Course Description

There is an adage amongst 21st-century activists that echoes often on Twitter. Grassroots leaders now tell journalists: “There is no such thing as ‘giving voice to the voiceless.’ We have voices. Just pass the mic.” This assertion—that a proverbial microphone has been withheld from some communities—is the key point of exploration for this course. In Engaging Diverse Communities, we study who has been left out of news discourse historically—and what you, as a future industry leader, can do about it. To achieve this, our course is divided into five parts: (1) Frames, (2) Rhetoric, (3) Actors, (4) Movements and (5) Elevation—or F.R.A.M.E., for short.

In Unit 1 (Frames), we explore how the news has played a powerful role in creating and maintaining enduring narratives about our world. We question problematic news frames and discuss how we can create new ones. In Unit 2 (Rhetoric), we study how journalists talk about certain hot-button issues, and how word choices and its accompanying imagery can either unite or divide a community. Accordingly, we examine some of journalism’s biggest recent “fails” to see how a bit of cultural competence in the newsroom might have gone a long way. In Unit 3 (Actors), we consider the many communities of people that journalism has either overlooked or maligned. Then, we explore how to find and amplify new voices. In Unit 4 (Movements) we investigate how the rise of social media-driven movements such as #MeToo, #BlackLivesMatter, #NoDAPL, #GirlsLikeUs, etc. reflect marginalized communities’ desire to tell their own stories, on their own terms. We will talk about how you, as a professional journalist, may encounter conflicts if these activists distrust or outright dislike you. Additionally, we will talk about what to do when you are expected to report objectively on a movement that you really love (or hate). And in Unit 5, (Elevation), we pull it all together. You will produce a final project that elevates the profile of a marginalized community in America. You get to be the news intervention you would like to see.

Overall Learning Objectives and Assessments

If you show up for every class, ask great questions, and listen compassionately, you will leave this class knowing how to:

1. Explain how the term “diverse communities” can encompass many kinds of differences, which include (but are not limited to) age, race, ethnicity, sex, gender, disability, religion, etc.

2. Explain how diverse communities can become distrustful of traditional media outlets when it does not see itself represented favorably.
3. Identify news coverage gaps within various diverse communities in Los Angeles.
4. Use various platforms such as YouTube, Twitter, Instagram, Facebook and SnapChat to engage in social listening for new voices and story ledes.
5. Engage different audiences effectively through appropriate language choices and cultural cues in news coverage.
6. Verify social media content, especially when including user-generated content in a story.

Description of Assignments

At the beginning of the semester, you will decide on a diverse community you would like to cover. The community does not have to be bound by a specific geographical region (although it can be). You may focus also on communities that form based on intersecting markers of identity, such as race or gender. The idea here is that you think deeper into who is missing from the day-to-day news coverage you consume—especially during this COVID-19 pandemic. Each assignment in this class will allow you to delve deeper into what it means to include these diverse groups into your beat. Accordingly, the five-part F.R.A.M.E. mindset is mirrored in our graded assignments for this course. At the end of each unit on 1) frames, 2) rhetoric, 3) actors, 4) movements and 5) elevation, you will complete the following activities.

Online Discussions of Readings (5%)

Every unit will contain a relevant reading and video viewing. You will be expected to participate in an online discussion about the materials for each unit. To earn full credit, you must leave a comment in the thread on Blackboard (Bb), then comment also on two other classmates' posts.

Discussion 1—News & emotion

Discussion 2—News & cancel culture

Discussion 3—News & generational difference

Discussion 4—News & new voices

Discussion 5—News & Social Justice

Assignment 1—Frames (5%)

You will prepare a 5- to 7-minute presentation where you share with the class a problematic news frame that features your chosen community. You will replay the offending news clip, cringe-worthy headline, or gasp-inducing magazine cover, etc. Then, you will offer an explanation of the media “fail.” You will close by offering an alternative news frame that journalists could have used to highlight your community fairly.

Assignment 2—Rhetoric (20%)

In this assignment, you will explore how different news websites report on so-called “wedge” issues that concern your community. First, you will be assigned a hot-button topic, such as immigration, police brutality, abortion or gun control. Then you will compare and contrast how progressive and conservative outlets use different words to report on the same issues. You will make two, separate word clouds to depict these differences. Then you will share your two word clouds with the class in a 5- to 7-minute presentation. You will explain what words were used most commonly along the political spectrum from left to right. You will also explain why these words choices resonate (or not!) with your generation.

Assignment 3—Actors (25%)

In this midterm assignment, you will profile an interesting person within your community. This “actor” should be unique in some way, offering us an unlikely look at a segment of your chosen community. For example, maybe there is an active group of senior citizens that wakes at dawn every Saturday to engage in socially distanced surfing. Your story can take any form you like. Podcasts, social videos, packages, photo-essays, and any other creative formats are welcome.

