Course Description

This course aims to provide junior-level aerospace and mechanical engineering students with an in-depth introduction to fluid dynamics. Topics covered will include: fluid statics; conservation of mass, momentum, and energy (in both differential and integral form); laminar and turbulent flows; potential (ideal) flows; compressible flows; as well as several applications

Learning Objectives and Outcomes

This course will:

- Introduce the concept of fluids as a continuum media
- Provide exposure to three different analytical approaches when considering fluids problems:
 - o Dimensional analysis
 - o Control volume (integral) balances of mass, momentum, and energy
 - o Differential equations governing fluid flow
- Teach problem-solving strategies in engineering applications of fluid dynamics, including fluid systems in motion and in static equilibrium
- Enable students to identify the most appropriate methodology for solving engineering problems

Prerequisite(s): AME 201

Co-Requisite(s): MATH 245

Textbook and Other Resources

There is no required textbook for this class. Course notes will be provided in electronic format via Blackboard. However, A. Smits, *A Physical Introduction to Fluid Mechanics, Princeton University is recommended. This textbook is available for free at: http://www.efluids.com/efluids/books/efluids_books.htm.

Readings will be suggested from the book to supplement course notes. Other good resources:

- B.R. Munson, D. F. Young, and T. H. Okiishi, Fundamentals of Fluid Mechanics, Wiley
- R. L. Panton, Incompressible Flow, Wiley
- F. M. White, Fluid Mechanics, McGraw-Hill
- M. Van Dyke, An Album of Fluid Motion, Parabolic Press (a beautiful book!)

There is a series of 39 videos developed by the National Committee for Fluid Mechanics Films (NCFMF) that I would highly recommend for anyone interested in the subject:

Discussion board

Piazza will be used for all electronic discussions. Please post your questions (regarding homework assignments, class logistics, exams, etc.) on these forums instead of using email. You can access these through the Blackboard page for this course.

Gallery of Fluid Motion

We will be running a Gallery of Fluid Motion competition! Students are encouraged to capture images of fluid flow as they go about their daily activities (milk in coffee, cloud formations, waves while surfing etc.) and share them together with a brief description. You may also submit results from simulations. The students who provide the top 10 entries (as judged by your peers) will receive an extra 5% towards their grade. We will use padlet for the gallery submissions. See e.g., <https://padlet.com/luhar/GoFM21>.

Assignment Submission Policy

There will be a total of 8 homework assignments. You will generally have one week for each assignment.

- No late homework will be accepted without prior arrangement.
- Discussion of homework assignments with your classmates is allowed (and encouraged!) but each student should develop and write their own original solution.
- Assignments should be submitted electronically, with legible and logically organized solutions that explicitly include all necessary steps and assumptions (if any) made.
- Course grading policy and letter grade equivalence:

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct

Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.
