Course Description:

Southeast Asia is present in our everyday lives: the peoples, cultures, products, and cuisines of Southeast Asia have traveled the world for centuries, and are now integral to many metropolitan centers, including our own city of Los Angeles. Like Los Angeles, the nations that compose Southeast Asia are themselves dynamically multicultural and multilingual. It was Southeast Asia's diverse, abundant, and coveted resources that first lured European and other colonists to this tropical region. A violent history of colonization produced the borders of the Southeast Asian nations that we see on the map today.

With a specific focus on the four major nations of maritime Southeast Asia (Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, and Malaysia), this course offers a general introduction to literary and cinematic production from the region. Through a sampling of different genres (including period drama, gothic and speculative fiction, and romantic comedy), our approach emphasizes a range of interconnected themes and issues, including: national and global citizenship; colonial history and imperial legacy; folklore, religion, and interfaith education; coming-of-age, gender identity, and sexual orientation; labor migration and economic development; race, ethnic diversity, and multiculturalism; environment and landscape; and language, music, and the performing arts. Why literature and film? By examining these creative forms of cultural production, we are exposed to how Southeast Asian voices represent and narrate themselves, their communities, their nations, and their histories. To enroll in this class, no prior knowledge of Southeast Asian history, cultures, or languages is assumed or required. All readings are either in English translation or English original. All films are subtitled in English.

Course Objectives:

Upon completion of this course, you should:

- 1) Be able to articulate the unique ways in which works of Southeast Asian literature and film interact with their historical, cultural, and environmental contexts.
- 2) Have a deeper understanding of how and why Southeast Asia is an important part of world history and our contemporary global society.
- 3) Understand how to write a paper of close literary and film analysis that is built around a central problem or question with a coherent argument and critical and substantive interpretation.

Course Technology:

Attending classes online and completing coursework remotely requires access to technology that not all students possess. If you need resources to successfully participate in this class, such as a laptop or internet hotspot, you may be eligible for the university's equipment rental program. To apply, please submit an application here. The Student Basic Needs team will contact all applicants in early August and distribute equipment to eligible applicants prior to the start of the fall semester. USC also provides free campus-wide software. Visit software available to USC campus for more info.

- Blackboard: There are two Blackboard sites for this class: the lecture website and your individual section website. The lecture website is where you go to access content (films, readings, grading rubrics, final study guide, etc.), as well as enter the Zoom classroom for lectures. The section website is where you go to submit assignments (discussion board posts, essays, etc.), to check your grades, and to enter the Zoom classroom for sections. Visit Blackboard help for students for assistance.
- Zoom: Zoom provides a high-quality, mobile-optimized, and video-audio conferencing service free to all USC students. Please use your USC Zoom account when attending classes remotely. Visit Zoom information for students for assistance and installation instructions. Each class session will be recorded and available to students for viewing within one hour following class. Guidelines and standards regarding Zoom participation (both synchronous and asynchronous) are specified in the “Instructions and Grading Rubric for Participation.”

Required Texts:

- Pramoedya Ananta Toer, This Earth of Mankind (Trans. Max Lane, New York: Penguin, 1996). New and used copies available for purchase at the USC Pertusati Bookstore. One copy is available on reserve at Leavey Library.
- Other readings are available in PDF format on the Content page of the lecture website under “Course Readings.”
- Discussion questions for each week’s reading and film are also available on the Content page of the lecture website under “Weekly Discussion Questions.” You don’t need to answer these questions before class, but please be prepared to discuss them during sections and lectures. Please have assigned readings accessible during classes in either digital or print format. You are expected to cite and quote directly from class readings during discussions.

Required Films:

Films are not screened in class and there are no outside screenings scheduled for this course. You must watch the films on your own time before attending the class session in which they are due. In the “Complete Films” folder of the Blackboard Content page, you can find the links to view the required films for the course (most are available for streaming through USC Dornsife, Kanopy, YouTube, Amazon, Vimeo, and Netflix). During class discussions, I will highlight important scenes that relate to the discussion and course themes (most of these clips will also be available on Blackboard under “Highlighted Film Clips”). Here is a list of the films in order of screening with English and Thai title, director’s name, year of release, and at least one streaming source provided.

