WELCOME TO 507

Hello and welcome to CTPR 507. There is no better way to learn how to tell a story than actually going through the process of doing it. This is the beginning of an educational process that was designed to awaken instincts as a filmmaker. Be patient and open to new ideas as you embark on this creative and personal journey of discovery.

The focus of Production I (507) is on learning ways of communicating stories, ideas, feelings, moods, and emotions in cinema. All approaches to cinema will be introduced including non-fiction, fiction, abstract, and experimental. The goal is for each student to learn how to express themselves and reach a place where they can be critical of their own work and offer progressive critiques of the works of others.

Coursework is divided into three parts—full-cohort lectures, labs, and lounges. In full-cohort lectures, students are introduced to the six major disciplines: directing, editing, cinematography, production design, producing, and sound. In labs, students explore each discipline in depth through guided opportunities to create individual and small collaboration exercises. All 507 students will complete four short exercises during the semester. Lounges are student-driven spaces to congregate, commiserate and collaborate. Exercises will be assigned, screened, and critiqued there.

Course Goals

- Discover the basic elements of character and story.
- Learn how to tell a story effectively through the use of sound and visual images
- Explore a range of forms and genres—non-fiction, fiction, personal essay, etc.
- Learn to give and receive cogent and constructive critiques of work
- Acquire ethical standards for filmmaking
- Develop fundamental skills in the areas of producing, directing, cinematography, production design, editing, production sound, and sound design.
- Highlight the fundamental relationship between form and content.
- Become aware of the cultural impact of cinema.

CTPR 507 will cover introductions to these skill sets:

Directing: Develop a comprehensive understanding of the role of the director from script to screen; analyze scenes for production; learn fundamental techniques of working with actors; learn the importance of shots, scenes, coverage, beats, conflicts, moments, transitions, composition, geography; establish aesthetic approaches to the intention and theme of each exercise; and learn strategies for leading and collaborating.

Producing: An overview of the industry and the role of the producer from inception of an idea to release/airing. Examine development, financing, pre-production, production, post-production and distribution from a producer's perspective. The creative, managerial, entrepreneurial and problem-solving skills necessary to succeed will be explored.

Cinematography: The use of images to reinforce a narrative and create an emotion, the concept of the exposure triangle, the properties of light, working with natural light, the functions of a lens, composition, basic electrical distribution, blocking and covering a scene.

Editing: The aesthetics and editorial skills behind the art of telling a story with moving visual images. Learning AVID Tools, Media Management and Editorial techniques used in all genres by exploring dialogue, formal and stylistic editing. Cutting for emotion and character building. Creating tension and suspense.

Sound: The use of Sound Design as a creative storytelling device. Introductory production recording and sound editing. The blending of dialogue, music and effects into a cohesive soundtrack. While the use of music is strongly encouraged, the over use is strongly discouraged. Thornton Scoring Students are not allowed to score CTPR 507 exercises.

STATEMENT ON ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one's own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another's work as one's own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. Scampus, the Student Guidebook, contains the Student Conduct Code in Section 11.00, while the recommended sanctions are located at <http://web-app.usc.edu/scampus/university-student-conduct-code>. Issues of academic dishonesty are subject to an internal SCA review process.

SAFETY GUIDELINES

In addition to the Safety Seminar, students must read The Safety Rules for Student Productions Handbook (available on the SCA Community website in the Production Documents Section within the Student Production Resources). If you have any questions or concerns, please check with your lead instructor. More information about Safety Hazards available on SCA Community.

Any violation of the course and safety guidelines is considered an academic, ethical violation, governed by the USC Code of Conduct and is grounds for confiscation of footage, lowered grade, failing grade, probation, suspension, or expulsion from the University. Ethical violations are enforced by course faculty, the Head of Physical Production, and are subject to an internal SCA review process. Any ethical or safety violation will become a part of the student's record at SCA.
