Title: Introduction to Strategic Public Relations: Digital, Global, and Socially Responsible Communication;
Authors: Janis Terrugi Page, Lawrence J. Parnell
Publisher: Sage Book

I. Course Description
This course will familiarize students with strategies and practices in the growing field of public relations/strategic communication through analysis of current events, landmark cases and practical implementation with special emphasis on historical roots, evolution, current and future practices. The practical implementation will include simulation activities where students are asked to operate in groups as agency and in-house communication teams through several simulation scenarios. This course is the foundation of the public relations program.

II. Overall Learning Objectives and Assessment
This course is designed to introduce you to public relations as a professional practice.
Through lectures, reading, practical exercises, guest speakers, research, writing, teamwork and individual effort, we will explore the world of PR:

- Public relations definitions, tenets, practices, job opportunities in PR (agency, corporate, non-profit...);
- basic process of PR planning and strategy development; use of PR to achieve organizational goals

Upon completion of PR 250, students can expect a:
1. Solid grasp how public relations is defined and practiced by career, by discipline, and by personal interest.
2. Strongly developed awareness of the myriad of specialized choices that exist for a public relations professional.
3. Foundation for why and how public relations is employed by nearly everyone.
4. Practical knowledge of the rationale for, and process to achieve, sophisticated, disciplined planning.
5. Basic grasp of the profession sufficient to succeed in USC Annenberg’s undergraduate Public Relations Studies major or minor.

III. Course Notes
The class is lecture style; however, students will participate and contribute their thoughts and insights. Blackboard is used for updates, posting homework and assignments and to take quizzes and exams.
IV. Description and Assessment of Assignments
Every class will consist of several of the following (when applicable):

- Lecture / discussion – Everyone must participate. I will ask you to share your thoughts.
- Case studies – We will study actual and practical case studies to understand what the best PR programs entail. Participation during case study reviews counts towards your participation grade.
- Industry news/updates – You must stay informed of current topics in the public relations industry. You are required to read PR industry or other news and be prepared each week to discuss something interesting you came across. Each week students will be asked to share news events and relate them to the lesson. This is part of your participation grade.
- Quizzes and midterm exam – Based on the textbook and class lectures.
- Team Simulation - You will experience what is like to operate as a PR agency and as an in-house team and be required to apply the concepts to creating PR plans. Simulation teams will create plans and at least one full-campaign, which will be part of your Final exam.
- Final group project/presentation – Development of a public relations campaign to be presented during the final class and an individual PR Portfolio.

XII. Policies and Procedures

What I Expect From You

- Class starts on time. You don’t have to ask me for permission to come to class, leave early or come late, or provide a written excuse. I leave those decisions to you. You receive no credit for in-class work that day. There is no make-up for material we cover in a class you miss.
- Assignments are due to me at the time I designate. All assignments must be complete and typed, with no handwritten edits. Assignments completed not following directions will be graded lower. If you are absent, you are responsible for getting me your homework by the due date/time. No late assignments are accepted.
- There will be no make-ups for the midterm or final exam.
- If you miss class, you are responsible for getting notes and assignments from a fellow student. I do not email notes or handouts.
- Class participation is expected and will help your final grade. Everyone is expected to contribute. Lack of participation will reduce your participation grade.
- No texting or any use of cell phones or other forms of electronic communication during class. Doing so will have a negative impact on your grade. Computers are for class work only. If I have to stop class to ask you to stop using your cell phone or other device, you will lose participation points for that class.
- There should only be one discussion going on at a time in class. Paying attention to the speaker, whether it is the instructor, fellow student or guest, is a sign of respect and professionalism. Disruptive behavior, such as talking out of turn and carrying on side conversations, will negatively impact your grade.
- The syllabus is our guideline and will change during the course of the semester to accommodate current events and speaker schedules.
- You are expected to check Blackboard every week for updates on homework and assignments. You are also responsible for checking your USC email account, which is how I will communicate with you.

What You Can Expect From Me

1. I am open to your questions and welcome the opportunity to discuss any issues concerning you. Reach out to me. I am here for you. beyahc@usc.edu
2. I am fair. When you get an assignment back from me, you should have a good idea why you earned the grade you did and what can be done to improve your writing. However, if things are not clear, let’s talk. The more discussion, the better the understanding.
3. This syllabus is a general guideline for what we will cover during the semester. There will be in-class writing, homework and other assignments. Please suggest topics that are of interest to you and I will do my best to incorporate those ideas into assignments so that we can broaden our horizons into more diverse writing.
4. I’ll guide you along to improve your writing, but feel free to help guide our discussions. Bring to class your questions, observations and opinions about how you see the role of public relations at work in the real world. Our most pertinent and interesting class time will come from what’s happening in our world today.
5. I am available for questions and conversations by appointment. Ready access is through email. I will respond to all messages, unless my message service indicates otherwise.
Communication
I am always available to speak or meet with students to answer questions, review assignments, or share career advice. Please feel free to contact me by email to set up a time to meet. I do my best to reply to all emails within 48 hours.

Internships
The value of professional internships as part of the overall educational experience of our students has long been recognized by the School of Journalism. Accordingly, while internships are not required for successful completion of this course, any student enrolled in this course that undertakes and completes an approved, non-paid internship during this semester shall earn academic extra credit herein of an amount equal to 1 percent of the total available semester points for this course. To receive instructor approval, a student must request an internship letter from the Annenberg Career Development Office and bring it to the instructor to sign by the end of the third week of classes. The student must submit the signed letter to the media organization, along with the evaluation form provided by the Career Development Office. The form should be filled out by the intern supervisor and returned to the instructor at the end of the semester. No credit will be given if an evaluation form is not turned into the instructor by the last day of class. Note: The internship must by unpaid and can only be applied to one journalism or public relations class.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism
Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

USC School of Journalism Policy on Academic Integrity
The following is the USC Annenberg School of Journalism’s policy on academic integrity and repeated in the syllabus for every course in the school:

“Since its founding, the USC School of Journalism has maintained a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found plagiarizing, fabricating, cheating on examinations, and/or purchasing papers or other assignments faces sanctions ranging from an ‘F’ on the assignment to dismissal from the School of Journalism. All academic integrity violations will be reported to the office of Student Judicial Affairs & Community Standards (SJACS), as per university policy, as well as journalism school administrators.”

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course or Learning Lab, without approval of the instructor.
