Course Description

The Department of Quantitative and Computational Biology offers a Quantitative Biology (QBIO) major, offering students rigorous background in the quantitative sciences and their application to biology, encompassing methods from computer science, statistics and applied mathematics that are essential for modern data-driven biological sciences. This course is a required course for students majoring in Quantitative Biology with Honors distinction (<http://qbio.usc.edu>).

Course Objectives: The goal of this course is to support, stimulate and evaluate the QBIO honors student writing her/his honors thesis.

Expectations: QBIO 494 students are expected to participate in the weekly QBIO honors class as a means of maintaining communication with the course faculty and other honors students, and to ask questions and exchange ideas based on the oral presentations by fellow honors students.

The QBIO honors thesis committee for each student in class constitutes the course instructor, and students are welcome to invite their faculty research advisor to be part of their honors thesis committee. This committee will advise the student during the thesis preparation and the course instructors will have primary responsibility for grading the honors thesis. Each QBIO 494 student will discuss their thesis with their committee members as part of honors thesis class. The honors thesis this year will be the manuscript of a research paper based on the student's research project. The class participants need to confirm their research project with the course instructors within the initial 4 weeks of the semester.

Course Requirements: Each QBIO 494 student will give one oral presentation presenting the outline of his/her honors thesis early in the semester and a second presentation on his/her honors thesis. This second oral presentation (thesis defense) will be presented to the Honors Seminar at or near the end of the semester. Students are encouraged to invite their research advisers to attend their thesis defense.

Honors Thesis: The finished thesis must be submitted to the instructors by agreed deadline. The student will also supply to the QBIO 494 instructors a final copy of her or his thesis following its defense, so it can be added to a permanent collection of Honors Theses in Quantitative Biology.

Grading: Course grades will be based on presentations, the student's honors thesis, and class participation as follows:

% of Grade	Criteria
20 %	Presentation 1 (about student's honors thesis research project)
40 %	Honors Thesis (written document as evaluated by honors committee)
30 %	Presentation 2 (Honors Thesis Defense)
10 %	Participation, discussion, and feedback of other presentations

Statement for Observance of Religious Holidays:

The university's policy grants students excused absences from class to observe religious holidays (<http://orl.usc.edu/religiouslife/holydays/absences.html>). In this case, please contact your instructor in advance to agree on alternative course requirements.

Statement for Students with Disabilities:

Any student requesting academic accommodations based on a disability is required to register with Disability Services and Programs (DSP) each semester. A letter of verification for approved accommodations can be obtained from DSP. Please be sure the letter is delivered to your instructor as early in the semester as possible. DSP is located in STU 301 and is open 8:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. The phone number for DSP is (213) 740-0776.

Statement on Academic Integrity:

USC seeks to maintain an optimal learning environment. General principles of academic honesty include the concept of respect for the intellectual property of others, the expectation that individual work will be submitted unless otherwise allowed by an instructor, and the obligations both to protect one's own academic work from misuse by others as well as to avoid using another's work as one's own. All students are expected to understand and abide by these principles. SCampus, the Student Guidebook, contains the Student Conduct Code in Section 11.00, while the recommended sanctions are located in Appendix A: <http://www.usc.edu/dept/publications/SCAMPUS/gov/>. Students will be referred to the Office of Student Judicial Affairs and Community Standards for further review, should there be any suspicion of academic dishonesty. The Review process can be found at: <http://www.usc.edu/student-affairs/SJACS/>.

Statement on Academic Conduct and Support SystemsAcademic Conduct:

Plagiarism – presenting someone else's ideas as your own, either verbatim or recast in your own words – is a serious academic offense with serious consequences. Please familiarize yourself with the discussion of plagiarism in SCampus in Part B, Section 11, "Behavior Violating University Standards" policy.usc.edu/scampus-part-b. Other forms of academic dishonesty are equally unacceptable. See additional information in SCampus and university policies on scientific misconduct, policy.usc.edu/scientific-misconduct.
