Course Description

Welcome to JOUR 307: Reporting and Writing II, a continuation of JOUR 207: Reporting and Writing I. In this semester, you will research, report, write and produce different types of stories across different platforms, including radio and television, around a common theme or beat. We'll explore news judgment, ethics, and the role of accurate, relevant and thorough journalism in a diverse world.

In our initial session, we'll discuss our semester-long theme together as a class and formulate our plan for covering our beat in an interesting and thoughtful way.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- Apply professional standards of news judgment and ethics to real-life situations.
- Report, write and revise news stories, including features and profiles, that are close to professional standards for digital and print platforms.

- Report, write, shoot and edit video and audio news stories for radio and television that are close to professional standards for digital and broadcast platforms.
- Use diverse sources to create accurate, relevant news stories.
- Use language around race, ethnicity, ability, gender, age, sexuality and gender identity, and socioeconomic status with precision in news stories.
- Evaluate current conflicts, controversies and issues in journalism and reflect on your role as a future practitioner.

Concurrent Enrollment: JOUR 206, Media Center Practicum

Description and Assessment of Assignments

Your assignments are designed to help you develop as a writer, reporter and emerging journalist. They include homework (story pitches, source lists and story drafts, exercises,) cross-platform news stories, student presentations and a reflection paper.

There are four text and three audio/video stories assignments, which increase in complexity as the semester progresses. You should expect to turn in story drafts and revise these based on instructor feedback.

You'll also work with a group on a presentation that explores a current controversy or issue in journalism and facilitate a class discussion about the topic.

At the end of the semester, you will write a brief reflection on what you've learned in the course.

There is a participation grade in this class, which will be evaluated by in-class assignments as well as your constructive feedback during classroom discussion, peer presentations and guest speakers. There will be opportunities for students to participate asynchronously.

Course Notes and Policies

This course will be held via Zoom. We expect you to do much of your reporting using your phone and computer to prioritize safety and safeguard the common good. All of it should follow the public health guidelines in your area.

It's easier to communicate when we can see one another's faces, so we prefer, but do not require, cameras on during class. We will use class time to learn actively, and we ask that you make every effort to stay focused and attentive during class. Feel free to eat or drink (remember to mute your audio,) turn your camera off occasionally or adopt other non-distracting tactics to help you stay present during our class periods.

This class involves robust discussion, in-class assignments and peer review and editing. We believe we can all learn from each other. It's our intention to foster a culture of respect, which includes pronouncing your name correctly and using your chosen pronouns. Please speak up if that's not happening. We will discuss class norms in more detail during the first class session. If you feel the classroom norms are not being followed by your instructors or classmates, you can use this form to provide anonymous feedback.

Please feel free to reach out with questions about the assignments or general feedback about the class either via email or scheduled Zoom meeting. If you can't make office hours, we can usually work out another time to meet. The best way to reach Prof. Haggerty or Prof. Suro is through email. We will respond to emails in one business day, and regularly check emails from 9 a.m. – 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. If you have a truly urgent question that must be answered outside of those times, please text Prof. Haggerty on her cell phone at 917-664-3643 or Prof. Suro on his, 202-257-7337.

We expect you to turn your assignments in on time. We'll deduct points for missing deadlines, so please reach out early and often if you're having trouble meeting those deadlines.

Please post your text stories and video and audio scripts to Blackboard in a Word document. Use the template provided for audio/video scripts, a double column format with the narration and sound appearing on the right and visuals on the left. Please write, word for word, everything the reporter and interview subjects say in your audio/video script.

Video stories should be submitted to Xchange. Here's a step-by-step guide on how to do that: <http://www.annenbergdl.org/tutorials/xchange-student/>. If you need help with editing or Xchange, you can visit the MC Help desk during regular business hours at <https://usc.zoom.us/my/mcvideohelp>

Shooting video is challenging during a pandemic. There may be times you can use video shot by someone else for your video stories, but you should discuss that with us in advance. You should also let us know if you're reporting on the same topic for more than one class.

Because this course is about developing your skills as a professional journalist, we're expecting you to interview sources outside of your friends and family. If there are good reasons to include them in your story (and that's possible with the current conditions,) please talk to us about this in advance.

Required Readings, Equipment and Supplementary Materials

We'll expect you to use AP style in all of your assignments. All USC students have access to the AP stylebook via the USC library at this link:

https://libproxy.usc.edu/login?url=http://www.apstylebook.com/usc_edu/ and you can also use Amy the Stylebot in the Annenberg Media Slack account.

Please note there are new AP style guidelines about race and ethnicity which include capitalizing Black and deleting the hyphen in Asian American. The NLGJA Stylebook on LGBTQ Terminology includes more detailed information about accurate coverage of LGBTQ people, and we'll post other useful guides on Blackboard.

All undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors are required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Digital Lounge for more information. To connect to USC's Secure Wireless network, please visit USC's Information Technology Services website.

