Course Goals
This class will introduce you to the field of intercultural communication, which draws from an array of academic disciplines. The overall goal is to prepare you to be the best global citizen you can be. Using readings, lectures, in-class exercises, discussions, film clips and your own assignments, we will enhance our understanding of the myriad of ways that cultures differ; develop a meaningful vocabulary for discussing these differences; learn about processes that affect intercultural interactions; investigate a variety of contexts in which intercultural communication takes place; and take an introductory look at the current strands of research in the field.

Learning Objectives
Specifically, by the end of the course students will be able to:

- Explain and apply terms used in intercultural communication scholarship
- Describe social psychological processes and contextual factors that affect intercultural communication
- Interpret real-world interactions through the framework of course concepts
- Recognize the different perspectives researchers bring to the study of intercultural communication

Required Texts

Additional required readings are posted on Blackboard. Please check Blackboard frequently to find links to readings and other information.
Please note that even when class lectures and discussions do not cover material from the text, you will be required to read and thoroughly understand the readings for the exams and assignments.

Tentative Course Schedule, Subject to Change:
Most of the articles noted in the calendar are from the Samovar, Porter, McDaniel & Roy textbook which is an edited anthology. Readings not from the anthology are posted on Blackboard, as noted with the “Bb,” with the exception of the Fadiman book.

Course Policies

No laptops or electronics.
In order to create the best possible learning environment, I ask you to not use your laptops, tablets or phones. I completely understand the temptation, but I think we all benefit from focusing without technology. Current research shows that taking notes by hand is more effective than typing them. Read the articles posted on Blackboard on this topic for a lengthier discussion of this policy. (Sometimes students have documented reasons for using laptops for note-taking; exceptions are made only for students with such documentation.)

Please bring old-fashioned pen and paper to lectures for note-taking and activities.

Late Papers: If your paper is late, it will be marked down by one third of a letter grade for every day it is late. Also, please be aware that if you end up handing a paper in late (thus accepting the automatic deduction), it falls to the bottom of our stack of things to do and will most likely not be returned to you in a very timely manner.

Missed exams: Missing an exam is very difficult for you and for us. You would never miss unless you were really, seriously ill or had a true emergency. Contact me immediately so we can try to remedy the situation and make sure you do not end up with a zero score.
Electronic Submission of Assignments
Please upload your assignments to Blackboard only; no hard copies are needed. If you have trouble with Blackboard, reach out to them directly for help—service is available 24/7 at 213-740-5555. Encountering a problem with Blackboard is not a reason to submit a late paper. Uploading the incorrect paper from your computer is also not an acceptable excuse for a late submission of the correct work.

Your papers and homework assignments will be due by 1:30 pm on the dates they are listed on the course calendar, a half hour before our class meets.

Attendance and Participation
1. To get the most out of this class, you must be here. While it is normal to miss a few times during the course of a semester, you can’t “take” this class without attending the class regularly. We learn from a variety of lectures, discussions, and activities that are supplemented but not necessarily overlapped by the readings.

2. I do not distinguish between excused and unexcused absences. Please don’t send me notes from the health center or even tell me why you’re missing. As long as your overall record of attendance is good, and you’re not absent on the day of an exam, then I won’t hold three or four absences against you. If you miss more than that, you’re in a danger zone and should communicate with me.

Note for student athletes, band members, and similar: I expect that if you are in-season, you may have to miss several classes. You should go ahead and send me notices from your university sponsors. These dates will still show up as absences in the attendance record, but I will note the activities that kept you away from class.

3. When you miss class, please do not ask me what you missed. It is your responsibility to seek out that information from other students. Once you have, I welcome the opportunity to talk with you and to go over any questions.

Grading
To achieve a “C” or better on papers, you must write at a level appropriate for a university student, i.e., with correct grammar, punctuation and spelling.

I believe an “A” represents excellent, thoughtful, and enthusiastic work. A “B” represents really good work. An “C” merely meets all the requirements of the assignment. If you are disappointed by a grade, we would be happy to discuss our feedback with you and to help you improve for the next assignment.

The grading scale for this class will be that an A is 94 or above; A- is 90-93; B+ is 87-89; B is 84-86; B- is 80-83; C+ is 77-79; C is 74-76; C- is 70-73; D+ is 67-69; D is 64-66; D- is 60-63; and F is 59 and below.
Grades will be calculated as follows:

Assignments

Please read all instructions carefully and ask questions if you are unsure about the requirements. I’ve written out this detailed information to help you succeed on the assignments; look for additional information and samples of most of these assignments on Blackboard.

NB: The assignments you undertake should all be about cultures other than your own. You will have many opportunities to share your own cultural background and experiences with us in class discussions. For your papers, however, I want you to investigate new territory.

Culture Homework

Write two or three paragraphs describing your own culture and what it means to you. (This is the one exception to the note above about not writing about your own culture!)

Research Paradigm Assignment (Homework)

1. Find and read a recent research article in intercultural communication.
2. Turn in the citation for the article along with the article’s published abstract.
3. Based on the information presented in class and in the Martin and Nakayama chapter about research paradigms, write a brief paragraph or two explaining which perspective the author(s) took and what about their work made that perspective evident.

