Course Description
Social theories are analytical frameworks that sociologists use to study and interpret social phenomena. Social theories provide answers to key sociological questions: What is this thing that we call “society”? What is it made of? Who holds power in society? How power is exercised? What are the ‘rules of the game’ that govern our society? How is our society different from that of our parents or grandparents? In order to improve our understanding of society, this class provides an introduction to social theory and to sociological theorizing. We will grapple with the writings of Karl Marx, Emile Durkheim, Max Weber, and W.E.B. Du Bois.

While the writings of Marx, Durkheim, Weber and Du Bois are interesting in their own right, the key test to social theories, especially theories that were written a long time ago, is their ability to shed light on current events and help us better understand the present. Therefore, in addition to grappling with these century-old theories in their own terms, we will apply these classical theories to current day phenomena like the rise of online dating, the gig economy, new media, professional and college sports, patenting, etc.

Learning Objectives

1. Students will interpret select sociological texts
2. Students will describe and explain key sociological concepts and social processes
3. Students will compare and contrast sociological theories
4. Students will apply sociological theories to explain current events and social problems
5. Students will use theoretical knowledge to formulate specific policy recommendations

Prerequisite: SOCI 200 Introduction to Sociology
Course Notes
This course follows the “flipped classroom” model. In “traditional” instruction, students attend a lecture and apply the new knowledge alone when they complete homework. In a flipped course, students are introduced to new content in asynchronous activities (reading and taking short notes, for instance) before the class meeting, and apply the new knowledge during the live session. Completing the readings ahead of class is therefore critical. Otherwise, you will be completely lost during class meetings.

Weekly readings, with the exception of readings in required books, and related pre-class assignments are available in the content folder. The main assignments will be placed in the assignment folder. Lecture slides will be posted in the content folder as well. Please note that outlines are not a summary of the lecture! They are designed to help you understand the structure of the class and follow the argument. So make sure to take notes during lectures and discussions.

This class relies heavily on Blackboard for the administration of various assignments. You may not be familiar with some of these assignments (peer-review modules, for instance). If you experience difficulty posting or reading feedback to an assignment, please contact Dornsife IT Support at 213-740-5555 and choose option 2, Text chat, and Blackboard 9 Support Portal, or send an email to blackboard@usc.edu.

Communication and technology policies:
We want you to feel comfortable asking questions and continue and discuss course materials beyond the class. When you write us an email, indicate the course number and your full name in the subject line. Simple questions will be answered by email, but for more complex discussions students may be instructed to visit office hours. Emails regarding attendance should be addressed to your TA. We will respond to emails within 24 hours Monday-Friday, and on the Monday following a weekend or holiday break.

You are required to bring an internet-enabled device with browser capabilities, such as a cell phone or a laptop to class. During class time, you will use this device only to participate in activities guided by the instructor. The use of devices for other purposes is not permitted during class time unless you have special permission from the instructor. Students who require a laptop to complete in-class work can check one out through the Laptop Loaner Program.

You must complete all course assignments (as described below). Failure to complete one of them will result in an F in the class.

Readings and pre-class work (10%): The readings for each week must be completed prior to the first lecture of the week. On occasion, I will email you short current newspaper articles that pertain to our discussion and you should read those as well. Weekly readings will be accompanied by mini-assignment that must be completed prior to the first lecture of the week. Knowing that you are busy, I allow up to three missed or late pre-class work assignments. If you fail to submit more than three pre-class assignments, your grade will be negatively affected.

In-class work (5%): You are required to come to class regularly, having completed the readings and ready to participate. We will use Qwickly attendance to record attendance. At the beginning of class, please sign in through Qwickly (signing in will be possible during the first 10 minutes of the class). If you have difficulty signing in, please be patient and wait until the end of the class to address the problem directly with me.

In addition, during class, you will be asked to complete some in-class work products individually or in teams. These may include short quizzes, one-minute essays, concept maps, etc. For teamwork, all members will receive the same grade for the grade product. In-class work may be assigned at any point during the class; students who miss the assignment due to arriving late or leaving early will not have an opportunity to make up the work. Knowing that you are busy, I allow up to five unexcused absences. If you miss more than five assignments, your grade will be negatively affected.

Three mini-midterm essays (3X20%): At the conclusion of each part of the class, you will write a short mini-midterm essay. Each mini-midterm will ask you to address a theoretical question and apply sociological theory to current day events or social problems and critically evaluate the merits and shortcomings of different theories. Analyzing current social problems using different theoretical lenses will give you a concrete sense of why theory matters.

Final essay (25%): The final essay will ask you to bring together the mini-midterms you explored previously, revise your interpretations, and critically compare different theories.

Office hours: The materials and concepts covered in this course are abstract and difficult to grasp. At times, you will probably feel lost and that is normal and expected. When that... happens, you should take advantage of our office hours to flesh out matters and make sure that you are on the right track. If you cannot attend the scheduled office hours, please email us and we will find a time that will work for you.

Grading scale:
Course final grades will be determined using the following scale

Assignment Submission Policy
Coursework should be submitted via blackboard on time but I realize that you are busy and, when possible, I will try to be flexible. Late submissions will incur a 10% penalty 48 hours after the due date and an additional 5% penalty each day afterward.

Grading Timeline
We will make an effort to provide feedback within a week from the due date of assignments. You are responsible for viewing our comments on your assignments and notifying the instructor within two weeks if you think a score is missing or inaccurate. If you fail to notify the instructor of any discrepancy, missing score, or contest a score within this timeframe, later challenges will not be considered.

Readings
There are two required and one recommended books for the course:

All books are available in the bookstore but you can probably get cheaper copies online.
When you shop online, you’ll see multiple versions. All of them are fine as long as they use the same translators. Readings that are not part of these books are marked in the syllabus with an asterisk and are available on Blackboard.
