Course Description

Like it or not, you are a negotiator. Negotiation is a constant feature of our daily lives. Whether in business, government or the nonprofit sector, in family or in community settings, many decisions today are reached through negotiation. Understanding the principles of effective negotiation and developing skills in this area have become essential requirements for success in business and in life.

MOR 469 provides training in both the theory and practice of negotiation. The course covers the key concepts and principles of effective negotiation and deal-making. It is concerned with the strategies and tactics needed to achieve optimal outcomes at the bargaining table. Key topics include negotiation planning, distributive and integrative negotiation, ethics and power in negotiation, dispute resolution, multiparty negotiation, and international negotiation.

This theoretical treatment is complemented by weekly role-play simulations covering a wide range of business situations in both domestic and international settings. These negotiation exercises will help course participants develop negotiation skills experientially to become skilled, confident, and effective negotiators. The course is relevant to a broad range of negotiation problems that business professionals face across various industries and is appropriate for students specializing in entrepreneurship, marketing, consulting, real estate and mergers and acquisitions.

Learning Objectives

Upon successful completion of the course, students will have the knowledge and skills to:

- draft a negotiation plan and use the appropriate strategies and tactics to create and claim value to achieve optimal outcomes.
- recognize ethical issues in a negotiation and make informed ethical choices.
- explain the role of power and coalitions in negotiation and manage them effectively.
- use negotiation and mediation as a means for resolving conflict and effectively manage difficult negotiation behaviors.
- explain the dynamics of representative negotiations and manage these negotiations effectively.
- explain the dynamics of complex negotiations including multiparty and international negotiations and manage these negotiations effectively.
- evaluate your performance and the performance of your negotiation counterpart(s) and provide insightful, helpful comments and recommendations for improved performance.

Course Format

Lectures, discussions and videos will be used to elaborate on key theoretical concepts and frameworks. They are complemented by weekly role-play simulations. Students will be randomly assigned to pairs or larger groups of students, and each student given a role such as “buyer” or “seller” and confidential written instructions about their role in a hypothetical business negotiation. The two (or more) players will then get together and negotiate. After the negotiation, the class reconvenes to analyze and compare negotiation outcomes and identify the lessons learned and the key insights from the exercise.

Role-play simulations provide participants the opportunity to apply the concepts and principles taught in the lectures and to develop negotiation skills experientially in a low-risk setting. A set of role-play simulations have been selected on a wide range of business situations from a variety of industry settings. Each simulation is designed to highlight specific negotiation concepts and principles and to elicit particular dynamics. The number and type of issues on the table, as well as the parties at the table, will vary. Negotiations will become increasingly complex as we proceed through the course, with each negotiation building on previous ones and introducing new concepts and principles.

Course Materials

Books. Required books are as follows:

1. Fisher, R., Ury, W., & Patton, B. (2011). Getting to Yes: Negotiating Agreement Without Giving In. 3rd ed., rev. ed. New York: Penguin.
2. Malhotra, D., & Bazerman, M.H. (2008). Negotiation Genius: How to Overcome Obstacles and Achieve Brilliant Results at the Bargaining Table and Beyond. New York, NY: Bantam Dell.

Harvard Coursepack (CP). Assigned readings for this course are compiled in a digital coursepack available from Harvard Business School Publishing at the following link:

<https://hbsp.harvard.edu/import/951325>

Additional readings may be distributed in class or posted to Blackboard.

Blackboard (BB). I will post various course materials to Blackboard including the course syllabus, powerpoint slides and assignments. Please check Blackboard regularly for any new information or materials relevant to upcoming sessions. If you have any questions or need assistance with the Blackboard course pages, please contact the Marshall HelpDesk at 213-740-3000 or HelpDesk@marshall.usc.edu.

iDecisionGames.com (iDG). We will use the iDecisionGames (iDG) platform to facilitate the negotiations this semester. This platform includes your negotiation exercise materials and instructions. You will also use it to enter your negotiation results and receive feedback on the exercises. The registration fee covers the cost of the software and the copyright fees for each of the exercises used this semester.

Registering for the iDG platform is mandatory. Please register with iDG and pay the fee using the following link:

2pm section: <https://idecisiongames.com/promo-home?code=MOR-469-2pm>

4pm section: <https://idecisiongames.com/promo-home?code=MOR-469-4pm>

You can also register by going to idecisiongames.com and entering the following access code for your specific section:

2pm section access code: MOR-469-2pm

4pm section access code: MOR-469-4pm

You will receive an email requesting that you confirm your email address. Please check your spam folder if you do not receive the email. If you have checked your spam folder and did not find the confirmation email, please go to idecisiongames.com and click on “forgot password”.

