

CTCS 394: HISTORY OF AMERICAN CINEMA SINCE 1960

PROF. COURTNEY WHITE

NCT

WEDNESDAYS 2- 5:50PM

Hollywood may form its backbone, but American cinema is so much more than “the industry” - especially since the major studios lost their stranglehold on production following World War II. In this course, we’ll explore significant developments that have occurred since Classical Hollywood dissolved. New Hollywood auteurs and big-budget blockbusters will be studied alongside various independent and documentary movements, situating each within their economic, creative, cultural, and technological contexts.