Annenberg is committed to every student's success. There are multiple resources available for students having issues with equipment or technology that limit their ability to participate fully in class. Please reach out to one of us and/or your advisor so we can help connect you with these resources.

Most weekly reading assignments will be posted to Blackboard. In addition, required readings will be drawn from the two books listed below which students are expected to acquire. These readings will be essential to participation in discussions and exercises conducted during class sessions.

--"Inside Reporting: A Practical Guide to the Craft of Journalism." Tim Harrower. McGraw-Hill, 3rd edition, 2012.

-- "Ghosting the News: Local Journalism and the Crisis of American Democracy." Margaret Sullivan. Columbia Global Report, 2020.

If you are having trouble accessing the book or readings for any reason, please reach out to us and we will assist.

News Consumption and Knowledge of Current Events

As journalists, you should keep up with what is happening on campus, in the Los Angeles area, in the United States and around the world. You have access to subscriptions via USC to The New York Times and the Los Angeles Times. You should read them regularly, as well as check other news sources, including the Daily Trojan and Annenbergmedia.com, listen to NPR and news radio, watch local and national television news, read news email newsletters and push alerts and follow news organizations on social media. You're encouraged to sign up for Nieman Lab's newsletter, which publishes brief, readable articles on important media news. You can do that here: <https://www.niemanlab.org/subscribe/>. Following the news will sharpen your judgment and provide good (and bad) examples of the state of mainstream journalism.

Grading Standards

Journalism

Our curriculum is structured to prepare students to be successful in a professional news organization with the highest standards. Students will be evaluated first on the accuracy, fairness and completeness of their stories. They will also be evaluated for a story's writing style, editing or structure, layout or visual elements (when appropriate), newsworthiness, use of diverse sources and ability to meet deadlines. All stories should be written in AP style.

"A" stories are accurate, clear, comprehensive stories that are well written and require only minor copyediting (i.e., they would be aired or published). Video work must also be shot and edited creatively, be well paced and include good sound bites and natural sound that add flavor, color or emotion to the story. Sources are varied, diverse and offer a complete view of the topic.

“B” stories require more than minor editing and have a few style or spelling errors or one significant error of omission. For video, there may be minor flaws in the composition of some shots or in the editing. Good use of available sound bites is required. Sources are mostly varied, diverse and offer a complete view of the topic.

“C” stories need considerable editing or rewriting and/or have many spelling, style or omission errors. Camera work and editing techniques in video stories are mediocre or unimaginative, but passable. Sound bites add little or no color - only information that could be better told in the reporter’s narration. Sources are repetitive or incomplete.

“D” stories require excessive rewriting, have numerous errors and should not have been submitted. Camera work is unsatisfactory or fails to show important elements. Sources are incomplete.

“F” stories have failed to meet the major criteria of the assignment, are late, have numerous errors or both. Your copy should not contain any errors in spelling, style, grammar and facts. Any misspelled or mispronounced proper noun will result in an automatic “F” on that assignment. Any factual error will also result in an automatic “F” on the assignment. Accuracy is the first law of journalism. The following are some other circumstances that would warrant a grade of “F” and potential USC/Annenberg disciplinary action:

- Fabricating a story or making up quotes or information.
- Plagiarizing a script/article, part of a script/article or information from any source.
- Staging video or telling interview subjects what to say.
- Using video shot by someone else and presenting it as original work.
- Shooting video in one location and presenting it as another location.
- Using the camcorder to intentionally intimidate, provoke or incite a person or a group of people to elicit more “dramatic” video.
- Promising, paying or giving someone something in exchange for doing an interview either on or off camera.

Students are encouraged to submit their work for consideration to Annenberg Media or the Daily Trojan, or pitch it to mainstream media outlets. Visit <http://bit.ly/SubmitAnnenbergMedia> for more information about that submission and review process and email Daily Trojan news editors at dt.city@gmail.com for more on how to pitch your work to the campus newspaper.

Add/Drop Dates for Session 001 (15 weeks: 1/15/2021 – 4/30/2021; Final Exam Period: 5/5-12/2021)

Friday, February 5: Last day to register and add classes for Session 001

Friday, February 5: Last day to drop a class without a mark of “W,” except for Monday-only classes, and receive a refund for Session 001

Tuesday, February 9: Last day to drop a Monday-only class without a mark of “W” and receive a refund for Session 001

Friday, March 5: Last day to drop a course without a mark of “W” on the transcript for Session 001. Mark of “W” will still appear on student record and STARS report and tuition charges still apply. [Please drop any course by the end of week three (or the 20 percent mark of the session) to avoid tuition charges.]

Friday, March 5: Last day to change pass/no pass to letter grade for Session 001. [All major and minor courses must be taken for a letter grade.]

Friday, April 9: Last day to drop a class with a mark of “W” for Session 001

Course Schedule: A Weekly Breakdown

Week 1 -- Jan. 20

Review syllabus and expectations for class norms. Sign up for ethics/issue presentations, details tba

Discuss and decide on semester-long beat

Broadcast writing basics.

