

CTCS 412

queer and trans of color theories/ imaginaries

this course offers an introduction to queer and trans of color theories. this course will engage primarily with the innovative work of queer of color and trans of color scholars. queer and trans of color critique provides us with compelling frameworks for thinking anew the intersections (and collisions) of race; gender; class; desire; vision; affect and power. most of the queer and trans of color theorists we will engage in this class offer us imaginaries to envision the world beyond the pull of normative whiteness and cisgender heteronormativity.

professor
giancarlo cornejo
tuesdays 2-5:50 pm
SCI 106