Course Description

Catalogue description: THTR 506 An advanced writing workshop that focuses on continuing development of the crafting of character, centering on depth, breadth, dimensionality, and authenticity.

In most good stories, it is the character's personality that creates the action of the story. If you start with a real personality, a real character, then something is bound to happen.

--Flannery O'Connor, Writing Short Stories

Course Overview

Advanced Creating Characters is a writing workshop for graduate student writers who already have done the foundational work of character development and are looking to delve deeper into the human psyche, with an emphasis on character complexity and authenticity. Original characters, not stereotypes, with distinct voices, quirks, and traits are the goal. The course is also an opportunity for writers to engage in an exploration of sensitivity, empathy, diversity/inclusivity versus cultural appropriation. MFA writers will be challenged to be proactive in the class and develop and apply a set of diagnostic tools that they can use to fix ailing characters on their own in future scriptwriting. The course work will include not only character creation and scene writing, but also the critical analysis of the work of other contemporary writers, including memoirists who write about writing. In taking a look at the latter, we can determine if it is possible to adapt parts of their process for writing fictional plays. Advanced Creating Characters also looks at how to harness the dark side of human nature—inner demons, desires, lies, secrets, and fatal flaws—to craft dramatic stories. Characters will be viewed as a key component of every dramatic work—serving not only as story generators, but also as creators of the world of the piece and the source of movement in the work. Particular emphasis will be placed on establishing and maintaining empathy, especially when working on difficult and/or dangerous characters, as well as using metaphor to deepen characters and subtext. Note: This class can support writing done in other MFA courses.

Learning Objectives

By the end of the course, participants will be able to:

- apply various strategies for character creation;

- establish for each character a unique voice;
- use multidimensional characters as a point of origin for stories;
- establish the “lore” of the play and how this expands the lead character;
- provide constructive feedback on character development and scenes;
- devise a diagnostic tool and a process for reworking/strengthening characters.

And Beyond...

We’re also adopting key elements of USC’s 21st-century vision as our own by:

- GOING GREEN
- CONNECTING
- TRANSFORMING

What does this mean?

GOING GREEN means that we will save on time, energy, and paper. You will not print your work; instead, we will project your scenes, brainstorming materials, revision plans, etc. onto a giant screen via laptop computer. You won’t print your Final Project; instead, you’ll turn in a PDF of the script electronically. All handouts and course materials will be paperless, sent via email and available online via Blackboard.

CONNECTING means that we will make contact in several ways—with each other, with the creative community, with the world at large. We’ll connect with each other to form a support network so that everyone feels secure taking artistic risks; plus we’ll connect via text message and online to keep up to the minute on what’s going on in class; you may even want to try connecting via the free teleconferencing tools available (Google Hangout, Skype). We’ll also stay attuned to what’s going on in American theatre, and we’ll look at what’s going on in the world—and explore how we can use art for growth and healing. Let’s take a look at where we are—the American West—and consider how the stories of this region have gone untold and the people have gone unrecognized and determine what we can do to change that.

TRANSFORMING means that we will be looking at theatre writing as a way to effect transformation in our lives, and in the lives of others; we’ll look at creating theatre from a place of empathy, from a place of heart-driven concern for humanity; we’ll look at culture and trends and attempt to define and redefine playwriting for the 21st century.

Prerequisite(s): None

Required Readings and Supplementary Materials

UNPUBLISHED PLAYS (to be supplied as PDFs by instructor; determined after discussion with writers)

On your own, take some time to read these plays and guides for a richer insight into what is theatre:

WATER BY THE SPOONFUL. Quiara Alegria Hudes.

ANIMALS OUT OF PAPER. Rajiv Joseph.

THE BROTHER/SISTER PLAYS. Tarrell Alvin McCraney.

FATHER COMES HOME FROM THE WARS, PARTS 1,2,3. Suzan-Lori Parks.
INDECENT. Paula Vogel.
MR. BURNS – A POST-ELECTRIC PLAY. Anne Washburn.
PLAYWRITING BRIEF AND BRILLIANT. Julie Jensen.
THE EMPTY SPACE. Peter Brook.

Published texts available via the USC Bookstore or online at Amazon. They may also be found via the USC library. Unpublished plays and various articles, essays supplied as PDFs.

Highly recommended for psychology of characters:
THE SOUL’S CODE. James Hillman.

