I. Course Description
This course gives journalism majors hands-on experience in broadcast, radio, and digital news. Students work four hours a week in a virtual newsroom with Annenberg TV News, Annenberg Radio News and annenbergmedia.com to fulfill this lab shift, which runs concurrently with the core journalism courses Reporting and Writing I and Reporting and Writing II. The practicum is credit/no-credit.

II. Student Learning Outcomes
Identify elements that make a story newsworthy for different audiences
Research and verify information for use in news stories on TV, radio and digital platforms including social media
Write news briefs and stories for radio and TV on deadline and in accordance with professional industry standards under the guidance of student editors and faculty
Shoot photographs and video and record and edit audio and video for use in news stories on deadline and in accordance with professional industry standards
Collaborate with other student reporters and editors to cover stories across platforms
Apply principles of ethics in real-life news situations

Concurrent Enrollment: JOUR 207 Reporting and Writing I or JOUR 307 Reporting and Writing II

III. Course Notes
The practicum is credit/no-credit. This semester, we will work from a virtual newsroom via Zoom meetings and extensive communication through Slack. Please stay engaged while on the Zoom calls. You don’t need to have your camera on all the time, but please be respectful and attentive during the virtual newsroom meetings, in your comments and in chat.

All reporting will be done remotely. Your instructor and Media Center staff will assist and support you to do this. You can also access Annenberg online resources.

Some Zoom Etiquette to consider:

1. Be mindful of your location. Avoid distracting backgrounds. If outdoors, try not to be in a windy spot. Try to get best reception possible.
2. Mute is your friend. Unexpected noises happen even in a great spot. Just make sure to unmute when you speak!
3. Turn video on. We don’t always like to, and understandably sometimes we can’t! But broadcasting yourself on Zoom will make it easier to engage and get to know each other. If you can, please put your video on, or at least put up a picture of yourself.
4. Headphones are helpful. You will hear and be heard much more clearly with headphones.
5. Make sure the name on your Zoom reflects how you want to be called! If you sign off with your sister’s or brother’s account/name, that’s how student leaders will call you.

Classroom norms
As your instructor, I am committed to affirming identities, realities and voices of all students, especially those from historically marginalized or underrepresented backgrounds. Please let me know how to pronounce your name correctly, your preferred gender pronouns, and any other feedback that contributes to a positive classroom atmosphere. If you feel the classroom norms are not being followed by me or one of your classmates, please reach out.

Sharing our ideas, practices and plans with others and opening ourselves to critique (or peer feedback) can be a vulnerable process. To model the expectations of a professional work environment in our field, and promote a respectful classroom environment, I ask all students to make their best effort to follow these norms:

- Do not interrupt when someone else is speaking.
- Critique ideas and practices, not people.
- Support critique with evidence from course texts, or speak from personal experience.
- Allow everyone to participate (i.e., don’t dominate or be engaged in unrelated activities.)
- Keep a positive tone when engaging in class discussions and group work.
- Equitably share group work across group members.
- Accept feedback in the positive spirit with which it is given as a means of development.
- Show respect to your peers and the instructor.
- Reflect kindness and concern for your peers. You never know when someone else is having the worst day of their life.
- Let others know how you would like to be addressed and address others as they would like to be addressed.

IV. Description and Assessment of Assignments
Students in this course participate in the production of a daily TV news broadcast, twice-weekly radio broadcast or frequently updated digital platforms including social media. Class work will consist of on-the-job training and experience that mirrors the real world. Student reporters will work on tasks as assigned by student editors and with the support of faculty and coaches. Every week students are responsible for bringing in story ideas and writing a hand-off note at the end of their shifts. Failure to submit a hand-off note in Trello (the newsroom system) means a student will not get credit for that shift and must repeat it.

Student duties include:
- Generating story ideas for radio, TV and digital platforms including social media
- Finding sources and conducting interviews
- Shooting video and photos and gathering audio for use in news stories
- Editing video, photos and audio for use in news stories
- Writing news briefs
- Writing for radio and TV broadcasts

Students are required to keep up on the news by reading a variety of news outlets, listening to local and national radio or podcasts, and watching local and national news.

Learning how to become a good journalist means understanding and questioning your own biases and assumptions and considering the “fault lines” present in most stories. As a reporter, you strive for a diverse range of sources and voices in your stories.

