I. Course Description
The acceleration of the phenomena of globalization is impacting business practices worldwide across different sectors in all the phases of the value chain. Markets are becoming more and more intertwined and it has become imperative for all entities operating in the 21st century to analyze their consumers and their competitive landscape in global terms. The ability to effectively do so provides a key competitive advantage in order to create, capture and deliver value in an evolving global landscape. This course reviews the principles of marketing in a global perspective, focusing on the decisions regarding the communications mix. Different communication strategies are analyzed within the global – local dilemma. The analysis draws on relevant interdisciplinary theoretical frameworks as well as practical applications from case studies to bridge the gap between theory and practice utilizing lectures, articles, and industry reports.

II. Student Learning Outcomes
By the end of this course participants interested in careers in the communication industries will have developed analytical tools to identify the challenges and opportunities in the global marketplace and to manage the international communication decisions within the marketing mix implementing effective global integrated communication to create and sustain competitive advantage. Having explored and analyzed the multifaceted international landscape, shaped by unfolding phenomena of globalization and cultural differences around the globe, this course contributes to hone the skills relevant to living and working in a diverse world and to become a global citizen.