The School of Dramatic Arts’ Dramatic Writing Program guidelines call for each student in playwriting courses to read at least seven plays as part of the course and to investigate them critically. You are encouraged, in particular, to read contemporary work. Plays will be suggested in class. The more you read, the more you will become aware of the diverse styles, voices, and structural forms open to you as a writer.

Special Note

All students enrolled in MFADW are required to attend program events. This includes all of the New Works Festival events (NWF I, II, and III), all Western Edge Playwrights’ Salon events, and the student orientation held in late August. While some of these dates are not yet solidified, please put the times/dates in your calendar as soon as you can. Because we are monitoring professional development in every course that you take, and in the MFADW overall, your participation in these program events will have a direct impact on your annual review.

Please make any and all travel plans for after the New Works Festival III.

Description of Grading Criteria and Assessment of Assignments

Grading criteria: The quality of work for all components (see list under “Grading Breakdown”) is determined by the thoroughness of the effort, the continuing process, and the imagination displayed.

Grading Scale for SDA: A indicates work of excellent quality; B of good quality; C of acceptable quality; D of below average quality; and F indicates inadequate work.

Excellent: A (4) = 100-94; A- (3.7) = 93-90

Good: B+ (3.3) = 89-86; B (3) = 85-84; B- (2.7) = 83-80

Acceptable: C+ (2.3) = 79-76; C (2) = 75-74; C- (1.7) = 73-70

Poor: D+ (1.3) = 69 – 66; D = 65-64 (1); D = 63 - 60 (0.7) = 60s; F (0) = 59 and below

Note: A minimum passing grade for graduate students is C.

- “Excellent” indicates that the student couples clear understanding of the class material with original and creative insight, as demonstrated by their work; “Good” means that the student demonstrates a clear understanding of the material and has done the work well; “Acceptable” indicates that the student demonstrates a general understanding of the material but with some gaps; “Poor” indicates that there are identifiable gaps in the student’s understanding of the class material; “Failure” is the result of the student not having completed his or her assignments coupled with poor understanding of the material.

- When the average falls between two grades, the final grade will be weighted toward the positive end of the scale for students whose attendance and participation in class have been good, and will be weighted toward the negative end of the scale for those with poor attendance and participation.

Grading Breakdown

Your grade will be based on multiple components: the creation of a character inspiration/research presentation; the development of character banks/character recipes/monologues; critical analysis (which includes reading and discussion of assigned texts as well as other participants' work); a writing from testimonies project (accessed through the Shoah Foundation); in-class exercises; creating a personal diagnostic tool; ongoing writing and revision; completion of a Final Project, which is a portfolio of your work for the semester.

Please bear in mind that you earn your grade based on the timely completion of your work, plus the quality of your work. Late assignments are marked down due to missed deadline. Assignments are accepted only within one week of due date. After that, they are considered a missed assignment, which counts as zero. (Note: A late assignment is marked down one grade notch, approximately 5 points; i.e., an assignment that would have earned an A receives an A- for missing the deadline; an assignment that would have earned a B+ receives a B for missing the deadline, etc.)

Components of the overall grade are weighted as follows:

Character Inspiration/Research Presentation	15 percent
Character Bank/Character Recipes/Monologues/etc	10 percent
Critical Analysis (reading and discussion)	10 percent
Writing from Testimonies	15 percent
Individual Character Diagnostic Tool & Process	10 percent
Participation (In-Class Exercises, etc.)	10 percent
Ongoing writing and revision	15 percent
Final Project Portfolio	15 percent
TOTAL	100 percent

The Character Inspiration/Research Presentation is a creative project in which each writer presents the various sources that provide the background for the characters of a play and for the world of the play. In addition to being a research component of writing—this project is also a way to get in touch with your unconscious motivators. These presentations will be supported by video projection and may include visual art, musical inspirations, charts, graphics, articles/news stories/essays, photographs, podcasts, archival documents—any kind of source material. If desired, the presentations may be done in a specific format, such as Powerpoint, Prezi, Keynote, Glogster, etc. Be prepared to discuss your resources and inspirations for your characters/story both in a creative/metaphoric language, as well as pragmatically. Note that this presentation is a “vision board” and is useful whenever beginning a creative work; it may include items that inspire you in general, or items that relate particularly to the characters you have in mind right now (even if you don’t know what to do with them), or items that are even more specific and directly relate to a play you want to write. This a tool with which you can tap into your imagination; you can use it as an active, multimedia form of brainstorming, as a way to start to explore ideas, as a way to begin to frame your thoughts, as a way to visualize characters, and, in this class in particular, as a way to promote discussion with other artists to enhance your vision. The “board” part of this vision board presentation is virtual—we’ll project your inspirations onto the screen from a laptop.

