Course Description

An introduction to the fundamental principles and techniques of effective oral communication. Students will frequently prepare and present talks of informative or persuasive intent. Emphasis will be placed on the collection, analysis, and organization of material appropriate to typical public address situations, as well as on the linguistic, vocal, and physical skills needed for effective delivery.

Student Learning Outcomes

By completing this course, students will be able to:

- Express themselves critically and creatively through public speaking
- Understand fundamental speech concepts and strategies and apply them in practice
- Analyze audiences to meet their communicative needs and respect their boundaries
- Conduct research and present evidence as components of speech activities
- Effectively supplement their speeches with multimedia tools and visual aids
- Apply inclusivity criteria to their speeches
- Apply ethics common to the communication discipline in the construction of speeches
- Describe the fundamentals of voice anatomy
- Apply fundamental vocal techniques as part of a healthy speech practice
- Build their confidence as public speakers

Course Expectations / Policies

You are required to take responsibility for your actions and must honor the attempts of others to improve themselves. You will be asked to challenge yourself, expand your comfort zones, and respect those around you. A speech class can be one of the best classes you will take because the classroom environment is so positive and constructive. This class is about growth, yours and your classmates.

This is also a class about self-expression. Everyone in this class will fumble, everyone will improve, and hopefully, everyone will have fun. I will make every effort to create a classroom environment where people feel comfortable and confident expressing themselves. This includes everyone and anyone! Therefore, I will not tolerate racist, sexist, homophobic, condescending, or judgmental language in our class discussions or your presentations. We will discuss a wide variety of interesting issues this semester. You never have to agree with an idea, example, experience, or concept, but you must listen receptively to everyone. If I feel you are unable to offer classmates your undivided respect, you will be removed. The only person you are allowed to make fun of in this class is yourself-and even self-deprecation should be kept to a minimum and only be used as a rhetorical device in a speech.

Description and Assessment of Assignments

Introduction / Interview Speech (5 points): Will be announced in class. Two parts.

Cultural Narrative Speech (10 points): This is a (3-5 minute) speech that requires you to tell the class a story about yourself. This story should exhibit your relationship to a particular culture (i.e. race, gender, sexuality, sports team, academic club, workplace, etc.). No outline is required. Look to the Cultural Narrative Speech Handout for further instruction.

Informative Speech (15 points): This is a (7-9 minute) original, factual speech on a realistic subject to fulfill the general goal of informing the audience. Your Informative Speech will consist of an introduction (attention getter, thesis, & preview statement), 3 main points, transitional devices, at least 4 credible sources, and a conclusion (restated preview statement, thesis, & attention getter). Typed outline required. Look to the Informative Speech Handout for further instruction.

Special Occasion Speech (10 points): This is a (2-3 minute) original speech designed to prepare you for speeches that are given in ceremonial contexts (funeral, graduation, weddings, etc.) No outline is required. Look to Special Occasion Speech Handout posted on my website for further instructions.

Persuasive Speech (20 points): This is a (10-12 minute) original speech designed to inspire, reinforce, or change beliefs, attitudes, values, or actions of the audience. Much like the informative speech, you will be graded on the use of organizational techniques. You will be required to incorporate 6 credible sources. Look to the Persuasive Speech Handout for further instruction.

Midterm (10 points) & Final Exam for (15 points): Multiple Choice & Short Answer. Review for exams will be in class.

Participation (15 points): The class will be assigned participation activities (quizzes, role play, application games, in-class analyses, etc.) almost every day of class. If you are not here, you will be unable to participate which will result in point deductions. Much of your participation will rely on chapter readings assigned in this course. If you are unable to answer particular questions because you are behind in the reading, your participation score will be reduced. Additionally, your participation score also reflects your ability to effectively listen to others. Listening is after all a theoretical component, which the author of your textbook dedicates an entire chapter to. Furthermore, the nature of this class requires heavy personal disclosure of experiences—so if you aren't providing your full attention, you are at risk of seeming insensitive. If you are a bad audience member, if you are caught distracted by a laptop, cell phone, practicing your speech, writing your personal to-do lists, doing homework, fingernails, split ends, a loud candy wrapper, or your peer's love notes, your participation score will be reduced.

