I. Course Description

This course introduces a central feature of the contemporary international affairs – public diplomacy – and challenges the student to locate themselves as both its targets and practitioners. International actors have always understood that success in world affairs requires engaging foreign audiences. Today, thanks to the revolution in communication technology, public diplomacy and associated issues of communication, networking and exchange have moved from being optional extras to essential tools of modern diplomacy. The class is divided into three sections. The first part will consider the core terminology of public diplomacy, propaganda and soft power. The second part will present the foundational practices of public diplomacy – listening, advocacy, cultural diplomacy, exchange diplomacy and international broadcasting. A third and final section will consider the issues raised by globalization and examine how public diplomacy can be used to address the social, political, economic and cultural issues of our time by governments and other international actors. Techniques examined will include entertainment and nation branding. Issues will include crisis communication. At the end of the semester students will reflect on the implications of the world of public diplomacy for their own responsibilities as global citizens.

This class will give especial prominence to guest speakers and will feature contributions from experts and practitioners. Each will specifically address issues of global challenges and citizenship responses.

Core Readings (roughly 50 pages per week) will be taken from Snow and Cull (eds), The Routledge Handbook of Public Diplomacy, 2nd edition (Routledge, 2020) and Cull, Public Diplomacy: Foundations for Global Engagement in the Digital Age (Polity, 2019), both of which were created with this class in mind.

NOTE: These books are recommended for purchase. Be sure to buy or rent the 2nd edition of the Routledge as it has changed SUBSTANTIALLY from the 1st edition. DO NOT BUY THE 1st EDITION. It is interesting BUT it does NOT have the required reading in it.

Further readings will be posted on Blackboard as needed.
Students will also be required to follow the blog of the USC Center on Public Diplomacy and participate in at least one on-line event organized by the Center on Public Diplomacy.

Rationale for GE credit:

1) Citizenship in a Global Era (GE: G)
This class understands global citizenship as being a planet-wide intersection of realities and responsibilities. Our reality is that our problems are configured at a global level – including issues of climate, resources, inequality and health. Our responsibility is to explore the ways in which we as individuals can become part of the solution, as we can through the tools of public diplomacy, from the most basic responsibility to listen to others on to complex engagement with global opinion through exchanges or even international activism.

2) Social Problems (GE: SI)
This class engages with multiple social problems experienced world-wide including issues of climate change and radicalization. It argues that public diplomacy is not only a tool for responding to these problems but is uniquely central to the enormous social challenge of international misunderstanding and deliberate hate-propaganda. Sometimes international communication is the problem. Public diplomacy, beginning with listening, can be part of many individual explorations of international social problems and solutions too.

II. Overall Learning Objectives and Assessment

By the end of the course students will be able to:

- Understand the centrality of communication in contemporary international relations.
- Analyze a range of ways in which an international actor can engage a foreign public.
- Articulate the relationship between individual communicators and foreign policy outcomes.

III. Assignments and Assessment

Students are required to attend class regularly, to contribute to class discussions, and to do weekly reading. Attendance in lecture is important; there is significant material covered in lecture that is not in the reading and you cannot pass the course if you do not attend most of the lectures. There are several writing assignments for this class, and because the lectures, discussions, reading assignments and course assignments are all vitally linked, it is critical that you keep up with the schedule.

Students who miss more than four lectures and two section discussions will have their grades reduced and risk failing the course.

The final course grade will be based on the following distribution:

1. paper, 10% (500 words on definitions of foundational concepts)
2. paper 20% (1,500 word listening exercise)
   Mid-term exam 20% (to be taken in class)
3. paper 20% (1,500 word country-focused case study)
Papers:
There are four papers due in this class. The details of each paper will be given in a prompt approximately one week before the papers are due (due dates are noted in the syllabus). Papers must be presented in hard copy (not as an email attachment) and late papers will not be accepted. If you have an emergency that impacts your ability to turn your paper in on time, you need to contact the professor before the paper is due. Each long paper is worth 20% of your final grade.

Section Assignments: The 10% section grade will be determined by participation including section assignments such as leading discussion. The Annenberg School reserves the right to change this syllabus if necessary.