If you have any problems registering with iDG, please email customer support at support@idecisiongames.com. Please note that the iDG software works best when you are using Google Chrome as your browser. Please download and use the Google Chrome browser for all negotiation exercises.

Laptop computer or tablet. Please bring your laptop computer or tablet to every class as you will need it to access your negotiation materials in iDecisionGames (iDG). You will also use it to enter your negotiation results and participate in online surveys before and/or after the negotiation exercises.

Course Evaluation

Your course grade will be determined as follows:

Individual work (80% of total)

Class Participation	15%
Negotiation Journal	15%
Peer Feedback Paper	10%
Midterm Exam	20%
Final Exam	20%

Team work (20% of total)

Team Final Paper	15%
Team Final Presentation	5%
	100%

In order to pass this course successfully, a passing grade (> 50%) must be achieved in the combined average of the individual components and in the combined average of the team components. Please note that if your individual performance in the course is unsatisfactory, it will not be brought up by a good team grade.

Final grades represent how you perform in the class relative to other students. Three items are considered when assigning final grades:

1. your weighted score as a percentage of the available points for all assignments (the points you receive divided by the number of points possible).
2. the overall average percentage score within the class.
3. your ranking among all students in the class.

Class Participation (15%)

Attendance Policy. Classroom attendance is critical in this course. All missed classes will be noted. The policy on missed classes is to allow each student three (3) absences, no questions asked, no penalty. All further absences over this limit will reduce the student's participation grade and final course grade, no questions asked, no excuses of any kind accepted. Students with an excessive number of absences are at risk of failing the course. Only official university engagements, such as officially scheduled USC Marshall sponsored case competitions and sports events, will be accepted as exceptions to this policy. Job interviews are not excused so choose your absences carefully. Habitual lateness and leaving class early, for whatever reason, will be noted as evidence of low course commitment and penalized. Simply put, you cannot learn from our class discussions, and your classmates cannot learn from you, if you are not present.

Students who provide an accommodation letter from the USC Office of Student Accessibility Services (OSAS) are exempt from the above attendance policy. If you have such accommodations, please submit your accommodation document to me as soon as possible. I will then provide a Zoom link for you to join our class remotely.

Due to the current pandemic, if you do not feel well and/or are required to quarantine, please email me as soon as possible to inform me that you will not be attending class. I will provide a recording of the class and an opportunity to make up missed class work and missed in-class participation. Your health and the health of your classmates is most important so you will not be penalized for not attending class.

Please note that MOR 469 is a residential class and in-person attendance is expected. Unless students provide an accommodation letter from USC OSAS requiring remote attendance, there is no option to attend class via Zoom.

You must provide me with at least 48 hours prior notice if you are not able to participate in a negotiation exercise so that I can make the necessary class adjustments. If you do not provide such notice, your negotiation counterpart(s) for the day would be left wondering where you are and many students may end up being inconvenienced. If you must miss a negotiation exercise, you must also indicate in iDecisionGames that you will be absent ahead of time.

Negotiation exercise make-ups are not recommended (barring medical or emergency situations) as they are difficult to arrange. If you do choose to make up a negotiation, it is your responsibility to make the necessary arrangements with your make-up partner. After a make-up negotiation is completed, please email me the results of that negotiation and copy your counterpart(s) on the email message. If necessary, negotiations outside of class may be conducted via Zoom. This should, however, be kept to a minimum. Students who accommodate their classmate(s) by negotiating with them outside of class, but who are still able to attend the class themselves, may either observe others negotiating during the negotiation phase of the class session or arrive to class later for just the negotiation debrief.

Class Preparation. All negotiation exercises require careful preparation. Preparation involves reading the exercise materials and role instructions and drafting a negotiation plan prior to the negotiation. It is imperative that you be well-prepared for each negotiation. A lack of preparation will negatively impact the negotiation process and limit your negotiation counterpart's learning experience as well as your own. Class time will be provided to prepare for some of the negotiation exercises. For the rest of the exercises, students are expected to come to class fully prepared for the negotiation. When group preparation is required, students may need to meet outside of class. To make sure you are all well-prepared for a negotiation exercise, I may ask you to submit your pre-negotiation preparation notes.

Class Participation. Class participation includes 1) participation in the negotiation exercises and 2) participation in the negotiation debriefs and lecture/discussions. Because this course relies heavily on negotiation exercises, your active participation in these exercises is required to ensure the class' success. I expect you to be on time and well prepared for each negotiation. You should also follow all the instructions that are provided for your role. However, you do have the freedom to be creative in how you interpret this information and the kinds of strategies you employ, provided that they do not contradict any of the explicit instructions or fundamentally alter the negotiation's structure. I also expect you to conduct yourselves in a professional manner as in any business setting. Failure to adhere to these basic rules of conduct may reduce your participation grade.

