I. Course Description
With their growing role and influence in global affairs, countries in East Asia are increasingly aware of the vital importance of image and reputation as an integral part of their nation’s political and economic strategies. This course seeks to advance our understanding of their engagement in public diplomacy in contemporary times. Given the central reality of the rise of China, we focus on public diplomacy concepts and practices by China, with additional discussion on Japan and South Korea, and explore implications for the United States. We approach the subject matter primarily from a communications perspective and in a political and policy context.

II. Learning Objectives and Assessment
By the end of this course, students will be able to:
• Develop a broad understanding of the political and policy context in which public diplomacy is pursued by major countries in East Asia
• Examine public diplomacy engagement strategies and practices in a rigorous way
• Apply conceptual frameworks and tools in an in-depth analysis of a contemporary public diplomacy program

III. Course Notes
This is a seminar-style course. Most of the course materials are posted on Blackboard for reference. In addition to readings and in-class discussion, students are expected to attend 2-3 campus events related to the topics under examination to enhance their learning.

IV. Assignments
Participation in Class Discussions
Meaningful participation in class discussions will require thorough and thoughtful reading of the assigned materials.

Case Discussion Facilitation
Each participant will lead two discussions of assigned readings. The task is to present a 30-minute discussion of the assigned readings, a discussion that is critical and analytical rather than merely descriptive. You will need to prepare a handout for the discussion.

Media Monitor
Throughout the semester, each participant will monitor and follow press coverage and social media conversation concerning a public diplomacy program/event by a country of your choice in the region. You will provide periodic summaries and updates in class during the semester.
Policy Overviews
There are two policy overview assignments. For the first one, participants will provide a general overview of key foreign policies (and initiatives) of the three countries. The second will focus on China’s One Belt, One Road initiative. Instructions will be discussed in class. Each overview should not exceed 1,000 words (double-spaced, 12-point font, Times New Roman).

Reflection Essay
Participants will watch American Factory and provide an analysis of the themes from the document from cross-cultural communication and public diplomacy perspectives (no more than 1,500 words). Instructions will be discussed in class.

Term Project
For the term assignment, there are two options:
- Option 1 – seminar paper. You may choose a topic in the broad area of public diplomacy in East Asia and develop a substantial seminar paper (approx. 25 pages) or a research proposal by the end of the semester. If it is a research proposal, it should include a specification of a problem, literature review, and presentation of research methods.
- Option 2 – creative project. You may design a multimedia project/program (e.g., a multimedia storytelling project) to help facilitate and improve public diplomatic communication. You need to clearly define the goals, target audience, message and media strategy in the write-up. Sample end products are necessary.

X. Policies and Procedures

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism

Presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words - is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Section 11, Behavior Violating University Standards (https://policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b/). Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct (http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct/).

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity

The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the contemporary process of globalization, including four books and three dozen research articles in various industries and sectors. Dr. Wang has published widely on the role of communication in international consulting firm McKinsey & Company, where he advised clients on matters of communication strategy and implementation across a variety of industries and sectors. Dr. Wang has published widely on the role of communication in the contemporary process of globalization, including four books and three dozen research articles in

b. Support Systems

Equity and Diversity
Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity (http://equity.usc.edu/) or to the Department of Public Safety (http://dps.usc.edu/contact/report/). This is important for the safety of the whole USC community. Another member of the university community - such as a friend, classmate, adviser, or faculty member - can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Relationship and Sexual Violence Prevention and Services (https://engemannshc.usc.edu/rsvp/) provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage (https://sarc.usc.edu/) describes reporting options and other resources.

Support with Scholarly Writing
A number of USC’s schools provide support for students who need help with scholarly writing. Check with your adviser or program staff to find out more. Students whose primary language is not English should check with the American Language Institute (http://ali.usc.edu/) which sponsors courses and workshops specifically for international graduate students.

The Office of Disability Services and Programs (http://dsp.usc.edu/) provides certification for students with disabilities and helps arrange the relevant accommodations.

Students requesting test-related accommodations will need to share and discuss their DSP recommended accommodation letter/s with their faculty and/or appropriate departmental contact person at least three weeks before the date the accommodations will be needed. Additional time may be needed for final exams. Reasonable exceptions will be considered during the first three weeks of the semester as well as for temporary injuries and for students recently diagnosed. Please note that a reasonable period of time is still required for DSP to review documentation and to make a determination whether a requested accommodation will be appropriate.

Stress Management
Students are under a lot of pressure. If you start to feel overwhelmed, it is important that you reach out for help. A good place to start is the USC Student Counseling Services office at 213-740-7711. The service is confidential, and there is no charge.

Emergency Information
If an officially declared emergency makes travel to campus infeasible, USC Emergency Information http://emergency.usc.edu/ will provide safety and other updates, including ways in which instruction will be continued by means of Blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technology.

XI. About Your Instructor

Jay Wang is an associate professor at USC Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism and director of the USC Center on Public Diplomacy. He previously worked for the international consulting firm McKinsey & Company, where he advised clients on matters of communication strategy and implementation across a variety of industries and sectors. Dr. Wang has published widely on the role of communication in academic and professional journals. His recent books include Debating Public Diplomacy: Now and Next (co-editor), Shaping China’s Global Imagination: Nation Branding at the World Expo. He serves on the editorial board of the International Journal of Communication. Dr. Wang has led successful partnerships on research and programming with organizations, including the BBC, the Center for Strategic and International Studies, the European Union Delegation to the U.S., Global Affairs Canada, Global Ties U.S., the Japan Foundation, NATO, the United Nations Foundation and the U.S. Department of State, on topics ranging from soft power in global affairs, U.S. public diplomacy and national security, to digital advocacy, public diplomacy performance and evaluation. Prior to joining USC, Dr. Wang taught at Purdue University.
