Objective: In this course, you will learn how to create computer models of discrete event systems, and how to use these models to make decisions about the design/improvement of the actual physical systems that the models represent. You will learn how to evaluate a business system and identify the input and output variables. You will learn how to evaluate field data to obtain input information and how to evaluate output predictions from the simulation model to select effective operating policies.

Text: Kelton, Zupick, and Ivey, Simulation with Arena, 7th edition (denoted KZI)
Khoshnevis and Palmer, Discrete Systems Simulation (denoted KP, sections on Blackboard)

Course Material: Text sections called out on Reading Assignments, plus topics discussed in lecture by the instructor

Grading Policies:

Points Breakdown -

Quizzes	40
Homework	120
Project	150
Exam #1	115
Exam #2	115
Subtotal	540
Final Exam	150

Course GRADES will be determined by the distribution of point totals for the class. “Natural groupings” will be used to assign letter grades. The highest scoring group will receive A’s, the next group is the B’s, and so on. A single point will not be the difference between any two letter grades. A “gap” must exist to create a grade boundary.

QUIZZES will be posted on Blackboard to check your familiarity with important topics from other courses. References to text sections will be given or supplementary documents will be posted for you to review. Each quiz may be taken as many as three times. The maximum score of the three attempts will be used.

HOMEWORK assignments will be due on the following Thursdays:

August 31; September 7, 14, 21; October 5, 19; November 2, 28 (Tu)

Late homework will be accepted until noon on the Friday (Wednesday) following the original due date. Homework will be graded on an “all or nothing” basis. If a paper shows an answer to each assigned exercise that uses approximately the correct method, the grade for the assignment is 15 points. If any exercise is unacceptable, the paper will be returned with no points awarded. Completions of returned assignments will be accepted for full credit until noon on the Friday after the assignment is returned to the class.

An EXAM will be given on each of the following dates:

Thursday, September 28 and Thursday, November 9

Each exam will cover the material presented up to and including the preceding homework assignment. Points will be assigned to each section of the exam. Partial credit will be awarded according to work shown. No re-takes will be allowed. No make-up exam will be given.

A PROJECT will be due in two parts on the following dates:

Part I – Thursday, October 26

Part II – Tuesday, November 21

The project will involve development and validation of a computer simulation model. For this project, you will work with an assigned partner. The project assignment will be distributed about five weeks in advance of the Part I due date.

Your team's system description and model layout will be due on Tuesday, October 10.

A Peer Review of another team's system description will be due on Tuesday, October 17.

The FINAL EXAM is scheduled for Thursday, December 7 at 2:00-4:00. It will be comprehensive and will be graded similarly to the other exams. A student may elect to omit the final exam, if both exams and the project have been completed.

Academic Integrity:

The University of Southern California is a learning community committed to developing successful scholars and researchers dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge and the dissemination of ideas. Academic misconduct, which includes any act of dishonesty in the production or submission of academic work, comprises the integrity of the person who commits the act and can impugn the perceived integrity of the entire university community. It stands in opposition to the university's mission to research, educate, and contribute productively to our community and the world.

All students are expected to submit assignments that represent their own original work, and that have been prepared specifically for the course or section for which they have been submitted. You may not submit work written by others or "recycle" work prepared for other courses without obtaining written permission from the instructor(s).

Other violations of academic integrity include, but are not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, fabrication (e.g., falsifying data), collusion, knowingly assisting others in acts of academic dishonesty, and any act that gains or is intended to gain an unfair academic advantage.

The impact of academic dishonesty is far-reaching and is considered a serious offense against the university. All incidences of academic misconduct will be reported to the Office of Academic Integrity and could result in outcomes such as failure on the assignment, failure in the course, suspension, or even expulsion from the university.

For more information about academic integrity see the student handbook or the Office of Academic Integrity's website, and university policies on Research and Scholarship Misconduct.

Please ask your instructor if you are unsure what constitutes unauthorized assistance on an exam or assignment, or what information requires citation and/or attribution.

Students and Disability Accommodations:

USC welcomes students with disabilities into all of the University's educational programs. The Office of Student Accessibility Services (OSAS) is responsible for the determination of appropriate accommodations for students who encounter disability-related barriers. Once a student has completed the OSAS process (registration, initial appointment, and submitted documentation) and accommodations are determined to be reasonable and appropriate, a Letter of Accommodation (LOA) will be available to generate for each course. The LOA must be given to each course instructor by the student and followed up with a discussion. This should be done as early in the semester as possible as accommodations are not retroactive. More information can be found at osas.usc.edu. You may contact OSAS at (213) 740-0776 or via email at osasfrontdesk@usc.edu.