Assignment 4—Movements (20%)

Many marginalized communities across America have leveraged social media to launch transformative social justice movements. Some issues include, but are not limited to affordable housing, economic inequality, fair labor practices, gender equality, mental health, etc. Ask some of the “Actors” you met in the last unit to help you identify what cause is dearest to your community. Then, create a 1-minute “explainer” social video or podcast that highlights that issue.

Assignment 5—Elevation (25%)

For the final assignment, you will pretend that a large media company has invited you to co-host an Instagram (IG) takeover of their official feed, which features your chosen community. This company has been following you for a while, and they are very impressed by how you cover your beat. For your 12-hour takeover, you will host a brief intro show that kicks off your day. Then, you will program 11 additional posts that will pop up every hour, for the rest of the day. You do not need to publish these posts to IG. Instead, you will produce an editorial calendar using Canva, which will give us an idea of your run of show.

For example, if you are covering how DJs have adapted to the pandemic, you may want to invite one on your show to host a “set.” Following that mini-concert, you can sprinkle in their playlist with song trivia all day long. The key here is to practice making news from home in innovative ways, all while still finding unique voices. Have fun with this! You will be graded on your show and programming outline.

Grading Standards

Our curriculum is structured to prepare students to be successful in a professional news organization with the highest standards. Students will be evaluated first on accuracy and truthfulness in their stories. Good journalism prioritizes transparency, context and inclusivity. All stories should be written in AP style unless Annenberg style conflicts, in which case students can follow Annenberg style.

The following standards apply to news assignments.

“A” stories are accurate, clear, comprehensive stories that are well written and require only minor copyediting (i.e., they would be aired or published). Video work must also be shot and edited creatively, be well paced and include good sound bites and natural sound that add flavor, color or emotion to the story. Sources are varied, diverse and offer a complete view of the topic.

“B” stories require more than minor editing and have a few style or spelling errors or one significant error of omission. For video, there may be minor flaws in the composition of some shots or in the editing. Good use of available sound bites is required. Sources are mostly varied, diverse and offer a complete view of the topic.

“C” stories need considerable editing or rewriting and/or have many spelling, style or omission errors. Camera work and editing techniques in video stories are mediocre or unimaginative, but passable. Sound bites add little or no color - only information that could be better told in the reporter’s narration. Sources are repetitive or incomplete.

“D” stories require excessive rewriting, have numerous errors and should not have been submitted. Camera work is unsatisfactory or fails to show important elements. Sources are repetitive or incomplete.

“F” stories have failed to meet the major criteria of the assignment, are late, have numerous errors or both. Your copy should not contain any errors in spelling, style, grammar and facts. Any misspelled or mispronounced proper noun will result in an automatic “F” on that assignment. Any factual error will also result in an automatic “F” on the assignment. Accuracy is the first law of journalism. The following are some other circumstances that would warrant a grade of “F” and potential USC/Annenberg disciplinary action:

- Fabricating a story or making up quotes or information.
- “Double-dipping” or using the same story twice—once in this course and again in another.
- Plagiarizing a script/article, part of a script/article or information from any source.
- Staging video or telling interview subjects what to say.
- Using video shot by someone else and presenting it as original work.

- Shooting video in one location and presenting it as another location.
- Using the camcorder to intentionally intimidate, provoke or incite a person or a group of people to elicit more “dramatic” video.
- Promising, paying or giving someone something in exchange for doing an interview either on or off camera.

Assignment Submission Policy

Please submit your work to the class Blackboard site by the posted deadline dates. If you do not upload your work by the designated date, you will lose one letter grade for each day that the assignment is late. Deadline extensions will be considered on a case-by-case basis, at the instructor’s discretion.

Required Readings and Supplementary Materials

There is not a required text for this course. Required readings are included in the syllabus and others will occasionally be distributed via Blackboard. The readings will be discussed in class, and they will help inform the assignments for this course.

All USC students have access to the AP stylebook via the USC library.

(https://libproxy.usc.edu/login?url=http://www.apstylebook.com/usc_edu/.)

Students will be graded on adherence to AP style in assignments, including when writing about race and ethnicity. The updated AP style guidelines include capitalizing Black and deleting the hyphen in terms such as Asian American.