- Laskar Pelangi (aka The Rainbow Troops) (Indonesia: dir. Riri Riza, 2008) [Netflix]
- The Gathering (aka Arisan!) (Indonesia: dir. Nia Dinata, 2003) [Netflix]
- Dekada '70 (The Philippines: dir. Chito Roño, 2002) [USC Dornsife]
- Remington and the Curse of the Zombadings (The Philippines, dir. Jade Castro, 2011) [Kanopy]
- Mukhsin (Malaysia: dir. Yasmin Ahmad, 2006) [USC Dornsife]
- Sepet (Malaysia: dir. Yasmin Ahmad, 2004) [USC Dornsife]
- Ilo Ilo (Singapore: dir. Anthony Chen, 2013) [Kanopy]
- A Yellow Bird (Singapore: dir. K. Rajagopal, 2016) [USC Dornsife]

Trigger Warnings:

Some of our texts deal explicitly with issues of sexual, political, and racist violence, as well as physical abuse, kidnapping, and murder. I have indicated such texts with an asterisk (*) below. If you feel that you need to be excused from discussing such works, please let me know in confidence and I will devise a separate assignment (film or reading) for you.

Student Requirements & Grading:

Detailed instructions and evaluation rubrics for all graded work for this class, including participation, are available on the course website content page.

- 1) Participation (20%). The instructor and TA will do our part to create an environment that fosters the open, respectful, and inclusive sharing of ideas, thoughts, and questions. The level of preparation, engagement with course materials, quality of questions, and amount of enthusiasm you bring to class will directly impact everyone’s success and enjoyment of the course. Your responsibility is to attend each class session on time and ready to demonstrate that you have prepared by completing the scheduled readings and viewing the required films. Students are expected to contribute thoughtful comments, raise critical questions, take notes, cite from texts, actively listen, and engage classmates in discussion. Discussion questions for each session, available on Blackboard, will enable you to more efficiently approach each week's readings and films. Synchronous participation is highly preferable. Students unable to attend the synchronous livestream should coordinate their participation plan with the instructor and TA in advance. The general practice will be to watch the recorded session and then send a 3-5 min. audio file/link to the instructor or TA that responds to a discussion question as well as points raised during the recorded session. Complete all readings and view all films prior to their day of discussion.

- 2) Eight (8) Pop Quizzes – 4 Reading, 4 Film (14% total). Nine (9) times during the semester, we will begin the lecture portion with a pop quiz to test your preparation of that day's assigned reading(s) or film. Quizzes will consist of four (4) multiple choice questions delivered via the Blackboard Quiz tool. For those who have completed the readings and watched the films, the quizzes will be quite simple. Your lowest score will be dropped. Asynchronous quizzes must receive advance authorization from instructor.
- 3) Four (4) Discussion Board Posts: Two (2) on Literature, Two (2) on Films (5% each – 20% total). Following our class discussion, students should post their responses (between 300-400 words) to the Discussion Board on Blackboard. Posts should not respond to the whole film or reading but should answer one of the weekly discussion questions (you may paste the discussion question as your header). Literature posts should quote from at least one passage. Film posts should address at least one specific scene from the film. See discussion board and course schedule below for individual submission deadlines. Only one make-up post allowed (if you weren't satisfied with your performance on a previous one).
- 4) One (1) Paper: Literary or Film Analysis (20%). This paper, of 4-6 pages in length (double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman Font), will closely examine one film or one work of literature with respect to one or more of the course themes. The paper should be well-organized (with clear introductory and concluding paragraphs) around a central argument or problem related to the reading or film. Each paper should be titled. If you use outside sources as references, you must cite them using the MLA format. A literary analysis should highlight key passages in the text by citing quotes (including page numbers) or paraphrasing important events in the narrative, addressing not only content but also aspects of the writing such as language and tone. A film analysis should refer to specific scenes and address such aspects of the film as style, cinematography, or soundtrack as well as narrative and plot. The paper should address relevant aspects of the film or literary work's sociohistorical and cultural context (you may refer to the Lecture Notes). Sample student papers, as well as sample prompts, are available for your reference on Blackboard. Due to Blackboard via Turnitin in Word format by 10pm on Fri, Oct 23.
- 5) Peer Review (5%). After you submit your paper (either literary or film analysis), you will be randomly assigned an anonymous classmate's paper. You will review the classmate's analysis using the instructions and questions provided on Blackboard. Due to Blackboard in Word format by 10pm on Fri, Oct 30.

