F220 : Martinique, "l'île aux fleurs"

This course will be a four-week intensive French 220 language and culture course with a focus on Martinique and Martinican culture. The island of Martinique holds a special place in the French-speaking world due to the duality of its culture. A former French colony which endured slavery, it became a French overseas department in 1946 making it an integral part of Metropolitan France (like Alaska and Hawaii to mainland USA). To complement the course, we will discuss culture, history as well as identity and social issues pertaining to Martinique, but also learn some Martinican creole. With this course, students will fulfill their language requirement.
