

POSC 315 – Regulation of Elections and Political Finance

Course Description

Introduction

Ongoing visible, bare-knuckle battles over the laws that govern how elections are run in this country bring into sharp focus the importance of our studies together this semester.

This course examines the evolution of the American laws that determine, among other things:

- who gets to vote, and in which elections, an evolving issue that has been far less settled than you might think;
- when you do get to cast a vote, how much your vote counts;
- who is eligible to run for office;
- where the money that pays for political campaigns comes from;
- the ways in which campaigns can spend money;
- how long elected officials are permitted to hold office;
- the circumstances under which voters can bypass their elected officials and vote directly on proposed laws.

In other words, this course is about who gets to run our country.

The Keys to an Enjoyable and Successful Semester

If you are not familiar with my approach to teaching political science, please make careful note of the following.

First, this class will make sense to you only if you are familiar with recent and current events in American politics. You will be expected to monitor government and political news nationally and in California and to discuss relevant developments in class.

Second, make sure to complete the reading assignments. My lectures will not parrot what's in the book. On the other hand, do not get lost in the reading. You are expected to master the obvious, not the obscure.

Third, show up for class. This course relies heavily on in-class discussion and practical exercises, supplemented by guest lecturers. If you don't show up for virtually every class, it will be tough for you to get a decent grade.

Fourth, pay attention, engage intellectually and be prepared to think things through. You will be expected to learn some basic information, but, more importantly, you will be expected to apply that information in an appropriate way.

Required Reading

There is one book for this course:

*Election Law:
Cases and Material*

*Daniel Hays Lowenstein, Richard L. Hasen, Daniel P. Tokaji and Nicholas O.
Stephanopoulos*

Carolina Academic Press (Seventh Edition)

Additionally, as already noted, you should keep up with events in Washington, D.C. and California by following political news reports. One way to keep pace with political news in California is to log onto www.rumble.com, a daily compilation of newspaper stories about California politics.

Course Requirements and Grading

As explained above, the course requirements are simple: Do the reading, show up, participate in classroom discussion and exercises and complete all written assignments on time.

The components of your grade will be:

- Class Participation (attendance and involvement).....10%
- Midterm.....30%
- Short Preparation Assignments for Final Paper (10% each)20%
- Semester Project/Final Paper (maximum 25 pages)40%

The centerpiece of the course is the semester project/final paper. It will be due at the beginning of the last class. Because you may deliver a brief presentation of your paper during that class, there will be no extensions of the deadline except in the case of documented medical emergency. The penalty for missing this deadline will be one full letter grade for each 24 hours that the paper is late.

To reiterate, attendance and participation are critical, not just for 10% of your grade, but because knowledge of material from the class and guest lectures will be necessary for both the midterm and the final paper. You will be permitted two unexcused absences. After that, each unexcused absence will cost you two points off your cumulative point total for the semester.

A midterm based on the first several weeks of reading and lectures will represent 30% of the grade. The midterm will consist of short answers, not-so-short answers and short essays designed primarily to make sure that you have a solid grasp of the basics of the subject matter before beginning in-depth work on your semester project.

Office Hours

My office on campus is in CPA. I live in Los Angeles and in addition to teaching am engaged in a number of other pursuits including the practice of law with a large global law firm. The only days that you will find me on campus are Wednesdays and Thursdays, to teach. Office hours will be Wednesdays and Thursdays before class, from 2:00 until 4:00 p.m. To ensure that I will be there, please schedule your meeting with me ahead of time.

My law office is downtown, at Wilshire and Figueroa, and many students have found it convenient to meet there. That affords much more scheduling flexibility, as well as the opportunity to meet some of the people with whom I work and get a peek into the world of Big Law. This option has been unavailable during the pandemic, but hopefully that will change.

The most efficient way to reach me is through my law firm e-mail at darry.sragow@dentons.com. The next best option is to call my office. That number is 213.892.2925. You can also call or text me on my mobile phone. That number is 310.968.7725.

Students With Disabilities

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to me as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number for DSP is 213.740.0776.

A Little Background

This is my 23rd year teaching at least one undergraduate political science course every semester. At USC, in addition to this course, I have taught POSC 270, Introduction to Environmental Law and Politics; POSC 325, State Politics; POSC 335, Political Parties, Campaigns and Elections; POSC 347, Environmental Law; and POSC 425, Legislative Process. From 1999 through 2003, for eight semesters, I taught a course similar to POSC 335 at Berkeley.

A number of my former students are now playing major, visible roles in the world of politics and public policy. If you are thinking about a career in politics, government, public policy or the law, this course will be immensely helpful. If you are thinking about a career in some other field altogether, or if you aren't thinking at all about a career, this course will be informative and, hopefully, interesting and enjoyable.

A little online research will give you a sense of my professional background. Suffice it to say that I have devoted much of my life to the formulation of public policy in Washington, D.C. and California.

I am delighted to be teaching this course and hope it will provide you with a valuable understanding of the electoral process in America today.