Be sure to choose a research article in which the authors conducted some kind of study. Do not choose a meta-analysis (a study of other studies), a book review, an essay, or an article that only discusses theory.

We will discuss in class how to look for articles in our USC Library system. Good sources include the International Journal of Intercultural Relations, Human Communication Research, Journal of Intercultural Communication Research and journals in related disciplines such as the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology and the Journal of Cross-Cultural Psychology. Avoid journals that are very specific to a field outside of communication, such as nursing, geriatrics, education or linguistics.

Cultural Exploration Papers (Two papers: 5-7 pages each)

These assignments combine cultural explorations with knowledge gained from the textbook and your own research. Each of these parts should enhance the other. The exploration should give you cultural knowledge that will help you understand the text and the text gives you a theoretical perspective that will increase your understanding of what you see in your exploration. I will talk about the details of the assignment in class.

You will have a number of options for which type of exploration you would like to do. You’ll be selecting two of these, choosing a different type for each paper:

I. Cultural Interview: Interview someone from another culture who is living in the U.S. What surprises did they encounter when they came here? What differences have they noticed? How have they adjusted? Focus on differences in human interaction and communication. In addition to citing the textbook, cite at least one outside source that gave you additional information about your interviewee’s original culture. The additional information should directly support and contribute to the cultural exploration, not provide background or geographical information. Please do not interview a member of your immediate family. Choose someone who arrived here within the last few years.

II. Expatriate Interview: Interview someone from the U.S. who has lived for at least a year in another country sometime in the last five years. What surprises did they encounter in the new country? What differences did they notice? How did they adjust? Focus on differences in human interaction and communication. In addition to citing the textbook, cite at least one outside source that gave you additional information about the culture your interviewee visited. The additional information should directly support and contribute to the cultural exploration, not provide background or geographical information. Please do not interview a member of your immediate family.

III. Cultural Phenomena: Look through magazines and newspapers to find stories that highlight cultural (rather than political, religious or economic) phenomena. Choose three stories that are somehow related (e.g., they’re all from the same culture or they all discuss very similar issues or they’re all related to one course concept/theme). Discuss the cultural issues presented and how they relate to course concepts, citing the textbook. Include a reference page that lists the articles you read.

IV. Intercultural Theory and Research: Choose three research articles from research journals on one specific, narrow topic of intercultural communication discussed in the text that you would like to explore in greater depth. Write a miniature literature review by summarizing and evaluating the findings from the studies, and cite the concept from our textbook. Include a reference page giving the citations of the articles, along with the article from the textbook.

V. World Culture Clash: This is the most difficult option. Analyze one of the world’s ethnic conflicts from an intercultural communication perspective. What cultural differences might help create or exacerbate the conflict? What concepts from the text might increase understanding of the situation? Cite at least three sources of your information about the clash in addition to citing our textbook. The conflict you select should be a situation that continues today and you should not spend more than a paragraph or two giving historical background. (Please do not choose the Israeli-Palestinian conflict or the conflict in Northern Ireland.)
VI. Your Own Idea: Consult me first; then conduct your own exploration. Please be sure to discuss your idea with me at least one week in advance. You will have to incorporate at least three written resources in addition to the textbook, depending on your experience.

See Blackboard postings for more information and for examples of cultural exploration reports.

Exams
The exams assess if you have learned the material covered in the readings, lectures, and class discussions. They will also ask you to apply what you have learned and demonstrate your ability to analyze intercultural situations. Prepare for a series of rigorous multiple choice questions on the exams. If you know yourself to be someone who finds these kinds of tests particularly challenging, check my posts on Blackboard and seek help early in the semester.

Please note that you are responsible for both the material presented in the readings and in class. The two do not always overlap. If you missed a class, it would be a good idea to get notes from at least two other students to make sure you have complete information.

The final will not be “cumulative” in that you will not have to go back to the earlier chapters and study them in depth. However, your knowledge will build, and your responses to the “take-home” final exam questions should reflect that knowledge base.

Joint Educational Project (JEP) option
In lieu of writing the second cultural exploration paper, you may apply to volunteer with JEP in one of their community organizations such as Central American Resource Center (CARECEN) or Asian Americans Advancing Justice (AAAJ). If you participate, you will be overseen by and provide reports of your activities to JEP staff. At the end of the semester your grade (for this 20% portion of the class) will be given to me by JEP in consultation with the service organization where you volunteered.

JEP has a limited number of spaces available and the application deadline is very early in the semester. Please contact them directly if you’re interested. https://dornsife.usc.edu/joint-educational-project/

Campus Resources
Please take advantage of some of the resources your tuition supports. Early in the semester, visit The Writing Center for one-on-one assistance or small-group workshops. (Email writing@usc.edu or call 213-740-3691). If you have difficulty with tests, reach out to the Center for Academic Support (call 213-740-0776 or email them at study@usc.edu).

Looking Ahead
Every semester one of the great benefits of teaching this class is that I get to learn from the wealth of experiences and backgrounds students bring to the course. I’ll be your guide through the materials, but you will make many contributions. I look forward to your participation and to learning more together about culture and communication.
Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct:
Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.