Participation in the negotiation debriefs and lecture/discussions includes both oral participation and written participation in various assignments. Each student has a responsibility to participate in class and enhance the learning experience of all class participants. In grading oral participation, I will look at both the quantity and the quality of your oral contributions.

Higher quality comments:

1. reflect a thorough understanding of the course concepts and principles,
2. offer a unique, yet relevant perspective,
3. demonstrate deep and reflective thought as well as critical thinking,
4. synthesize the comments of others to create new insights, and
5. move the discussion and analysis forward.

If you are not comfortable with oral participation, please let me know at the beginning of the semester and I will work with you to help you overcome this barrier.

I highly encourage you to experiment with different strategies and tactics during the negotiations. For example, if you have never made an irrevocable commitment (“this is my last offer, take it or leave it”), try it out. Because students will be actively experimenting with different behaviors during the negotiations, what happens during a negotiation exercise may not reflect a student’s personality but may rather be a student’s attempt to try out a behavior for learning purposes. As a result, what happens in the negotiation exercises stays in class. Please do not talk about it outside of class.

Negotiation Journal (15%). Improving your negotiation knowledge and skills requires your active planning, reflection and self-evaluation. You will maintain a journal covering all your in-class negotiations. The journal will begin with a statement of your goals for the continued improvement of your negotiation knowledge and skills this semester. For each negotiation, the journal should also include

1. your pre-negotiation planning document including key facts from your role instructions, your best alternative in case no deal is reached, your reservation price, your target price as well as the strategies and tactics you plan to use in this negotiation
2. your post-negotiation reflection where you reflect on your performance and your learning, and
3. your goals for upcoming negotiations

You will end your journal with your ten key take-aways from the course that you will refer to before important negotiations.

The journal will be graded based on the quality and thoroughness of your pre-negotiation planning document and the extent to which you consistently identify negotiation goals, try out behaviors to achieve those goals, reflect on your successes and failures, adjust appropriately for subsequent negotiations, use the concepts and principles covered in class and effectively synthesize your learning in this course into ten key take-aways. More detailed instructions will be provided in class and posted to Blackboard.

Peer Feedback paper (10%). You will draft a 2-page detailed evaluation of your negotiation counterpart’s performance in the New Recruit negotiation. The goal of this paper is to provide meaningful, personalized, and constructive feedback to your classmate(s) and to help them improve their negotiation skills. Hard copies of this feedback paper should be submitted both to me and to your counterpart. More detailed instructions will be provided in class and posted to Blackboard.

Midterm Exam (20%). I will give a midterm exam to test your understanding of material previously covered. The exam will consist of multiple-choice, true/false and/or short-essay questions and will cover the concepts and principles discussed in class to date as well as specific in-class negotiations. More detailed instructions will be provided in class and posted to Blackboard.

Final Exam (20%). The final exam will be a two-hour exam and will consist of multiple-choice, true/false and/or short-essay questions and will cover the concepts and principles discussed in class to date as well as specific in-class negotiations. The date and time of the final exam is determined by the University. More detailed instructions will be provided in class and posted to Blackboard.

Team Final Paper and Presentation (20%). You will work with your team to analyze a recent or historical negotiation situation that you are interested in by drawing on publicly available documents. This should be a negotiation that has already been concluded or will be concluded by the time you complete the paper. It should also be sufficiently complex so that you have enough material to analyze and thereby demonstrate your ability to apply the many concepts and principles from the course to provide meaningful insight into what happened. I have set aside class time during the last week of the course for oral presentations of your final paper. The presentations allow each team to report their analysis to the class. More detailed instructions will be provided in class and posted to Blackboard.

Peer Evaluations. Each of you will complete a peer evaluation of the members of your team with respect to the team final project. The peer evaluation is due on the day your final project paper is due. Scores for individual student contributions to the team final project are assigned by me, based on my assessment of the team's project quality, my observations of the team's working dynamics and thoughtful consideration of the information provided through your peer evaluations.

➤ If you experience any team-related problems (e.g. conflict, free-rider etc.), please let me know immediately. Do not wait until the end of the semester. If you report this problem too late, there is not much I can do.

Classroom Conduct and Netiquette

Because the university classroom is a place designed for the free exchange of ideas, we must show respect for one another in all circumstances. We will show respect for one another by exhibiting patience and courtesy in our exchanges. Appropriate language and restraint from verbal attacks upon those whose perspectives differ from our own is a minimum requirement. Courtesy and kindness is the norm for those who participate in class. I also expect our discussion board to be a safe and respectful environment for sharing our thoughts and ideas.

As mentioned previously, I expect you to join us in the classroom unless you have an accommodation letter from OSAS. In case you are joining us via Zoom, the following netiquette is expected.