V. Grading
This class is about hands-on learning. It is designed to give you practical experience in a newsroom. In order to succeed in this class, you will need to attend your shift and complete the tasks assigned to you, including a shift handoff note to be done before you leave the Media Center. The student-led news outlets that make up Annenberg Media are counting on you. If you must miss a shift because of documented illness or emergency, you must notify your instructor and student editors via the newsroom Slack channel and make up the session within two weeks (religious holidays are exempt, as are some other limited circumstances.) Please arrive on time. If you are late, you will not get credit for the shift and must make it up. Do not schedule interviews or assignments for other classes during this time period or you will not receive credit and must make up the shift.

Grading Standards
This class is a credit/no-credit class. You will not receive a letter grade for this class. You will be assessed on your effort and output, and the aim is to produce publishable work. That work could help you if you are seeking a job in a newsroom or as a student manager with Annenberg Media in subsequent semesters. You cannot pass this class without doing the hands-on work.

VI. Assignment Submission Policy
Students will work under the guidance of student editors and with the support of faculty, instructors and coaches. Every week, you should arrive with your own story ideas. Instructors will discuss current stories and review the previous week’s work. All students must complete shift handoff notes in Trello before they leave the Media Center. You must check in with your instructor and student editors before you leave. If you do not complete a handoff note, you will not receive credit for your shift.

VII. Required Readings and Supplementary Materials
You will be expected to arrive for your shift with a knowledge of what is happening in local and national news. You will write in accordance with AP style. You must check Slack and your USC email regularly.

VIII. Laptop Policy
All undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors are required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Digital Lounge for more information. To connect to USC’s Secure Wireless network, please visit USC’s Information Technology Services website.

You can complete your assignments with a smartphone, computer and headphones. Please reach out to your instructor if you are having trouble completing your assignments.

IX. Add/Drop Dates for Session 001 (13 weeks: 8/17/20 – 11/13/20)
- Friday, September 4: Last day to register and add classes for Session 001
- Friday, September 4: Last day to change enrollment option to Pass/No Pass or Audit for Session 001
- Friday, September 4: Last day to drop a class and receive a refund to avoid a mark of “W” on student record and STARS report
- Friday, September 4: Last day to purchase or waive tuition refund insurance for fall
- Friday, October 2: Last day to drop a course without a mark of “W” on the transcript only. Mark of “W” will still appear on student record and STARS report and tuition charges still apply. [Please drop any course by the end of week three for session 001 (or the 20 percent mark of the session in which the course is offered) to avoid tuition charges.]
- Friday, October 2: Last day to change a Pass/No Pass course to letter grade
- Friday, November 6: Last day to drop a class with a mark of “W” for Session 001

X. Course Schedule: A Weekly Breakdown

Important note to students: Be advised that this syllabus is subject to change.
Students are required to attend all shifts beginning the first week of classes. Many workshops will be presented during your shift; some will require you to view a recorded presentation BEFORE you arrive.

XI. Policies and Procedures

Additional Policies
Please see the clearly stated policies above. You will need to check your USC email and Slack regularly as well as follow the preceding rules about lab shifts.

Communication
Please contact me by Slack when possible during your shift. Otherwise, you may contact me by email. I’ll return your messages within 24 hours. You can also text me in emergency situations.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism
Plagiarism—presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words—is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in Scampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in Scampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity
The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.

Annenberg Student Success Fund
https://annenberg.usc.edu/current-students/resources/additional-funding-resources
The Annenberg Student Success Fund is a donor-funded financial aid account available to USC Annenberg undergraduate and graduate students for non-tuition expenses related to extra- and co-curricular programs and opportunities.
Breaking Bread Program [undergraduate students only]
https://undergrad.usc.edu/faculty/bread/
The Breaking Bread Program is designed to provide individual undergraduate students with an opportunity to meet and have scholarly discussions with faculty members outside of the normal classroom setting. Through this program, students and faculty enjoy good company and great conversation by literally “breaking bread” over a meal together and USC will pick up the tab! Your meal event can take place anywhere outside of the normal classroom setting. Your venue can be a restaurant or eatery on or off-campus.

XII. About Your Instructor
Kris Kelley is the Executive Director of the nonprofit Boyle Heights Beat, a hyper-local high school journalism project based in East Los Angeles. A former television news writer and producer for KCAL in Los Angeles, she also works as an adjunct professor at the Annenberg School of Communication and Journalism at the University of Southern California where she has taught undergraduate and graduate courses in live television production, and served as a television writing coach in the Media Center.
Kris earned her bachelor’s degree in English from University of California, Berkeley and a master’s degree in broadcast journalism from USC.
