and in Los Angeles County. Teach students how to identify and utilize models of evidence-based clinical treatment for transitional youth who suffer from attachment problems, depression, anxiety, sleep disorders, and substance abuse.

V. COURSE FORMAT / INSTRUCTIONAL METHODS

The format of the course will consist of didactic instruction and experiential exercises. Case vignettes, videos, and role plays will also be used to facilitate the students' learning. These exercises may include the use of videotapes, role-play, or structured small group exercises. Material from the field will be used to illustrate class content and to provide integration between class and field. Confidentiality of material shared in class will be maintained. As class discussion is an integral part of the learning process, students are expected to come to class ready to discuss required reading and its application to theory and practice.

The following table shows the competencies highlighted in this course, the related course objectives, student learning outcomes, and dimensions of each competency measured. The final column provides the location of course content related to the competency.

Competency	Objectives	Behaviors	Dimensions	Content
Competency 3: Advance Human Rights and Social, Economic, and Environmental Justice Social workers understand that every child, young person, and family member, regardless of position in society, has fundamental human rights such as freedom, safety, privacy, an adequate standard of living, health care, and education. Social workers understand the global interconnections of oppression and human rights violations and employ social justice strategies to promote social and economic justice and human rights for children and families and the communities in which they live. Social workers use strategies designed to eliminate oppressive structural barriers in order to ensure more equitable distribution of social goods, rights, services, and responsibilities and to protect the civil, political, environmental, economic, social, and cultural rights of children, youth, and families. Social workers are aware of the historical and current impact of colonization and globalization on children, youth and families, and incorporate social justice practices to bear witness to and actively dismantle oppression and foster liberation.	1. Social workers utilize theories of human behavior and the social environment to facilitate engagement with their clients and the groups, organizations, institutions, and communities that impact them. Social workers understand and utilize varied engagement strategies to advance practice effectiveness with diverse children, youth, and families and thus advance social, economic and environmental justice within marginalized communities. VII. COURSE ASSIGNMENTS, DUE DATES & GRADING

Assignment	Due Date	% of Final Grade
Assignment 1: Policy Assignment	Beginning of Unit 4	20%
Assignment 2: Program Assignment	Beginning of Unit 9	30%
Assignment 3: Case Study	Beginning of Unit 15	40%

Each of the major assignments is described below.

Assignment 1: Policy Assignment

This is an individually developed policy research paper on a topic relevant to homeless youth or youth exiting the foster care or juvenile justice systems. The student will provide historical background on the topic, discuss how the relevant policies emerged, and identify both positive and negative impacts of the policies on youth and on practice. (See instructions and rubric for details) This paper will be 5-6 pages in length.

Due: Beginning of Unit 4

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 2, 3, 5, and 9.

Assignment 2: Program Assignment

This assignment requires you to explore programs in your community. You will select a program in your community that serves transition age youth, currently or formerly in the foster care and/or probation systems or homeless youth. Students will visit the program, speak with providers and youth, and write a 5-7page paper describing the program, its services, the strengths and limitations of the program, and how it fits into the policy and service landscape in the area of transition age youth. Each student will make a short presentation to the class. (See instructions and rubric for details.).

Due: Beginning of Unit 9

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 2,3,6,7,8, and 9.

Assignment 3: Case Study

This is an individual paper that will provide an opportunity to integrate theory, policy, and practice. The student will draw on theories covered in class to discuss a problem facing foster youth in general through discussion of a specific case of a transition age youth who has this problem. (If the student has no relevant case in the field, an alternative case will be developed.) The paper will examine developmental issues, psychological and environmental factors, as well as practice issues and implications. Interventions on the micro, meso, and macro levels will be incorporated into this “capstone” assignment for the course. This paper will be 12-15 pages in length.

Due: Beginning of Unit 15

This assignment relates to student learning outcomes 2, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9.

NOTE: IF YOU ARE ASKED TO REWRITE AN ASSIGNMENT THAT DOES NOT EARN A PASSING GRADE, THE MAXIMUM GRADE YOU CAN EARN ON A REWRITE IS A B-. (There will be NO opportunities to rewrite Assignment 3) LATE PAPERS ARE PENALIZED ½ point per day late.

