This course is aimed at students with an advanced level of proficiency in Spanish. It focuses on the language and culture of medicine and healthcare, combining lectures with interactive activities in which students read, speak, and write in registers specific to medicine and healthcare contexts. Students are required to participate in community-based service-learning (CBSL) projects, volunteering at local clinics and hospitals via USC Trojan Health Volunteers, JEP, Keck School of Medicine of USC, LAC-USC, Children's Hospital and/or other health organizations and producing CBSL project portfolios and presentations.