Character Banks, Character Recipes, and Monologues are early explorations of character traits and the unique voices of characters. They may also serve as a virtual journal or resource bank of characters to work on in the future; or as a way to brainstorm with yourself; or as a map to the ongoing development of specific characters.

Critical Analysis is vital to every writer because it provides a process for assessing artistic work. In the analysis of already published/produced plays, you gain experience in taking a deeper look at character, language, and structure—which can then be applied to evaluating your own work, to assist you in revision. In the analysis of the work of other writers in the workshop, you gain experience in providing useful guidance to text that is still in-progress and that may be at a more ephemeral stage of development. Both these skills are important in your ongoing life as a writer.

Writing from Testimonies is a special project that offers an opportunity to work with a different kind of source material—archives and video testimonies—for the purpose of acquiring empathy and expanding diversity and inclusion in the creation of characters. We will be tapping into the vast multimedia archives of the Shoah Foundation, via their iWitness program, and use testimonies to develop characters for fictional work. (May be a short play, a monologue, or a project proposal.)

Note: Some of you have started a Shoah project already. For those of you not familiar with the project: A Shoah Foundation researcher will be happy to demonstrate how to use the archives and will also provide guidance on how to conduct interviews for a potential documentary piece based on testimonies. It is suggested that each writer watch several testimonies and select one person’s testimony in particular. From the selected testimony, each writer will develop a character for a fictional play (or documentary-style piece) using the person’s testimony; components of this project might include a monologue and/or a short play. For the monologue, the following questions will be asked: Is the writer getting in touch with the character—and in what way? How is the writer using the testimony to develop the world for a play? For the short play, the following questions will be asked: How has the testimony influenced the creation of the play—story? character voice? theme? metaphor? How has the testimony expanded the writer’s vision? Class critique of the Testimonies project will explore these questions and more. (Note: Your approach to the Testimonies project is optional. We’ll discuss in class.)

What is the diagnostic tool?

Each of you will devise some sort of strategy or process-oriented method for checking your characters for authenticity, voice, and integrity. These will be individualized to your needs/desires as a writer (and perhaps, also, individualized to the requirements of the play you’re working on).

What does participation entail?

Participation includes: presentations; in-class exercises; discussion of assigned reading; and, most important, constructive, guided feedback provided for the other writers’ work. The participation grade is determined as follows: For each class session, you get a check mark for showing up (which constitutes a B); you get a check mark with a plus sign (+) if you participate diligently (which constitutes an A); you get a check mark with a negative sign (-) if your participation is less than adequate (which constitutes a C). Please respect your community of writers and be on time. Chronic lateness will constitute a lowering of the participation grade

Your Final Project is a creative portfolio illustrating your understanding of multidimensional characters plus your ability to develop and use such characters. The project will be graded on artistic merit, comprehension of character principles, and progress, i.e., your growth from early exploratory work to final draft. Re: The Final Project – These will vary; some of you may use this class to develop characters for a play you’re working on in another class; some of you may use this class to create an entirely new play, whether full-length or one-act; some of you may have an alternate idea. We’ll take time to discuss this in the workshop and you can pitch your ideas to me. Anything goes—as long as it’s clear to me that you are working diligently and the work you’re doing is meaningful.

HINT: Keep a Creative Journal! This is an archive of your explorations for writing; it may include jottings off the top of your head, stuff from your Inspiration Board, research, ideas, resources for current and future writing, and exercises and raw material from class. NOTE: It’s no longer necessary to keep an actual journal, on paper. Due to the proliferation of smart phone and tablet apps for storing notes, etc., the Creative Journal may now be electronic. But do keep one. It will make your writing so much easier!

Note: The SDA GUIDELINES on GRADING state that:

- There shall be no unexcused absences.
- No late assignments, projects, exams, papers, or exercises shall be accepted unless advance extensions have been arranged between the student and the teacher or unless exceptional circumstances occur. Under such exceptional circumstances, no late penalties will accrue.