Class Participation (10% of Course Grade)

Class attendance and participation are critical to students' learning. Students are expected to attend, to be prepared, and to actively participate in class.

Class grades will be based on the following:

Class Grades		Final Grade
3.85 – 4	A	93 – 100	A
3.60 – 3.84	A-	90 – 92	A-
3.25 – 3.59	B+	87 – 89	B+
2.90 – 3.24	B	83 – 86	B
2.60 – 2.87	B-	80 – 82	B-
2.25 – 2.50	C+	77 – 79	C+
1.90 – 2.24	C	73 – 76	C
		70 – 72	C-

Within the School of Social Work, grades are determined in each class based on the following standards, which have been established by the faculty of the School:

- (1) Grades of A or A- are reserved for student work which not only demonstrates very good mastery of content but which also shows that the student has undertaken a complex task, has applied critical thinking skills to the assignment, and/or has demonstrated creativity in her or his approach to the assignment. The difference between these two grades would be determined by the degree to which these skills have been demonstrated by the student.
- (2) A grade of B+ will be given to work which is judged to be very good. This grade denotes that a student has demonstrated a more-than-competent understanding of the material being tested in the assignment.
- (3) A grade of B will be given to student work which meets the basic requirements of the assignment. It denotes that the student has done adequate work on the assignment and meets basic course expectations.
- (4) A grade of B- will denote that a student's performance was less than adequate on an assignment, reflecting only moderate grasp of content and/or expectations.
- (5) A grade of C would reflect a minimal grasp of the assignments, poor organization of ideas and/or several significant areas requiring improvement.
- (6) Grades between C- and F will be applied to denote a failure to meet minimum standards, reflecting serious deficiencies in all aspects of a student's performance on the assignment.

University Policies and Guidelines

IX. ATTENDANCE POLICY

Students are expected to attend every class and to remain in class for the duration of the unit. Failure to attend class or arriving late may impact your ability to achieve course objectives which could affect your course grade. Students are expected to notify the instructor by email (newmyer@usc.edu) of any anticipated absence or reason for tardiness.

University of Southern California policy permits students to be excused from class for the observance of religious holy days. This policy also covers scheduled final examinations which conflict with students' observance of a holy day. Students must make arrangements in advance to complete class work which will be missed, or to reschedule an examination, due to holy days observance.

Please refer to Scampus and to the USC School of Social Work Student Handbook for additional information on attendance policies.

XVI. CODE OF ETHICS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS (OPTIONAL)

Approved by the 1996 NASW Delegate Assembly and revised by the 2017 NASW Delegate Assembly
<https://www.socialworkers.org/About/Ethics/Code-of-Ethics/Code-of-Ethics-English>

Preamble

The primary mission of the social work profession is to enhance human well-being and help meet the basic human needs of all people, with particular attention to the needs and empowerment of people who are vulnerable, oppressed, and living in poverty. A historic and defining feature of social work is the profession's focus on individual well-being in a social context and the well-being of society. Fundamental to social work is attention to the environmental forces that create, contribute to, and address problems in living.

Social workers promote social justice and social change with and on behalf of clients. "Clients" is used inclusively to refer to individuals, families, groups, organizations, and communities. Social workers are sensitive to cultural and ethnic diversity and strive to end discrimination, oppression, poverty, and other forms of social injustice. These activities may be in the form of direct practice, community organizing, supervision, consultation, administration, advocacy, social and political action, policy development and implementation, education, and research and evaluation. Social workers seek to enhance the capacity of people to address their own needs. Social workers also seek to promote the responsiveness of organizations, communities, and other social institutions to individuals' needs and social problems.

The mission of the social work profession is rooted in a set of core values. These core values, embraced by social workers throughout the profession's history, are the foundation of social work's unique purpose and perspective:

- Service
- Social justice
- Dignity and worth of the person
- Importance of human relationships
- Integrity
- Competence

This constellation of core values reflects what is unique to the social work profession. Core values, and the principles that flow from them, must be balanced within the context and complexity of the human experience.