And finally, attendance and tardiness impact your participation score significantly. Each tardy results in a .25 -point deduction. It is also your responsibility to make sure that I have you documented as tardy and not absent before you leave. Otherwise, you will receive a .5-point deduction. (Refer to make-ups/unexcused absence policy below for rule contingencies.)

Make-Ups/Unexcused Absences

No "late" papers/presentations will be accepted and no make-up exams will be given unless you have an excused absence. Unexcused absences will result in a grade of zero (0) for all assigned work and presentations.

Excused absences include the following and only the following:

- A physician's verified medical excuse.
- A school-sponsored event (e.g.: debate tournament, athletic event) in which you are a participant. In this case, it is your responsibility to show me written verification from your coach before the event occurs.
- A funeral provided you bring me the funeral program.

If you are tardy the day a speech is due, you will receive a letter grade point deduction for every student speech you miss. You are not allowed to walk into class while others are presenting. Therefore, missing a speech or two could make you 20-30 minutes late.

ACADEMIC HONESTY: Cheating and plagiarism are serious violations of the student conduct code. Cheating or plagiarizing will result in a zero on the assignment or test and may result in suspension, failure in the course, and/or other disciplinary action taken by the College. All incidents of cheating and plagiarism will be reported to the Office of Student Affairs.

Midterm

Homework: Complete Informative Outline. Incomplete outlines will not receive full participation credit, which is the equivalent of losing a letter grade on the Informative Speech.

October 12th

First Drafts of Informative Outlines are due at the Beginning of Class. You will hand in the first draft of your typed outline. I will look over common errors for you to correct before you hand in your final draft. If you do not bring a printed, typed outline today, you lose participation points.

Homework: Rehearse Informative Speech.

October 17th

Delivery Bootcamp

You will continue to work on your outlines but also be prepared to deliver parts of your speech. I may ask you to deliver portions of your speech to the class. Be ready.

Homework: Prepare final drafts and speeches for the next class.

October 19th

Final Draft Informative Outlines and Speeches Due (Group 1)

All revised student outlines are collected on 10/19/2022. Must submit a typed, printed copy. The instructor will not accept rough drafts of outlines that are handwritten, through email, or sent through google docs. If you want credit for your outline, you must turn in a printed hard copy of it when collected. If you have a college-documented excuse (jury duty, hospitalization, etc.), you will have to staple documentation in addition to contacting me through email with the reason for your extension.

October 24 th	Continue Informative Speeches (Group 2) No outlines will not be accepted today.
October 26 th	Complete Informative Speeches (Group 3)
October 31 st	Discuss Fallacies Argumentation Activity

I will look over common errors for you to correct before you hand in your final draft. If you do not bring a typed outline today, you lose participation points.
November 9 th	Delivery Bootcamp. You will continue to work on your outlines but also be prepared to deliver parts of your speech. I may ask you to deliver portions of your speech to the class. Be ready. Homework: Prepare final drafts and speeches for the next class.
November 14 th	Final Draft of Persuasive Speeches Outlines Due (Group 3) (All student outlines are collected on 11/14/2022. Must submit a printed copy.) All outlines will be collected at the beginning of class. The instructor will not accept final drafts of outlines through email or sent through Google Docs. If you want credit for your outline, you must turn in a printed copy of it when collected. If you have a college-documented excuse (jury duty, hospitalization, etc.), you will have to staple documentation in addition to contacting me through email with the reason for your extension. All students are expected to attend all days. Students who are tardy on either speech day will receive a deduction for every speech they miss. Students who miss the first day of speeches will not be given an opportunity to speak if they don't provide a college-documented excuse. This rule was established to maintain fairness for students who attend the first day and are forced to do their informative speech as a result of your absence. This rule also ensures speakers have an equal amount of audience members. Students who miss speech days will receive a 2-point deduction. If you have jury duty or another college-documented excuse, you may make up the participation points (this should be arranged with me in advance).

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support Systems

a. Academic Conduct

Plagiarism

Plagiarism – presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, "Behavior Violating University Standards." Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.

The School of Communication maintains a commitment to the highest standards of ethical conduct and academic excellence. Any student found responsible for plagiarism, fabrication, cheating on examinations, or purchasing papers or other assignments will be reported to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs and Community Standards and may be dismissed from the School of Communication. There are no exceptions to the school's policy.

In addition, it is assumed that the work you submit for this course is work you have produced entirely by yourself, and has not been previously produced by you for submission in another course, without approval of the instructor.