Please do:

- log into the meeting early and promptly,
- display both your first and last name on Zoom,
- dress respectfully and keep your background professional,
- attend the meeting from a quiet area, free of distractions, where there is a reliable internet connection,
- minimize distractions by muting and/or turning off your video if necessary and when appropriate,
- pay attention and engage in appropriate tone and language with your instructor and your classmates.

Please do not:

- engage in a simultaneous activity, not related to the meeting (e.g. use your phone),
- have other individuals or pets in view of the camera,
- interact with individuals who are not part of the Zoom meeting,
- leave frequently or not be on camera for extended periods of time.

Technology Requirements

In order to participate in learning activities and complete assignments in this course, you will need:

- a working computer that has a current operating system with updates installed, plus speakers or headphones,
- reliable Internet access and a USC email account,
- a current Internet browser that is compatible with Blackboard (Google Chrome is the recommended browser for Blackboard),
- a working video camera with a microphone for use during Zoom meetings, if any
- Microsoft Word as your word processing software program,
- reliable data storage for your work, such as a USB drive or Office365 OneDrive cloud storage,
- access to Blackboard, and
- access to the iDecision Games (iDG) platform (see instructions under Course Materials).

If your computer does not have Microsoft Word, the Office 365 package is available to you free of charge and allows you to install Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, OneNote, Publisher, and Access on up to 5 PCs or Macs and Office apps on other mobile devices including tablets. Office 365 also includes unlimited cloud storage on OneDrive. To download Office 365, log into your USC student email through a web browser, choose Settings (top right corner), and select Software. If you have further questions or need help with the software, please contact the USC ITS service portal.

Course Policies

Add/Drop Process. If you are absent three or more times prior to September 2nd, 2022, I may ask you to withdraw from the course by that date if you do not notify me prior to your absence. These policies maintain professionalism and ensure a system that is fair to all students.

Course Communication: Blackboard. A Blackboard website has been created for this course at blackboard.usc.edu. You should develop the habit of checking Blackboard on a regular basis. The course syllabus, powerpoints, assignment information, and additional course materials will be posted on this site throughout the semester. Since e-mails sent to the class originate from the Blackboard system, it is your responsibility to ensure that my emails are forwarded to your preferred email account such as your personal Gmail account.

Communication and Entertainment Devices. Laptop and Internet usage is not permitted during class except when authorized by the professor. Personal communication and entertainment devices such as mobile phones are to be turned off and kept off throughout the class session. Receiving or sending communication during class disrupts the learning environment and is rude to class participants. Videotaping faculty lectures is not permitted, due to copyright infringement regulations. Audiotaping may be permitted if approved by the professor. Use of any recorded or distributed material is reserved exclusively for the USC students registered in the class.

Open Expression and Respect for All. An important goal of the educational experience at USC Marshall is to be exposed to and discuss diverse, thought-provoking, and sometimes controversial ideas that challenge one's beliefs. In this course we will support the values articulated in the USC Marshall "Open Expression Statement" available at www.marshall.usc.edu/about/open-expression-statement

Class Notes Policy. Notes or recordings made by students based on a university class or lecture may only be made for purposes of individual or group study, or for other non-commercial purposes that reasonably arise from the student's membership in the class or attendance at the university. This restriction also applies to any information distributed, disseminated or in any way displayed for use in relationship to the class, whether obtained in class, via email or otherwise on the Internet, or via any other medium. Actions in violation of this policy constitute a violation of the Student Conduct Code and may subject an individual or entity to university discipline and/or legal proceedings.

No student may record any lecture, class discussion or meeting with me without my prior express written permission. I reserve all rights, including copyright, to my course syllabi, lectures, powerpoints, exams, answer keys, and all supplementary course materials available to the students enrolled in my class whether posted on Blackboard or otherwise. They may not be reproduced, distributed, copied, or disseminated in any media or in any form, including but not limited to all course note-sharing websites.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

Academic Conduct. Plagiarism – presenting someone else’s ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, “Behavior Violating University Standards” policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on Research and Scholarship Misconduct.

Students and Disability Accommodations. USC welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University’s educational programs. The Office of Student Accessibility Services (OSAS) is responsible for the determination of appropriate accommodations for students who encounter disability-related barriers. Once a student has completed the OSAS process (registration, initial appointment, and submitted documentation) and accommodations are determined to be reasonable and appropriate, a Letter of Accommodation (LOA) will be available to generate for each course. The LOA must be given to each course instructor by the student and followed up with a discussion. This should be done as early in the semester as possible as accommodations are not retroactive. More information can be found at osas.usc.edu. You may contact OSAS at (213) 740-0776 or via email at osasfrontdesk@usc.edu.