- 6) Final Project (21%). Exhibition date: Thu, Nov 19, 8-10 a.m. on Zoom (livestream attendance at the Zoom final exhibition event is mandatory for all students without pre-authorization: absent students' scores will be docked an additional 10%). Students may choose from the following 3 options for their final project:
- Option 1: Creative Exhibition + Report. There are different formats that the creative exhibition can take: the only requirement is that students engage critically and substantively with a single course film or reading. For example, you could (individually) make a digital video (4-5 minutes running time): this could be a short documentary (1-2 students) with interviews and/or images about a particular historical event or social issue treated in one of our course films or readings; it could be a video essay (1 student) about one of our course films or readings (analyzes clips or passages); or it could be a short story (1 student) that is a sequel or prequel. Alternatively, students may also deploy their unique skills in the arts to compose a song, painting, collage, drawing, or comic book to similarly engage with a course film or reading's style, themes, and content. Whatever creative format you choose, it should be something you have at least basic experience with and that you feel comfortable doing and publicly exhibiting. Whether doing a group or individual project, all students will write a 2-3-page report (double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman font) that explains how the creative project critically engages with the film that you chose. Project file due Tue, Nov 17 to Section Blackboard Discussion Board Thread by 10pm. Report due Wed, Nov 18 in Word format to Blackboard via Turnitin by 10pm.
 - Option 2: Film or Literary Analysis Revision & Expansion. This essay, of 6-8 pages in length (double-spaced in 12-point Times New Roman font), should incorporate the feedback you received on your first draft. Additionally, papers must cite at least two reputable secondary sources using MLA format (not including Lecture Notes from Blackboard). Due Wed, Nov 18 in Word format to Blackboard via Turnitin by 10pm.
 - Option 3: A 2nd Paper (Film or Literary Analysis). Adhering to the exact same guidelines for Assignment #4 above, write a second paper on any course film or work of literature. The one stipulation here is that if your first paper was a film analysis, this time you must write a literary analysis (and vice-versa). Due Wed, Nov 18 in Word format to Blackboard via Turnitin by 10pm.

A = 92.5% and above	B = 82.5-86.5%	C = 71.5-75.5%	D = 61.5-65.5%
A- = 89.5-92.5%	B- = 79.5-82.5%	C- = 69.5-71.5%	D- = 59.5-61.5%
B+ = 86.5-89.5%	C+ = 75.5-79.5%	D+ = 65.5-69.5%	F = below 59.5%

Note on Grading Policy:

- Late Assignments. Within 12 hours: 5% deduction. Within 24 hours: 10% deduction. Within 2 days (48 hours): 20% deduction. Within 3 days: 30% deduction. Within 4 days: 40%. Over 4 days: 50%.

- Grade Appeals. No discussion of assignment scores with the professor within 24 hours of receiving them. Take that time to process the feedback. If after that time you feel you have been unfairly graded, file a report via email (after 24 hours but within 1 week of the assignment's due date) to the professor that includes: 1) an explanation (from ½-1 typed page) explaining why you think the score is unmerited and addressing the details of the instructor's feedback; 2) a copy of the assignment with the instructor's feedback; 3) any other relevant materials referred to in your explanation. No score will be changed or altered without following these guidelines, and please be warned that the appeal process may result in the lowering of your original score.

Note on Email & Communication with Instructor/TA:

- The instructor's email response time is between 24-72 hours. Remember that email is a formal mode of communication. The instructor prefers talking to you during office hours. If my office hours conflict with your schedule, please email me to schedule an appointment.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct:

- Plagiarism. Presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, "Behavior Violating University Standards" policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.
- Discrimination, sexual assault, and harassment are not tolerated by the university. You are encouraged to report any incidents to the Office of Equity and Diversity <http://equity.usc.edu/> or to the Department of Public Safety <http://capsnet.usc.edu/department/department-public-safety/online-forms/contact-us>. This is important for the safety of the entire USC community. Another member of the university community (such as a friend, classmate, advisor, or faculty member) can help initiate the report, or can initiate the report on behalf of another person. The Center for Women and Men <http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/cwm/> provides 24/7 confidential support, and the sexual assault resource center webpage sarc@usc.edu describes reporting options and other resources.