Additional Policies

Participation is essential and figures into your grade. This course is modeled along the lines of a professional, artistic workshop; thus, as a member of such a workshop, your participation is necessary not only for the development of your own work, but for the development of your colleagues’ work as well. Theatre is a highly collaborative, community-oriented medium and play development is a key part of the life of a playwright. Indeed, in this class, one of our projects depends upon collaboration. Please honor your obligation to your colleagues’ work and contribute to the discussion. Absences must be for reasons of illness or emergency and must be accompanied by a written explanation; in your absence, please prepare the assigned work that is due and turn it in immediately upon return to the workshop.

1. You are entering into a collaborative relationship with fellow writers and, thus, it is your responsibility to be available to your workshop colleagues for feedback, analysis, and support.
2. All workshop members must be treated with respect.
3. You are required to attend the workshop and to be on time. Tardiness is defined as being 15 minutes late or more. Excessive tardiness will affect your ongoing writing and participation grade.
4. Though SDA’s policy states that there are no unexcused absences, please note that I will excuse absences for certain specific reasons, such as a valid professional development opportunity, provided you make arrangements with me in advance. For other absences to be excused, the absences must be for reasons of illness or emergency, and you must notify me in writing (preferably in advance). For the most part, if you are doing your work diligently and if you communicate with me, I will excuse a legitimate absence.

5. All assignments, written and/or otherwise, must be prepared on time and turned in (or presented) on the deadline date. Late assignments will be marked down due to the missed deadline. Assignments not turned in within a week of deadline count as missed assignments (zero credit).
6. IF YOU MISS CLASS: It is your responsibility—and SOLELY YOUR RESPONSIBILITY—to make up work you have missed and to obtain information about missed class discussions or missed assignments from your classmates or Blackboard, not from me. I will not be repeating lectures or class discussion; you will need to make arrangements to do independent research on whatever topics you have missed to keep up with the workshop. You will also need to keep in contact with your classmates to obtain notes and/or information re: what you missed. Again: Do not request notes or information from me. Course materials can be found on the Blackboard site for this course. For your syllabus, handouts, etc., go to Blackboard.
7. Please check your e-mail regularly to see if there are any changes in class meeting place, etc. On rare occasions, it becomes necessary to schedule a new location for class meeting. If I am unable to provide you with this information in the preceding class, I will send you the information via e-mail and/or text message.
8. We're going green in this classroom, so you will be providing all workshop members with copies of your work by projecting your documents onto the screen in the classroom from your computer, thus eliminating the need for paper. Instructions on how to do this will be provided. For collaborations, you may work on Google documents that may be team-edited via Google Drive.
9. If you desire an appointment with me, you are required to contact me via e-mail or text message at least 24 hours in advance, otherwise there is no guarantee I will receive your message with sufficient time to make arrangements to meet with you. Please note that I have included multiple ways to contact me on the front page of this syllabus.

Assess risk-taking and construct a challenge. Look to your sources of inspiration. Present revised pages from your work (writer’s choice). TURN IN: Your Final Project portfolio. Due May 1, 2020.
FINAL Thursday May 7	FINAL EXAM 4:30 – 6:30 pm	Artistic Review: Group Feedback & Critique of Scripts. Plus: Last Look Q&As. Where to go next.	Date: For confirmation of the date and time of the final for this class, consult the USC Schedule of Classes at www.usc.edu/soc .

REMINDER: Use Blackboard as a resource. Class materials, information, handouts, additional essays, source materials, etc., are posted on the class site on Blackboard.

We all have two heads and two memories. A head of clay, which will turn to dust; and another, forever invulnerable to the gnawings of time and of passion. One memory that death kills, a compass that expires with the journey, and another memory, the collective memory, which will live as long as the human adventure in the world lives. –Eduardo Galeano, Memory of Fire: Faces and Masks

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct:

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, <http://policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct>.

Statement for Students with Disabilities

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Website for DSP and contact information: (213) 740-0776 (Phone), (213) 740-6948 (TDD only), (213) 740-8216 (FAX) ability@usc.edu.

Emergency Preparedness/Course Continuity in a Crisis

In case of a declared emergency if travel to campus is not feasible, USC executive leadership will announce an electronic way for instructors to teach students in their residence halls or homes using a combination of Blackboard, teleconferencing, and other technologies. See the university’s site on Campus Safety and Emergency Preparedness.