V. Assignment Submission Policy

Instructor: Describe how, and when, assignments are to be submitted. Examples:
A. All assignments are due on the dates specified. Lacking prior discussion and agreement with the instructor, late assignments will automatically be given a grade of F.
B. Assignments must be submitted via email.

VI. Laptop Policy
Effective fall 2014, all undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors will be required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Virtual Commons for more information. To connect to USC’s Secure Wireless network, please visit USC’s Information Technology Services website.

IX. Policies and Procedures

A. Plagiarism

Statement on Academic Integrity

USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one’s own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another’s work as one’s own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. Please see the SCampus (http://scampus.usc.edu/1300-academic-integrity-review/) for the university’s Student Conduct Code.

USC School of Communication Policy on Academic Integrity

The following is the USC Annenberg School of Communication’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one’s own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another’s work as one’s own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. SCampus, the Student Guidebook, (www.usc.edu/scampus) or (http://scampus.usc.edu) contains the University Student Conduct Code (see University Governance, Section 11.00), while the recommended sanctions are located in Appendix A. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as Communication school administrators.

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.

B. Additional Policies
The Instructor may add any additional policies specific to your class that students should be aware of: missed classes, attendance expectations, checking USC e-mail, use of technology in the classroom, etc.

C. Statement for Students with Disabilities
Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me (or to TA) as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Website and contact information for DSP: http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/centerprograms/dsp/home_index.html, (213) 740-0776 (Phone), (213) 740-6948 (TDD only), (213) 740-8216 (FAX) ability@usc.edu.

D. Stress Management
Students are under a lot of pressure. If you start to feel overwhelmed, it is important that you reach out for help. A good place to start is the USC Student Counseling Services office at 213-740-7711. The service is confidential, and there is no charge.

E. Sexual Assault Resource Center
The Center for Women & Men and the Sexual Assault Resource Center are one and the same. Student Counseling Services is a separate place that also offers confidential counseling and support groups on a variety of other topics. To schedule an appointment with Student Counseling Services, call (213) 740-7711 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays or visit the Engemann Student Health Center on the University Park Campus.

F. Emergency Preparedness/Course Continuity in a Crisis

The following rules are now in effect:

Synchronous session recording notice
Live class sessions will be recorded and made available to students through Blackboard (including transcriptions). Please remember that USC policy prohibits sharing of any synchronous and asynchronous course content outside of the learning environment. As a student, you are responsible for the appropriate use and handling of these recordings under existing SCampus policies regarding class notes (https://policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-c/). These rules will be strictly enforced, and violations will be met with the appropriate disciplinary sanction.

Going back to Campus
Although we are starting the semester with online instruction only, conditions may improve. In such case, courses listed as hybrid will give opportunity to students to attend class in person. This will happen only by following the strictest health guidelines and safety protocols. These are listed in the Trojans Return page. Please take the time to read this ahead so that you are prepared in case it is possible to return to in-person instruction.

Attendance policy
Students are strongly encouraged to attend live sessions via Zoom. This is the best way to engage with the course and keep up to date with class activities and assignments. However, there will be no penalty for failing to attend live sessions, and students who miss live sessions will be able to keep up with the class by reviewing class recordings and engaging through asynchronous class activities and assignments. Note that university guidelines dictate that faculty should only maintain normal attendance, participation, and assessment expectations for students when the class time falls within reasonable learning hours in the student’s time zone, defined as 7:00am to 10:00pm in the student’s time zone.

Participation

Participation is part of your grade. The current modality of teaching includes synchronous and asynchronous lessons, assignments, exercises, and evaluation processes, and each affords different types of participation. In a synchronous zoom environment, when proper, participation is synchronous. This may include talking, when appropriate, during a zoom meeting, or using the chat function to generate or participate in discussions. Blackboard offers different types of participation, including participating in forums and completing asynchronous assignments.

The distant nature of these learning environments may prompt us to forget that we are a community and that each of us and our ideas deserve respect. For this reason, it is imperative that you remember to respect the opinion of others, regardless of how much you disagree.

Zoom Etiquette

Although you are not obligated to turn your camera on, we highly recommend it. Please wear appropriate clothing. Please keep your microphone off during zoom class, except when you’re asked to unmute for discussion or questions. Please use appropriate backgrounds.
