Course Description

This course aims to provide junior-level aerospace and mechanical engineering students with an in-depth introduction to fluid dynamics. Topics covered will include: fluid statics; conservation of mass, momentum, and energy (in both differential and integral form); laminar and turbulent flows; potential (ideal) flows; compressible flows; as well as several applications

Learning Objectives and Outcomes

This course will:

- Introduce the concept of fluids as a continuum media
- Provide exposure to three different analytical approaches when considering fluids problems, i.e., the use of
 - o Dimensional analysis
 - o Control volume (integral) balances of mass, momentum, and energy
 - o Differential equations governing fluid flow
- Teach problem-solving strategies in engineering applications of fluid dynamics, including fluid systems in motion and in static equilibrium
- Enable students to identify the most appropriate methodology for solving engineering problems
- Integrate fluid flow analysis, basic numerical methods, design, experimental testing, data collection and post-processing in a team design project for a fluid system of engineering relevance.

Prerequisite(s): AME 201

Co-Requisite(s): MATH 245

Textbook and Other Resources

There will be no required textbook for this class. All course notes will be provided in electronic format via Blackboard. However, F. M. White, Fluid Mechanics, 8th Ed, McGraw-Hill is recommended. It is a great resource for fluid dynamics in engineering systems. Readings will be suggested from the book to supplement course notes. Other good resources:

- R. L. Panton, Incompressible Flow, Wiley
- M. Van Dyke, An Album of Fluid Motion, Parabolic Press (a beautiful book – check it out in the library!)

There is a series of 39 videos developed by the National Committee for Fluid Mechanics Films (NCFMF) that I would highly recommend for anyone interested in the subject:

Discussion board

Piazza (<https://piazza.com>) will be used for all electronic discussions. Please post your questions (regarding homework assignments, class logistics, exams, etc.) on Piazza instead of using email. You can access Piazza through the Blackboard page for this course.

Assignment Submission Policy

There will be a total of 8 homework assignments. You will generally have one week to work on each assignment.

- No late homework will be accepted.
- Discussion of homework assignments with your classmates is allowed (and encouraged!) but each student should develop and write their own original solution.
- Assignments should be submitted in stapled US letter-sized paper, with legible and logically organized solutions that explicitly include all necessary steps and assumptions (if any) made.
- Course grading policy and letter grade equivalence:

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.