Students will write broadcast leads and review together.

Homework: Broadcast leads. Write broadcast leads from material supplied by instructors.

Due next week.

Week 2 -- Jan. 27 – Learning about a community

Due: Broadcast leads

How do you know who to talk to? How many sources are enough? Review attribution

Using social media to identify sources.

In Class: In an in-class exercise, work in pairs to create source lists with contact information for our beat. You'll use these for your first assignment, a “vox pop.” The class will formulate the one or two questions for the homework vox pop assignments. We'll review our source lists in class. What's missing? How can we find more sources from our beat? (This can be done as asynchronous participation.)

Broadcast: Vox pop and MOS basics. Review how to do vox pops

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=z5BeaGr5SDk> Radio Rookies

<https://www.kqed.org/education/vox-pop-curriculum/> KQED Vox Pops

In class: We'll do a sample “vox pop.” You'll work in groups to decide on a question you want answered, and then collect “vox pops” via your phone with people in your pod, apartment, house or peer group. We'll review together in class. (This can be done as asynchronous participation.)

Homework: Collect, write and edit a one-minute audio or video “vox pop” in which at least five people answer the one or two questions selected by the class. You can use Zoom or your phone to record your interview subjects. You will write a script, using the template provided, which should contain an introduction and the verbatim, word-for-word description of what people say, and edit your vox pops together. If you're creating a video, identify all the subjects by their full names onscreen. For an audio piece, identify them in an “outro” of your script.

Upload the completed video/audio to Exchange and Blackboard and the script to Blackboard.

Readings:

Harrower, pp 84-85 (attribution) and pp 94- 95 (covering a beat)

The Elements of Journalism, Chapter 1 (on BB)

Handout on vox pops from Professor Willa Seidenberg

In class: Fill out course evaluations. You will also provide feedback on the following questions:

- What is one activity or reading that best facilitated your learning and why?
- What is one activity or reading that was least useful to your learning and how would you change it?

FINAL EXAM

We will meet during the final exam on Friday, May 7, from 8 – 10 a.m. and review your final text stories. Final reflection paper is due at this time.

CLASSES END – April 30

STUDY DAYS – May 1 - 4

FINALS – May 5 - 12

COMMENCEMENT – May 1

Important note to students: Be advised that this syllabus is subject to change - and probably will change - based on the progress of the class, news events, and/or guest speaker availability.

Internships

The value of professional internships as part of the overall educational experience of our students has long been recognized by the School of Journalism. Accordingly, while internships are not required for successful completion of this course, any student enrolled in this course that undertakes and completes an approved, non-paid internship during this semester shall earn academic extra credit herein of an amount equal to 1 percent of the total available semester points for this course. To receive instructor approval, a student must request an internship letter from the Annenberg Career Development Office and bring it to the instructor to sign by the end of the third week of classes. The student must submit the signed letter to the media organization, along with the evaluation form provided by the Career Development Office. The form should be filled out by the intern supervisor and returned to the instructor at the end of the semester. No credit will be given if an evaluation form is not turned into the instructor by the last day of class. Note: The internship must be unpaid and can only be applied to one journalism or public relations class.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity

The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.

Breaking Bread Program [undergraduate students only]

<https://undergrad.usc.edu/faculty/bread/>

The Breaking Bread Program is designed to provide individual undergraduate students with an opportunity to meet and have scholarly discussions with faculty members outside of the normal classroom setting. Through this program, students and faculty enjoy good company and great conversation by literally “breaking bread” over a meal together and USC will pick up the tab! Your meal event can take place anywhere outside of the normal classroom setting. Your venue can be a restaurant or eatery on or off-campus.

About Your Instructor

Rebecca Haggerty, Ed.D, is an associate professor of professional practice at the Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism and the Associate Director of Undergraduate Journalism Studies. Prior to joining academia fulltime, she was an award-winning broadcast and digital journalist in network and public television. She has a doctorate in education and an enduring fascination with how people learn and get information.

Roberto Suro holds a joint appointment as a professor in the Annenberg School for Communication & Journalism and the Sol Price School of Public Policy. He was awarded a Berlin Prize in 2019 for his writing on immigration policy. He was a recipient of a 2018 USC Mentoring Award for his work with undergraduate students.

Prior to joining the USC faculty in August 2007, he was director of the Pew Hispanic Center, a research organization in Washington D.C. that he founded in 2001, and in 2004 he was part of the management team that launched the Pew Research Center.

Suro's journalistic career began in 1974 at the City News Bureau of Chicago, and after tours at the Chicago Sun Times and the Chicago Tribune he joined TIME Magazine, where he worked as a correspondent in the Chicago, Washington, Beirut and Rome bureaus. In 1985 he started at The New York Times with postings as bureau chief in Rome and Houston. After a year as an Alicia Patterson Fellow, Suro was hired at The Washington Post as a staff writer on the national desk, covering the Justice Department and the Pentagon and serving as deputy national editor.