The following style guides will be available on BB:

NLGJA Stylebook on LGBTQ Terminology

<https://najanewsroom.com/reporting-guides/>

<https://www.nabj.org/page/styleguide>

<https://aaja.org/2020/11/30/covering-asia-and-asian-americans/>

The Diversity Style Guide: The NAHJ Cultural Competence Handbook:

Transjournalist Style Guide: <https://transjournalists.org/style-guide/>

SPJ Diversity Toolbox: <https://www.spj.org/diversity.asp>

Annenberg also has its own style guide that students can access through the app Amy the Stylebot on the Annenberg Media Center’s Slack workspace. Annenberg’s style guide is being developed with input from students, and whether or not students use our guide, they can provide valuable input here: <http://bit.ly/annenbergediting>

In addition, Annenberg Media’s Guide for Equitable Reporting Strategies and Newsroom Style (<https://bit.ly/AnnMediaEquitableReportingGuide>) created by students, has detailed guidelines on thoughtful language and best practices for creating journalism respectful and reflective of a diverse world. Along with other useful resources, it can be found on Blackboard and is incorporated into Amy the Stylebot (mentioned above).

All undergraduate and graduate Annenberg majors and minors are required to have a PC or Apple laptop that can be used in Annenberg classes. Please refer to the Annenberg Digital Lounge for more information. To connect to USC's Secure Wireless network, please visit USC's Information Technology Services website.

Annenberg is committed to every student's success. There are multiple resources available to assist students with issues that limit their ability to participate fully in class. Please reach out to a professor and/or advisor for help connecting with these resources. They include the Annenberg Student Success Fund, a donor-funded financial aid account available to USC Annenberg undergraduate and graduate students for non-tuition expenses related to extra- and co-curricular programs and opportunities, and other scholarships and awards.

News Consumption and Knowledge of Current Events

As journalists, you should keep up with what is happening on campus, in the Los Angeles area, in the United States and around the world. USC provides subscriptions for students, staff and faculty to The New York Times and the Los Angeles Times, as well as the Wall Street Journal.

Through the USC library, you have access to many regional news outlets and a variety of publications that cover specific communities. You should be familiar with publications covering the many communities of Los Angeles such as The Los Angeles Sentinel, The Los Angeles Blade, The Los Angeles Wave, La Opinión, L.A. Taco, The Eastsider, The Armenian Weekly, High Country News, the Asian Journal and others. You should keep up with the Daily Trojan and uscannenbergmedia.com, including USC student-led verticals Dímelo and Black., listen to NPR and news radio, watch local and national television news, read news email newsletters and push alerts and follow news organizations social networks, including Twitter, Instagram and TikTok. You're encouraged to sign up for Nieman Lab's newsletter, which publishes brief, readable articles on important issues in the media. Following the news will sharpen your judgment and provide good (and bad) examples of the state of mainstream journalism.

Assignment Submission Policy

All assignments should be submitted via Blackboard (Bb) by the deadlines designated in this syllabus. After the deadline passes, the portals will close. Students will not be able to submit work after the deadline, unless it is a documented medical emergency.

Communication

If you are unable to make my regularly scheduled office hours, please book a virtual office hours session. We can chat by phone or FaceTime/Skype. You may use my online scheduling system to find a date and time that works for you: WEBSITE.

Internships

While internships are not required for successful completion of this course, any student enrolled in this course that undertakes and completes an approved, non-paid internship during this semester shall earn academic extra credit herein of an amount equal to 1 percent of the total available semester points for this course. To receive my approval, please request an internship letter from the Annenberg Career Development Office and bring it to me to sign by the end of the third week of classes. You must submit the signed letter to the media organization, along with the evaluation form provided by the Career Development Office. The form should be filled out by the intern supervisor and returned to me at the end of the semester. No credit will be given if an evaluation form is not turned in by the last day of class.

Note: The internship must be unpaid and can only be applied to one journalism class.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity

The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

Lastly, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without the approval of your instructor. Double dipping is NOT allowed in this course. If you repurpose this assignment in another course or from a previous course, you will earn an F for the recycled project.

Instructor Bio

Jacqueline García is a Los Angeles-based journalist with over ten years of experience covering a myriad of issues ranging from immigration and politics, to health and education. A vast majority of her reporting has focused on issues that affect the Latino population.

García is a reporter for La Opinion, one of the largest Spanish-language newspapers in the United States. She also collaborates for the online publications CalMatters and USC Center for Health Journalism. She has previously reported for Hispanic Link News Service in Washington D.C., Noticias 62 [KRCA Estrella TV] and Eastern Group Publications [EGP News] in Los Angeles.

García is a board member of CCNMA: Latino Journalists of California, a non-profit, professional organization that aims to promote diversity in the news media. She's also member of the National Association for Hispanic Journalists (NAHJ).

She graduated from Cal State Northridge with a B.A. in broadcast journalism and a minor in Spanish language journalism.

García is originally from Puebla, Mexico and up until 2017—when she gained her legal residency—she was one of the over 750,000 undocumented immigrants who qualified for the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA).
