

For many CAMS courses, International students in the U.S. will be required to attend in-person labs and/or screenings that will comprise half of course time. Details on this format will be discussed in class.